MAYOR SUSPENDS SMITH'S SENTENCE

WEEK IS GRANTED TO CONSIDER THE DEFENCE

Council and Spectators Applaud Reply of Engineer to Indictment of Mayor

The reply of City Engineer Smith to the recent indictment of Mayor Morley charging negligence and incompetence against him, was submitted to the city council last night before the largest audience of spectators that has witnessed any council proceedings this year.

Interest in the engineering situation, through the actions of the mayor in threatening suspension and through the attitude of the council in standing by the official, and thus making the issue a question of power between the mayor and the council, was apparently worked up to a considerable pitch, and it found its natural expression last night in the great throng of citizens which crowded every corner of the chamber.

Mr. Smith's reply was a long one. It occupied three-quarters of an hour in reading and killed the voices of the city clerk and his assistant, both of whom had recourse to water before the end was reached. At intervals, and particularly at the end of his reply (which appears in extenso on another page) the sentiments of the audience were discovered to be on the side of the city engineer. A solitary constable could be seen towering above the crowd near one of the entrances to the hall, but while his presence may have had the necessary moral effect of maintaining order without commanding it, his services were never actually required.

As was expected, the reply of the engineer proved to be a complete rebuttal of all the charges levelled against him by the mayor. It went into great detail in regard to some of the works in connection with which the mayor had accused him of negligence or incompetence and showed valid grounds for everything that had been done. Prior to its reading, however, the anticipations of the throng were somewhat dimmed by the mayor's announcement that as the report was an exceedingly long one, and as it had just come into his hands, and into the hands of the aldermen, and also as it was better that they should all have an opportunity of quietly considering it before taking any definite action, he had decided to suspend his suspension of the official for another week, so that it could not possibly be alleged against him that he had endeavored to hasten them in their actions and deliberations.

This announcement was received with a general twitter. Mr. Bradley made the first attack upon the reading of the reply of the engineer, but his voice failing him about half way through he was relieved by Mr. Dowler, who "stayed with it" to the end, though hard pressed by the aridity of his vocal canal.

When the clerk concluded the trying ordeal Alderman Bishop suggested that some time should be allowed the aldermen to give the matter their fullest consideration and accordingly he moved that the matter lie on the table for a week.

Ald. Peden—I think we have had about enough delay in this matter. I for one am ready at this minute to pass my judgment upon it.

It may be recalled that Ald. Peden was the only member of the board who claimed that he did not have enough information to vote on a question relating to the engineer at a recent meeting.

It was then suggested by the mayor that a special meeting be held on Tuesday, and this was agreed to. Whatever happens on Tuesday, however, it is not likely that the threatened suspension of the city engineer will take effect until next Saturday.

NEW CHAIRMAN.

R. F. Leonard to Succeed Hon. S. N. Parent on Transcontinental Railway Commission.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—R. F. Leonard, a well known railroad engineer of St. Catherines, Ont., will succeed Hon. S. N. Parent as chairman of the National Transcontinental Railway Commission. While not widely known, Mr. Leonard has a reputation as a railway man.

HAZELTON MINING DEAL.

Prince Rupert, Oct. 21.—News has reached here to-day from Hazelton that the Rocher de Boule group of claims, the show group in the Hazelton district, were taken over last night by John F. Cowan of Salt Lake City. A quarter of a million, part in cash and part in stock, was paid for the property. Mr. Cowan left this morning for Seattle on the Prince Rupert.

SEEKS EXTENSION OF TIME.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—Notice has been given that the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway Company will apply to parliament next session for an extension of time within which to construct its authorized branch lines

SCHOOL TEACHER ENDED HER LIFE

DROWNED HERSELF IN FIT OF DESPONDENCY

Verdict of Coroner's Jury Disposes of Rumors in Connection With Tragedy

Parry Sound, Ont., Oct. 21.—The inquest into the death of Miss Violet Smith, who for a little over five weeks had taught the school at Dillonsport, an isolated and desolate neighborhood 23 miles north of here, and who disappeared from the house of Mr. Peter Ramsay near the school, at 7.30 o'clock on Monday morning, Oct. 9, her body being found in the Shebashekong river, a quarter of a mile back of the Ramsay house, on Thursday, was held at the Dillonsport schoolhouse Friday and a verdict of suicide was brought in.

The verdict said that Miss Smith ended her own life and that a depressed mental state brought on by the recent death of her mother, had rapidly developed a tubercular effect in the girl. Worry over some trouble in connection with the conduct of the school were the strong factors in impelling the girl to commit suicide.

Coroner Davis of Parry Sound conducted the inquest. District Crown Attorney Haight examined the witnesses and doctors M. H. Lambert and J. H. Tandy performed the post-mortem examination. Coroner Davis was assisted by Provincial Detective Markle.

The critical feature of the inquest was the post-mortem examination and the report on this presented by Dr. Lambert at the adjourned session in the afternoon. It showed that there were no external marks of violence on the deceased and that the internal organs were normal with the exception of the left lung, which had symptoms of consumption developed to a marked degree.

Coroner Davis, in addressing the jury, pointed out that the evidence produced, especially that contained in the post-mortem report, was highly satisfactory in that it disposed of ugly rumors, and satisfied beyond a doubt that Miss Smith ended her own life by drowning and that a depressed mental condition brought on by worry was the cause. Crown Attorney Haight expressed pleasure at the character of the post-mortem report, which he said exonerated different members of the Port Dillon community, who, it was rumored, were implicated in the tragedy.

No letter or note of any kind was found on the person of the drowned girl explaining her reason for ending her own life.

M'NAMARA TRIAL.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 21.—There was no session of court to-day in the McNamara murder trial.

GATHERING EVIDENCE AGAINST MINISTER

Pastor Will Be Placed on Trial on October 31, Day Set for the Wedding

Boston, Mass., Oct. 21.—Rev. C. V. T. Richeson, pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist church of Cambridge, awoke to-day somewhat refreshed, to begin his first full day in the county jail on Charles street, where he is to remain until Tuesday, October 31, the date which had been set for his marriage to Miss Violet Edmands, daughter of Moses Grant Edmands, a wealthy resident of Chestnut Hill section of Brookline. Instead of being married on that day the minister will appear in court charged with murdering Miss Avis Linnell, attending the New England Conservatory of Music, and a Sunday school teacher at Tremont Temple.

To-day the police began their work of gathering evidence in the case. The actual delivery of poison to Miss Linnell and the identity of those with whom she dined last Saturday evening are of vital importance.

Chief Dugan claims to have learned that Mr. Richeson dined last Saturday at the home of Mrs. Frank Riley of Somerville, a member of the Emmanuel Baptist church. According to the police, Mrs. Riley has said that on this occasion Richeson threw himself on a couch and exclaimed that he had lost a dear friend and that she had died of convulsions. The police wish to know how the minister knew this friend died of convulsions.

The police are also working on the statement made by John S. Danskin of Cambridge, to the effect that his wife heard Richeson telephone to Miss Linnell at the Young Woman's Christian Association building Saturday. Richeson remains reticent. He has made no statement.

A member of the church said to-day that at the services at the church to-morrow, a statement from Richeson would be read by the clergyman who is to occupy the pulpit.

SPEAKING OF WAR

C. P. R. TO SPEND $5,000,000 ON HOTELS

IMPROVEMENTS ALONG THE ENTIRE SYSTEM

New Hotel at Calgary—Freight Association Regrets Retirement of W. B. Bulling

Montreal, Oct. 21.—The Canadian Pacific Railway announces that they will spend over $5,000,000 in hotel extension and rebuilding. Practically over the whole system from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean extensive extensions and alterations are being made and the improvements include the splendid new hotel now being erected at Calgary.

At a meeting held yesterday of the Canadian Freight Association the following resolution was passed: "This association learns with regret that Mr. W. B. Bulling, owing to ill health, has been obliged to retire temporarily from active duty. Its members desire to place on record an appreciation of his services. His long years of experience, his accuracy and strength of memory and the thoroughness of his work, inspired respect and confidence, while his unfailing patience, integrity and courtesy caused him to be held in high esteem and friendly affection by all. It is the hope of this association that complete rest may restore his health and enable him to once again become an active member."

W. B. Bulling is assistant freight traffic manager of the C. P. R. and is exceedingly well known throughout the railway world. His many friends will regret to hear of his serious illness.

CANDIDATES NOMINATED.

Sarnia, Ont., Oct. 21.—West Lambton Conservatives yesterday nominated Hon. W. J. Hanna for the legislature. The Liberals have called a convention for November 3 to nominate a candidate.

Mitchell, Ont., Oct. 21.—South Perth Conservatives yesterday tendered the nomination for the legislature to Hon. Nelson Monteith, former minister of agriculture, who was defeated by Valentine Stock in 1908. He declined, and John Bannewis, of Logan township, was nominated.

NEW ONTARIO JUDGE.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—At Friday afternoon's sitting of the cabinet council J. M. McDougal, K.C., of Hull, was appointed to the vacancy of the Superior court bench of Hull, to succeed the late Hon. L. N. Champagne, who died on Sunday last. Mr. McDougall has enjoyed a large law practice in Hull and district and on several occasions has been Conservative candidate in Wright county. Practically no other name has been mentioned in connection with the vacancy since the death of Judge Champagne.

TOO WET FOR GAME AT PHILADELPHIA

Fourth Game of Championship Series Again Postponed Owing to Rain

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 21.—The fourth game between the Athletics and the Giants for the baseball championship of the world, which was scheduled to be played here last Wednesday, was postponed to-day for the fourth time and under the rules will be played on Monday, or the first clear day.

Rain fell heavier to-day than at any time since the present wet weather set in last Tuesday night.

Umpires Klem, Connolly and Dineen, under instructions from the national commission, went to Shibe park at 7.30 o'clock this morning to make an early decision so that an announcement could be made in New York and other eastern cities within reach of Philadelphia. The umpires agreed before they left their hotel that there could be no game.

CANADIAN CATTLE TRADE FALLING OFF

Raisers Must Reduce Cost If They Wish to Trade With England

Winnipeg, Oct. 21.—Unless the cattle raisers of Western Canada can manage to reduce the necessary cost of raising cattle considerably, they might as well say goodbye to their English market. That is the opinion of W. S. Williamson, who has been interested in the cattle business for nearly half a century, and who formerly looked after the English end of Gordon, Ironsides & Fares. Mr. Williamson is permanently located at Liverpool. He is in Winnipeg just now.

"There is not the slightest doubt," he said, "that Canada is losing the large part of her export cattle trade to the other colonies and the South American republics. Argentina can send meat to England much cheaper than we are doing. As a result our trade is falling off. We used to have from seven to nine thousand head of cattle a week on the Birkenhead dock. During the last two years we have not had more than one or two thousand a week at Birkenhead."

PLEDGE FOR BOY SCOUTS.

Winchester, Ont., Oct. 21.—At the meeting of the Dominion W. C. T. U. yesterday it was decided to ask the government to exact a triple pledge from the Boy Scouts that they shall eschew profanity, tobacco and liquor.

TUG WRECKED ON SUNKEN WRECK

TWO MEN RESCUED BY POWER LAUNCH

Landed at Prince Rupert—Damaged Vessel, With Bow Staved in, Beached

Prince Rupert, Oct. 21.—Wrecked on a sunken rock in a tide-rip at the lonely entrance to Kitkatla Narrows, in the pitch darkness at four o'clock on Thursday morning, the crew of the steam tug A. R. Swallowgett, have just reached here after a narrow escape from death.

With little hope of human ear to hear them, as the vessel keeled over to sink beneath them, Captain Miller as a last resort sprang to the whistle and with the last few pounds of steam blew a last note as the waters flooded his vessel's stokehole. To the great surprise the whistle was responded to by a hail and the power launch Ptarmigan, owned by Captain Rufus Taylor of Porcher Island, loomed up in the darkness. As the little tug with her boys stove was swamped by the waves, Captain Taylor managed to throw lines to the men on board the tug and rescued them. Their vessel had gone down so suddenly that they had not time to cut adrift the ropes that fastened their lifeboat to the deck.

Both boats hail from Porcher Island, outside of Prince Rupert, and were nearly a hundred miles away from home. Each was unaware that the other was in the neighborhood. Captain Miller and his mate, John Brogan, look upon their unexpected rescue as providential, as they would have gone to their graves in the darkness and swift water in another minute. The Ptarmigan managed to keep hold of the tow line of the Swallowgett and although the latter boat was submerged succeeded in towing her to North Arm, where she is beached. It is thought she is smashed beyond repair, as the whole of her bow is staved in with the force she struck while steaming full speed through the narrow entrance to Kitkatla Inlet.

YUKON ELECTION.

Dawson, Y. T., Oct. 21.—The election of the Yukon member of parliament will be held on Monday. Dr. A. J. Thompson, Conservative, and Fred C. Congdon, Liberal candidate, are holding hot joint meetings, scalping one another on their records. Both have formerly served as members.

CAUGHT STEALING GOLD DUST.

Nome, Alaska, Oct. 21.—Charged with stealing $2,000 in gold dust from the sluice boxes of the Pioneer Mining Co., James Eckdale, Slim Hausner and C. Thompson, were arrested yesterday, being caught in the very act of removing the gold.

CROP LARGEST IN HISTORY OF WEST

WHEAT YIELD PLACED AT 169,726,000 BUSHELS

Wet Weather Delayed Harvesting but Had Little Effect on Quality

Winnipeg, Oct. 21.—Supplementary crop estimates are published by the Manitoba Free Press. After losses sustained by the recent bad weather the reports put western Canada's wheat crop at 169,726,000 bushels, the oat crop at 185,570,000, barley at 33,300,000, and flax 6,620,000. According to an estimate by the Free Press on September 4: Wheat crop would be 178,650,000 bushels, the oat yield 223,550,000, barley 33,300,000, and flax 7,820,000. The depreciation in wheat, therefore, due to the delay occasioned by unfavorable weather, is about 8,925,000. Even with this decrease in yield the west still stands to harvest the largest crop in its history, though the wet weather and frost has caused vexatious delays in the moving of the crop.

The above estimate was compiled from the reports of correspondents at over two hundred widely different points throughout the three prairie provinces and the general trend of the reports received was to the effect that while the wheat has been materially reduced the quantity has suffered a comparatively small percentage of depreciation.

As regards the provinces, Manitoba came out best in the showing, most of her crop having been cut prior to the bad spell, while Saskatchewan, the largest wheat-producing province, has suffered the most severe damage from the bad harvesting weather, but even there the opinion prevailed that about two per cent. would remain uncut owing to frost. Reports from Alberta show practically all the crop was cut with the exception of a little late flax.

Grain Blockade.

Regarding the blockade on the Goose Lake line, where farmers are piling their grain in the field, Canadian Northern officials say that owing to this being a new line, coupled with the very bad weather, operation has been difficult and these conditions have been aggravated by the necessity of hauling fuel into the country to avert possible winter distress. The company is making every endeavor to get in cars to farmers.

SNOW IN SOUTHERN MANITOBA.

Winnipeg, Oct. 21.—Snow fell yesterday at Portage, Morden and several points in southern Manitoba. It will have a very bad effect on the threshing.

ONTARIO CABINET MAY BE REORGANIZED

Changes Will Be Made When Hon. J. J. Foy Goes to the Bench

Toronto, Oct. 21.—After the provincial elections it is predicted Hon. J. J. Foy will be appointed to the Ontario bench. It is reported that he has accepted the offer of a judgeship from Mr. Borden. There is now a vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Justice McMahon.

The promotion of Attorney-General Foy will mean a reorganization of the cabinet. The political prophets forecast that Hon. W. J. Hanna will succeed Hon. Mr. Foy and that Hon. I. B. Lucas, now without portfolio, will be provincial secretary.

T. McGarry May Be Selected.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—It is possible that if Hon. J. J. Foy, attorney-general of Ontario, takes the vacant place in the high court bench of Ontario, Thomas McGarry, M. P. P. for South Renfrew, will be appointed attorney-general of the province.

Hon. Frank Cochrane, minister of railways, had a conference, and wise ones say that it had to do with a possible arrangement whereby Mr. McGarry, when named attorney-general, would be re-elected by acclamation for South Renfrew, and Mr. Graham returned unopposed for the federal house, Mr. Thos. Low, M. P.-elect, retiring in his favor.

The presence in the city yesterday of both Mr. McGarry and Mr. Low gave color to the story which was current gossip, but none of the parties concerned would either deny or confirm it. That there is something in the wind is quite apparent, however, and developments will be awaited with interest.

WAS CONSCIOUS OF DEATH.

Montreal, Oct. 21.—Death by electric shock came to Robert Wills in the Canada Rubber Company's establishment. At the same time his fiancee, Miss Winifred Hughes, says she was conscious of a ghostly presence behind her. The two were to have been married at Christmas.

TROUBLE LIKELY TO SPREAD TO PEKIN

MISSIONARIES ARE WARNED OF DANGER

Foreign Representatives Take Steps to Protect the Legations

Pekin, Oct. 21.—There was little in the news received at the capital to-day to reassure the government or relieve the general feeling of uneasiness.

The missionaries in this province, Chi Li, have been warned by students that there will be a revolutionary outbreak near Pekin to-morrow. Considerable credence is attached to the warning as similar advice reached the missionaries at Wu Chang, prior to the rising there.

Evidently trouble is brewing in Tieu Tsin and a telegram from there contains the ominous statement that the yamen of the viceroy at Esi Nan, the capital of Shang Tung province, has been burned.

Consular reports from Ichang, which had been isolated for some days, confirm earlier rumors that the city is in the possession of the rebels. Thus far there has been no disturbance in Ichang with the exception of an agitation on the part of the 15,000 coolies employed on railroad construction who demanded payment of their wages in silver, which cannot be had.

The national assembly will convene here to-morrow. As there is a sentiment in this body unfriendly to the throne, the approaching deliberations are looked forward to with some anxiety.

In view of possible spread of the rebellion the foreign legations are taking necessary military and commissary precautions in this city and at Tien Tsin for the protection of legations and the citizens of respective countries which they represent.

There is no doubt that more serious news than that of the defeat of the government troops by the rebels at Hankow Wednesday was received at Pekin, but not published.

There are persistent rumors that Admiral Sah Ping's flagship was sunk or captured. It is reported that the rebels are now holding Kwang Chow, the narrowest point of the Yangtse Kiang river and that they are also in possession of Ichang and the railroad near Kwang Shui.

The result of Wednesday's fighting has caused a general feeling at the foreign legation that the situation is critical. The diplomats met yesterday and considered China's foreign financial obligations. The government has requested a postponement of the payment of the Boxer indemnity instalments and is eagerly seeking a new loan.

A belated dispatch from Chang Su under date of last Wednesday states that the fall of the city is imminent. The rebels are reported to have posted heavy artillery in a strong position on the hills north of Canton.

Yuan Shi Kai, the newly-appointed viceroy of the province of Hu Peh and Hunan, and Yin Tchang, the minister of war, are at loggerheads. The former is dissatisfied with the preparations made by the minister of war, whom he characterizes as "boastful and incapable."

It is understood that Yuan Shi Kai is considering whether he will take supreme command of the army along the Yangtze river or concentrate his efforts in the recapture of Wu Chang. Should he decide not to carry out either of these proposals, it would be a crushing blow to the government.

The orders issued recently for the dispatch of 60,000 troops now in Manchuria and Shan Tung to Hankow, appear to be treated as a dead letter. There is no sign of any such movement on the part of the army.

The news of the defeat of the Imperial army at the hands of the rebels at Hankow is gradually leaking out. The public is so excited that every possible inflammatory incident, such as the opening of the national assembly tomorrow, is likely to be the signal for a crisis at Pekin.

Thousands Reported Slain.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 21.—A cable dispatch from Shanghai to the Ching Sai Yat Po, a Chinese daily paper, confirms the report as to the defeat of Admiral Sah, who was in command of the Imperial warships, in the attack on

TWO SENTENCED TO DEATH.

Henry Jobes Convicted of Wife Murder —Japanese to Pay Penalty for Crime.

Vancouver, Oct. 21.—For killing his wife with a revolver after numerous quarrels, during which his sons sided with their mother, Henry Jobes last night at the assizes here was found guilty of murder and sentenced to be hanged on December 5.

A Japanese named Tshi will also be hanged in the provincial jail on the same date if no reprieve is granted.

Jobes took no notice of the proceedings at his trial, but previously expressed the hope that he would be sentenced to death. He confessed his crime to the police after hunger had driven him to give himself up.

The streets, now so well-known to the residents of that district as areas cut into ditches piled high with sand and gravel for the laying of sewer pipes, gas mains, surface drains and water mains, were insufficiently lighted last evening when two sleepy horses drawing a weary driver and a ton or so of hay came pondering along straight into the ditch on Fairfield road, tying up traffic. The only consolation the public had was the car service out there is not a swift one in any case.

REALTY MARKET IS SLOWLY PICKING UP

Majority of Dealers Report an Increasing Movement — An Unique Window Dressing

It is hard to define the exact condition of the real estate market at the present time. This is the dull season, and naturally the market is quieter than at other times of the year, but as to whether business is going ahead or going back there is considerable difference of opinion amongst the dealers.

Some say the present week has been better than the previous three or four, while others contend that the movement in real estate is becoming slower day by day. However, in view of the fact that a number of fairly good sales have been made within the past few days, and that they are in the majority, it is safer to accept the opinion of the former.

The influx of investors from the prairie provinces and mainland parts of British Columbia is generally well under way at this time of the year, but so far the local dealers have been rather disappointed in the amount of business done with these people. That they are coming in there is no doubt—the fact that on Wednesday there were in the neighborhood of 100 incomers from the mainland stopping at the Empress hotel is prima facie evidence to that effect—but to use the words of one of the real estate men, "they are not opening their hearts to any great extent."

The demand for residential property is still strong and many of the firms are doing almost all their business in that kind of property.

In connection with real estate it seems not out of place to mention the beautiful window-dressing to be seen at Moore & Johnson's place of business. This firm is one of the youngest in the city, but has a name for energetic and original methods. Among its specialties has been the production of bizarre and attractive window effects, and although Mr. Johnson, who attends to this feature, has exerted his extremely fertile mind with great effect in the past he most undoubtedly has outdone himself this time. The cards advertising property are beautifully colored in harmonious shades and are decorated at the top with paintings of nuggets. Above each of these nuggets is an electric globe, and the switchboard is so arranged that each light will flash in irregular order at intervals of ten seconds. In the evenings the flashing lights lighting up the splashes of gold, bring out the tasteful colorings of the cards and never fails to attract the passers-by in great numbers.

Some of the more important recent sales follow:

The well known real estate firm of Leeming Bros. has put through several sales of considerable importance within the last few days. Lot 1941 on Johnson street, lot 1912 on Superior street, a corner lot on Quebec and St. John streets, and a corner on Quebec and Montreal sold for prices aggregating in the neighborhood of $40,000. A large piece of acreage on Burnside road and several minor lots complete the sales of this firm during the week.

Moore & Johnson sold a house and lot in the James Bay district for $3,500, a lot on Fisguard street for $1,200, a lot running through Fisguard to Grant for $2,600; four lots on Albany street for $3,500, house and lot on Pembroke street, $3,000; lot on Rose street for $850, and two lots in the Beechwood sub-division for $1,800.

F. Landsberg, of the Empire Realty Co., sold lots 1 to 6 and 11 to 16, in block 5, Burleith Park, formerly owned by R. Scott, for $12,600; house and six lots, corner Arm and Craigflower streets, formerly owned by Z. M. Hamilton, for in the neighborhood of $9,000; lot 145A and part of 145, 70 feet by 132, corner Skinner and Alston, formerly owned by E. J. Mosedale, for $6,500; lot 7, block 5, Burleith Park, formerly owned by T. Ashe, $1,050; south half of lots 7 and 8, Stoneyhurst subdivision, for about $2,000; lot 1, Rockland avenue, opposite Craigdarroch, $4,000; house and lot on Taunton street, formerly owned by F. Landsberg, for $2,000, lots 67 and 68, Craigdarroch, formerly owned by McDonald and Raymond, for $3,500 each.

Monk & Monteith have sold six acres at the north end of town for $17,000; four lots at Shoal Bay View for $3,200, and have made several smaller sales within the past week or so. They report that there has been more inquiries during the present week than in the three preceding.

Leeming Bros. sold a lot on Johnson street for $8,000; a lot in the Rock Bay district for $9,500; a vacant lot on Montreal street for $7,000; a house and lot in James Bay for $6,500; a lot on Fort street for $4,700, and several lots in Hollywood Park for $750 each.

The B. C. Sales Co. sold lots in Dean Heights and Kerr sub-divisions; a house and lot on Cloverdale avenue for $3,700, and a house and lot on Alder street for $3,500.

Knott Bros. & Brown, Ltd., report a number of deals closed during the past week in residential and semi-business property. Fairfield and Hillside districts lead in sales actually closed, though the demand in other sections is very satisfactory.

Sales by R. P. Clark include new house and lot on Denman street to a new corner for $3,000; five lots on First street, one lot on Edmonton road, lot on First street, twelve acres off Wilkinson road at about $750 an acre to a local syndicate, and a small frontage on Blanchard street.

A lot on Yates street, between Blanchard and Quadra streets, 60x120, has been sold through Russell & Gregg for $42,000.

The northwest corner of Fort and Vancouver streets, 60x120, has been sold for $50,000 to a Vancouver man, who will immediately erect a three-storey block thereon.

ADVERTISING THE ISLAND.

Irish Shipping Firm Writes for Literature to Distribute Among Emigrants.

Several requests for large quantities of publicity literature have reached the Vancouver Island Development League during the present week. Among them are 200 for the manager of the hotel and travelling department of the Christian Science Magazine, the "Monitor," whose headquarters are at Boston, Massachusetts.

A large shipping firm in Belfast, McCalla & Co., applied for Vancouver Island literature to be distributed to emigrants booked through them and have had their request complied with.

In connection with advertising work the slides for Miss Agnes Deans Cameron's lectures in England have been forwarded. They comprise a large number of colored ones of different views in Victoria and the Island.

RETURN AS STOWAWAYS.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 21.—After spending six weeks in foreign travel at the best hotels and motoring through the British Isles, Herman Anderson of Erskine, Minn., and James E. Riley of San Francisco returned to the United States as stowaways on the steamship Michigan, which is at a pier here to-day.

The two young men started their tour with a fund of $1,000 each which they had figured would carry them through satisfactorily. But when they reached Liverpool on the return trip they found themselves with only a shilling between them. After appealing in vain to twelve steamers bound westward for a chance to work their way back they decided to ship as stowaways. They still had their shilling when they arrived in Boston.

SMITH'S REPLY TO THE CHARGES

ENGINEER ANSWERS THE MAYOR IN DETAIL

Is Content to Leave Case With the People on His Record

The city engineer's reply to Mayor Morley's indictment of him, as read to the City Council last night, was as follows:

City Engineer's Office,
Oct. 20, 1911.

To the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Victoria:

Gentlemen,—To the following reply, which I have made to the charges preferred against me by the Mayor I ask your closest attention.

Concerning the action of the council of 1910: Immediately after my installation as city engineer of Victoria, I became aware of Mr. Morley's attitude of hostility towards myself. Early in the season of 1910 he endeavored to "poison the mind" of the chairman of the streets committee against me by saying that it was reported that I held stock in a paving company about to operate in the city. On different occasions, in committee meetings, he quoted Mr. Bryson's opinion on engineering matters in direct opposition to my own, as, for example, the suitability of the soil on Linden avenue near May street for a covering of asphalt; the cost of the pavement and sidewalks on Douglas street; also matters dealing with the creosote plant, thus causing a want of confidence between my assistant and myself. Mr. Morley also encouraged Mr. Bryson to confer with him daily, without my knowledge or consent, on matters relating to my department.

By a campaign of unceasing criticism and fault-finding he prejudiced the aldermen against my work, before I had an opportunity of demonstrating what I was capable of. In this connection I would cite his oft-repeated contention that in such streets as Langford street, Victoria West, and Vancouver street, it was unnecessary to expend so much in removing earth for the sub-grade; that I was making them too low, etc. Had I not altered the grade on Linden at Fairfield, where the curb on the east side, built previous to my tenure of office, was 3'-8" higher than the curb on the west side, I should have been guilty of a colossal engineering blunder, to which I would not be a party. The cutting down of the grade at Linden avenue and May streets to the only proper grade was a serious blunder from the mayor's standpoint.

A special attempt was also made to show that the piles for the Ross Bay groynes were improperly placed and would not stand one storm. After fourteen months of use the piles are to-day more solid than when they were put in.

The Rust Negotiations.

By these constant criticisms and misrepresentations he finally convinced the aldermen that my office was in a state of disorganization and I, myself, inadequate to cope with the work, and the climax came when the aldermen allowed the mayor to get in communication with other engineers, though they did not authorize him to ask for my resignation. Following this there was some correspondence with Mr. Rust. Mr. Rust did not offer his services, and that he even allowed his name to be mentioned in connection with the city engineership was due to misrepresentation, as is obvious from the following letter:

Toronto, Sept. 16, 1910.

Mr. Angus Smith, City Engineer, Victoria B. C.:

Dear Mr. Smith,—I see by the press reports that you are having a rather lively time. I hope that I have not been unfortunate enough to be the cause of this trouble.

One or two letters, confidential of course, have passed between myself and the mayor. I certainly did not understand from the letters that the mayor contemplated taking the action he has. With kindest regards, yours truly, C. H. RUST.

Re construction engineer: This has nothing to do with me, as you have doubtless observed, but is simply a lengthy arraignment of the council for not seeing eye to eye with his worship in the matter of Mr. Astley.

Re mayor's letters: Why Mr. Morley should have inserted these communications in his "charges," except to convince the public of his zeal, he has not explained.

Engineer and Solicitor.

Re city solicitor's letter: This letter, which at first reading appears strenuous, has on analysis only four points.

1st. The matter of what should be shown on the plans and specifications has been the subject of considerable consultation and discussion between myself and the city solicitor. Mr. McDiarmid has gone so far as to state that all detail plans and specifications, and all particulars, and even contracts might wisely be attached to the report for local improvement; but he has held in his opinion that only sufficient data or information need be given to show the ratepayers what they were getting, and what the probable cost would be. I assumed that after having given this information, the engineer was empowered to use his discretion in carrying out the work, and if slight changes were necessary, it would not invalidate the by-law. This is always customary on any works for which plans and specifications are made. If it makes the work less costly, the ratepayers are credited with the amount, and if it makes the work more costly, the ratepayers are charged for the cost of the work. In any case, the owners will only be charged with the exact cost of the work.

As soon as this specific case came up, and on further consultation with the city solicitor, I gave specific instructions to my assistants to show clearly the figures and dimensions of the different local improvements, and have given instructions to have the by-laws strictly adhered to.

The "Forgery" Charge.

2nd. In the matter of Courtney street, the report, plans, and specifications were not changed after leaving the engineer's office and the accusation of the city solicitor that forgery was committed in regard to the same, either surreptitious or otherwise, in my office, or that of the city clerk, is absolutely groundless and false. Herewith is attached a letter from Mr. Adam, who had charge of this work in my office:

Oct. 18, 1911.

Angus Smith, Esq., City Engineer:

Dear Sir,—In accordance with your instructions, I have examined the copy of the report of Courtney street between Douglas street and Quadra street, submitted to the council on May 19, 1911, and find that it corresponds with the copy in this office.

So far as I know, no change or alteration has been made in this report after same was adopted by the council.

Yours truly, JOHN S. ADAM,
Draughtsman.

That portion of Courtney street between Douglas and Blanchard streets has been re-submitted to the ratepayers, and has been accepted by them. The portion between Blanchard and Quadra has been approved of as it is, but your council have decided to comply with the wishes of the majority of the ratepayers on this block, and you do not wish to take advantage of the signatures of the wardens of Christ Church Cathedral as being non-effective. I might add in this connection that when the question of paving Courtney street first came up, Alderman Gleason, Alderman H. M. Fullerton and myself met the ratepayers on this street, and the aldermen were of the opinion that the work as originally suggested by me was the proper work.

As to Rockland avenue and Richardson street, these were not reported on nor constructed during my tenure of office, and I fail to see why the city solicitor should associate my name with them.

3. To answer the charge as to the efficiency of the bookkeeping department in my office, contained in the city solicitor's letter, I have only to refer you to the highly satisfactory report presented by the special auditors made for the last few years. Mr. H. P. Orton is the head of this department, and has been for some years. He has always proved himself painstaking and efficient.

4. The city solicitor makes a last charge, to quote his own words, "while in this strain," re the creosote drums sold to Simon Leiser. In October, 1910, the City Council authorized Mr. Morley and myself to arrange with Simon Leiser for the sale of a number of empty creosote drums situate on an empty lot on Telegraph street. Mr. McEachern classified the drums and turned in a report to the accountant's office. Mr. Leiser met the mayor and myself at the city hall and took those drums, agreeing to pay $2 each for the better class and 60 cents each for the poorer ones. There was no written agreement, but it was understood that Mr. Leiser would take the drums, as classified by Mr. McEachern, at once from the lot, and that he would be billed forthwith. For some reason, Mr. Leiser did not remove the drums, and it was only when the city threatened to hold him liable for the rent of the lot that he took them to his wharf. Mr. Leiser now does not want to take the drums, though he gives no reason.

I insert herewith a copy of a letter received from the city solicitor, in regard to the relations between our departments:

October 18, 1911.

Dear Sir,—Referring to your letter, I would say that I don't see why I should be mixed up in this matter any more. Surely I have had enough publicity to last me. However, I have to say that, since the date of my letter, which the mayor quoted, you have exerted your authority to back up the requirements of this department as to the legal formalities to be observed. Yours truly,

F. A. McDIARMID,
City Solicitor.

Following this lengthy communication, the mayor accuses me of being the source of the collapse of the retaining wall on Douglas street. Gentlemen, this wall did not collapse, but merely sprung, and after some excavating, was sprung back again. The inspector, under whose supervision the wall was built, was not retained by the city.

The mayor brings forth the objection that I have no qualified assistant. Instead, I have arranged my department in such a way that there is a competent engineer at the head of each work, who has assistants under him. For example, the Dallas road and sea walls are each under the direct supervision of engineers competent in that particular line of work. The pavement construction is under the direct supervision of Mr. Rodney, an expert in pavement work, and the underground and foundation work is under Mr. Worswick, pavement foreman, and so on through all the different departments. This plan is similar to the plan in use in Toronto, where the city engineer is also waterworks engineer.

When I took office, a number of retaining walls on certain streets had been started but not completed, such as Oak Bay avenue, at the junction, and Gladstone avenue. These were finished, but since the council has formulated its policy there have been no retaining walls built by the city on private property, unless by special agreement.

THINKING THEMES

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

There is an almost irresistible impulse to exaggerate any item of sex or of alcohol. Any surprising fact in these categories is subject to fifty per cent discount. We all love to shock, and there are no such shockers as the two forms indicated.

One of the principles of historical criticism is to reject, at least to suspect, any incident related, in proportion as it is interesting. The rule rests on the solid foundation, that when the narrator strains to make an impression, he is likely to look away from facts to effects.

The sex-anecdotist and rum-relator is a natural born liar. He sins, as the sparks fly upward. He fabricates thrills as unconsciously, mendaciously, and piously as the medieval historians manufactured miracles.

I abhor the village pessimist and his estimate of women. The average remark, "They say he drinks!" is fetid with the smell of false witness. The most abhorrent thing about being respectable, is the way you are forced to listen to lies about those that don't belong.

I believe actors, as a class, are as moral as preachers, that saloon-keepers are quite apt to be sober, that the half-world are as human as the smart set, that most people are slandered, that the stories of Wagner's depravity, and Maupassant's, and d'Annunzio's, and about Daniel Webster's and Poe's alcoholism are nine-tenths roaring fiction. Discount, by at least fifty per cent, all takes with a moral warning.

GUARD THEIR HEALTH!

Children Who Grow Very Fast Need Careful Watching.

Next to infancy, the years between ten or twelve and eighteen are the most critical in life, especially for the boys and girls who grow too fast. Rapid growth and the physical changes that are taking place render them particularly liable to weakness and disorders of the digestive system, kidneys or lungs that very frequently, when allowed to run on, condemn them to a lifetime of suffering.

It is most important that at this period of life those organs which carry off the body's waste and impurities—the bowels, the kidneys and the skin—should be kept active and vigorous.

Nothing will do this more effectively than that good old-fashioned remedy, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. It acts directly on each of these organs, enabling them to do their work properly, and thus keeps the whole system pure and healthy.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are still made from precisely the same formula as when our grandparents used them, for nothing better has ever been devised.

COUNTERFEIT BANK NOTES.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 21.—After having figured in local police annals since November, 1908, variously on charges of having kidnapped his two-year-old baby, assaulted and threatening to kill his wife, R. M. Faulkner, who completed a year's sentence in the county jail in March last, was taken in the toils by federal secret service men again charged with having spurious money in his possession.

Faulkner arrived in Seattle Thursday from Vancouver, B. C., and in the course of the afternoon persuaded F. W. Wonn, a broker, to change one of the $20 notes with which he was well supplied. Although the note was one of the Virginia treasury series issued during the Civil War, so clever was the work done that Wonn had no suspicions and cashed it.

Of the money obtained Faulkner spent $2.25. Shortly after 10 o'clock Thursday evening he stepped before the cashier's window of a moving picture theatre on First avenue and tried to have another of the notes cashed. The cashier turned to Manager Spilzer of the theatre and remarked that the cashing of the note would take all the change. Spilzer looked at the note and pronounced it counterfeit. Whereupon Faulkner brought out a good piece, cashed it, and went inside.

Manager Spilzer summoned a patrolman and pounced on Faulkner and he was lodged in the city jail. Search of Faulkner failed to reveal any of the spurious notes, and attention was then directed to the theatre where a roll of the $20 notes were found tucked away under the seat Faulkner had occupied. Chief Foster of the police department said to-day that the treasury notes were as dangerous as he had ever seen on the coast. They are made from the original Confederate notes pasted together back to back, each side being different. The Virginia issue had plain backs.

DOCTOR MISSING.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 21.—Dr. Joseph Doyle, assistant port physician, disappeared from the quarantine steamer Monica, leaving his coat and hat behind him. It is feared that he lost his life trying to step ashore. Grapplers and divers are searching, but without success up to the present. Dr. Doyle was alone on the boat when he disappeared.

PROGRESS AND SCIENCE.

Less than a generation ago the more liberal minded ecclesiastics denominated science the handmaid of theology. Half a century ago science was decried by the ecclesiastic as the diabolical enemy of theology and, by association of ideas, the enemy of religion. Perhaps the truth is that science is neither the one nor the other; at least not yet. The last it can never be because its sphere of knowledge and power is not specifically religious in the sense in which the term religion is now understood. In time men will come to see that religion includes everything that relates to the welfare of mankind. The distinction which is now made and maintained between what concerns the material welfare of mankind and what concerns his spiritual welfare will be obliterated and when knowledge is perfected mankind will be alive to the fact that there can be no real religious wellbeing unless it comprises physical wellbeing.

It may not be a scientific definition of science to say that its object is to define man's place in the universe; at least that is not yet its avowed object though it is undoubtedly the undefined objective toward which all true science is inevitably tending. When that objective is reached science will include every conceivable feature involved in the welfare of mankind, not excepting the highest spiritual experiences possible to the inhabitant of the mundane sphere and tenant of a mortal habiliament.

The warfare between science and theology arose because theology was—and still is—unscientific and science was untheological. Modern science is more sensible of the fact that its sphere is to be wonderfully extended than theology is sensible of the fact that the welfare of mankind must be determined by the progress of science rather than by the argumentative establishment of metaphysical truth. In other words, science has begun to recognize that, in measuring up to the fulness of its responsibility, it must take cognizance of things—facts, forces and influences—other than material, and unaccountable upon any strictly materialistic evolution and the theory of the universe which it evolved from this hypothesis. It was that hypothesis which brought down upon it the anathemas of the theologues but it was a hypothesis necessary in order to destroy the equally unscientific theory of the theologue. Singularly enough, it was inherent in the nature of science that as soon as it had done this, it must—to save itself—abandon its own hypothesis.

It would be unpardonably commonplace to say that all progress made by mankind has been scientific progress. The evidence is clear, however, that it has not been made by theological progress. It is worth thinking about that theology has been stripped of its superstitions, not by itself, but by the irresistable progress of science. It is yet to be widely recognized that the inspiring life of science which has accomplished this advance is the same life which the theologue has specialized in his so-called "spiritual" systems and which he has limited to a sphere and method of operation which excludes the co-operation of material science. It is the theologue who has been wrong because he had written it down in his thoughts that science is of the devil. The fact of the scientist has forced the theory of the theologue to the wall and compelled it to make a place for the liberal thought without which there can be no progress either in science or in theology.

We shall not deal here with the Esculapian theory of medicine. It was the earliest superstitious form of medical science and is virile to-day—not as a science but a superstition—simply because it is much younger than theology and decrepitude is only beginning to creep upon it. It is doomed, however, as much as are the old theological superstitions but all superstitions die hard because of the inherent and necessary quality of the human mind which depends upon a higher power for the mercies of its wellbeing. In theory that quality of mind is right but—as in the case of all superstitions—in practice it goes wrong. It might shake off the swaddling clothes of belief in special and Divine interference with human conditions and learn that everything "happens" according to law. To find the law and elucidate the conditions of its operation is the legitimate objective of science. It will not have reached its objective until it has found the conditions and the laws of spiritual transformation and elucidated these along lines as different from the theological terms as the known laws of gravitation and biology are different from the dogmas of special creation and miraculous life.

Just now the most brilliant achievements of science have been in the branch called biological science. We say this only because, important as have been the discoveries in astronomical and other purely physical branches, the very nature of biological science gives it pre-eminence. It deals with subjects transcendently higher than mere matter, and it is in the pursuit of this branch that the reverent scientist has been brought to the threshold of phenomena which compel the recognition of other forces than require to be admitted or hypothecated in pursuing any other. It brings him nearer to the compelling apprehension of the mystery of life in a way which discounts all his previously conceived theories of that mystery. He is being compelled to admit that the theory of life involves something more than the phenomena of existence and it has dawned on him that science is a mighty and prodigious concern.

It is just at this point where some of the postulates of the theologian may help him most. We say theologian as distinguished from philosopher because philosophy per se is only a lifeless thing. It is just as good in dealing with mind as physical science is in dealing with matter but neither will reach the truth unless illuminated by the light which the theologue has, hitherto, hidden under his bushel and secreted as his special and exclusive mystery-working agnus Dei to be secluded, brought forth, exhibited, idolized and to work miracles both material and spiritual according to time, place, conditions and other mystical regulations.

The writer makes these observations after a careful review of the discussions which took place along these and cognate lines of thought at the recent gathering of the British Scientific Association. There is no doubt that another year of work such as is being done by many members of this association will greatly clarify the beclouded scientific atmosphere.

White dare not seek election as a cabinet minister in any Toronto constituency.

Le Devoir suggests that Mr. Borden will drop the navy question until the next Imperial Conference, four years hence, says the London Advertiser. It assumes that Mr. Borden will drop the navy in preference to the Nationalists, and it may not be far wrong.

• • •

The Toronto Mail and Empire thinks it is a mistake for Mrs. Emmiline Pankhurst to diffuse her energies over Canada and the United States instead of concentrating on England. As far as the Old Country is concerned, the question of extending the suffrage to women is a live one. In Canada it belongs to the distant future.

• • •

Judging by the number of "Imperial" magazines now flooding the Canadian mails the magazine grafters in the Mother Land are finding a new pasture land in the Dominion. It is significant that every one of these magazines rejoice over the defeat of reciprocity and advocates the high protection principles of the tariff reform party in England.

• • •

"The greatest evil that the cause of municipal reform has to contend with is the mixing of national and state politics with local affairs. As the result of this method cunning and unscrupulous politicians, to gain success, work on the party feelings of people in the national and state campaign to such an extent that they lose sight of the local issue, and in that way get control of the city. It would be better for the cause of good government, if every citizen were an active participant in political affairs. In that way they would be able to outnumber the professional politicians who make their livelihood out of politics."—Charles Steckler.

• • •

Le Devoir charges the Liberal defeat in part "to the votes of immigrant Englishmen," and styles Laurier as "the victim of his infamous policy of intense immigration, which has made of Canada a refuge for the wharf rats of Liverpool and London." While there can be no doubt that the votes of the "British born" were rounded up for Mr. Borden's party it is hardly fair for Mr. Bourassa to characterize these people in such strong terms. Mr. Bourassa is only asserting that the people he so disgracefully insults made common cause with himself and probably for no better or more intelligent cause.

The Montreal Gazette is up in arms against the meddlesomeness of British newspapers in commenting on Canadian affairs. It says:

"The London Westminster Gazette thinks that there is danger of cleavage in the Canadian Conservative government because some of its members favor home rule for Ireland and some are opposed to it. It could be wished that English editors, when they write foolish things, should select some home topic. Some things that come from their pens on Canadian subjects are calculated to make Canadians wonder what kind of a fool England it is that has risen up in the place of the Mother Land of their ideals."

The Tory papers of Canada become very touchy and resentful when a British paper ventures to express a criticism of Canadian Tory affairs. Yet during the recent campaign there was not a single paragraph appearing in very prominent British papers in criticism of reciprocity or in advocacy of Imperialism as it is known to the Tariff Reformers that was not paraded before Canadian readers complimented, and ridden to death. We cordially agree with our Montreal contemporary but we think the rule should apply both ways.

Important Sale To-night and Monday

Men's Suits from $10; Women's Costumes at $18.75, $14.90 and $9.75; also Seasonable Underclothing for Men and Women at Modest Prices

Smart Costumes at $18.75 $14.90 and $9.75

THE MOST IMPORTANT SALE SO FAR THIS SEASON

Although the prices are much lower than usual, the garments are right up to the mark in quality and material and finish; in fact many of these costumes are worth $30, and not one is worth less than $15.

It is impossible to convey to you—through words—the distinctive characteristics of these garments; you must see them to appreciate their beauty and value.

The materials include Venetian cloths, cheviots, mannish suitings and good tweed mixtures, in a variety of colors and the styles are too varied to describe in detail.

AT $9.75, neat Costumes in brown, green and black Venetian cloth. Worth $16.50.

AT $14.90, smart Costumes in novelty suitings and cheviots. Worth to $25.00.

AT $18.75, handsome Costumes in tweeds and plain cloths. Worth up to $30.00.

Distinctive Costumes in Black Velvets

On Monday in the Mantle Department we are showing a very choice selection of Black Velvet Costumes. The coats are semi-fitting and are trimmed in a variety of styles. Some have collars, cuffs and revers inlaid with moire silk and outlined with wide military braid, while others have handsome pointed sailor collars of plain velvet trimmed with braid or inlaid with silks and cloths and finished with a heavy tassel at the back. The lining is an excellent quality of Skinner satin and the skirts are beautifully finished with a panel effect back and front, also neat braid trimmings at the sides. Will you please inspect these garments? We cannot adequately describe them, and unless you see them you cannot fully appreciate their refined beauty. Prices, $75, $65 and $55.00

Men's Clothing as Fine as Can be Made

The new suits that we have ready to wear are a distinct advance over anything previously shown here this season, combining all the distinction of cut and finish which pertains to all high grade made-to-order clothes at a much higher price. See the window displays and judge for yourself.

—A claim of $300 is being lodged against the city by a Mr. King, whose horse and vehicle sustained that amount of damage on Herald street through falling into a trench which was improperly or not sufficiently lighted. The city solicitor, who had inquired into the case, begged leave to fight the case. Such leave was granted.

—It was decided at last night's meeting of the city council to delay the paving of Gorge road until May, on account of the Sooke Lake water scheme. Mr. Meredith, the engineer for the work, recommended the delay. Several of the aldermen were opposed to the delay, but on a division it carried by six to four.

—One result of the recent visit of Herbert L. Riseley to the west from the Bristol Chamber of Commerce and other organizations may be the establishment of a co-operative warehouse in Port Arthur, from which the goods of merchants can be shipped to the west, the proposal being to place the warehouse at the service of merchants exporting to Canada, and then the distribution to take place under a general sales manager. This scheme would greatly increase the trade with the ancient British port, and Mr. Riseley hinted at some such proposal when in Victoria, but nothing was said as to details.

ARION CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Financial Success Has Marked Past Two Seasons—Officers for Twentieth Season

The annual general meeting of the Arion Club was held on Thursday at the home of the honorary conductor, E. Howard Russell, with P. Wollaston in the chair, when the audited accounts for the past season were presented and adopted.

The treasurer's report showed that the season's expenditure exceeded the income by $101.42, but it was pointed out that this was after including the Arion-Orpheus reunion account, which showed a deficit of $172.80, and that but for this exceptional cost of entertaining the visiting club, the season would have resulted in a surplus of $71.38, compared with $29.91 in the previous year.

Apart from the singing members, who all subscribe for tickets, there were 179 associate members who paid $839.75 for 498 tickets for the series of three concerts. This shows an increased membership list, and much satisfaction is felt at this evidence of the continued and increasing popularity of the club.

The balance-sheet shows a surplus of $262.94, comprising cash and a few outstanding debts. The assets also include stock of music $671.08, valued at half cost, and furniture $48.

These reports showed that in both seasons the club has been able by increased patronage to keep within its revenue, notwithstanding the increased expenses and the continuance of the very low subscription rates which were fixed many years ago. All offices are honorary, and the subscriptions are solely applied to the giving of concerts of the highest class at the least possible cost. It was decided to maintain the same subscription rates during the ensuing season, viz., $6, $5 and $4, for, respectively, four, three or two tickets for each of the series of three concerts. Subscriptions will not be received for any one concert and no tickets will be issued at the box office. Intending subscribers should make application at once to the secretary, E. J. Hearn, P. O. Box 888, enclosing remittance for the number of tickets desired for the course.

It was decided to engage for the second concert Mademoiselle Plumb, of Chicago, a well known contralto of the very highest qualifications, who will make a tour of this coast early next year.

The following members were selected as office-bearers for the present year (which is the club's twentieth season): E. H. Russell, B. A., hon. conductor; Herbert Kent, hon. president and sub-conductor; E. J. Hearn, hon. secretary; B. C. Mess, hon. treasurer; D. D. Muir, hon. librarian. Frank Sehl was elected to serve on the music committee in conjunction with the conductor and sub-conductor, and the executive committee consists of all of the foregoing officers with the addition of H. Griffiths.

Business completed a whist drive, kindly arranged by the host as an after recreation, was strenuously entered into, Frank Sehl and J. Walton bearing off the handsome prizes which had been generously provided, and supper brought a very enjoyable annual meeting to its close.

—At 2 o'clock Monday the women interested in the organizing of the Woman's Exchange are to meet Mrs. Halliday in the Alexandra Club committee rooms.

—G. B. L. Rogerson and J. Moss, jr., have gone into partnership as Rogerson & Moss, in real estate, insurance, commission brokers, rent collections and wood and coal agents, with offices at 622 Johnson street. They are agents for Vancouver Island for the British Northwestern Fire Insurance Co. Mr. Rogerson is well and favorably known in business circles, and Mr. Moss has had 13 years' experience with Pauline & Co.

—The First Presbyterian Church choir held a splendid rehearsal last night for the Hallowe'en concert, which augers well for the performance on Thanksgiving night. This choir has made a specialty of Scottish part song singing, which has always proven a feature of their concerts and one of the most enjoyable. The numbers to be sung are "The Standard on the Braes o'Mar," "Fantasia on the Songs of Lady Nairne" and "Blue Bonnets Over the Border," all well known and popular airs. Many other interesting items will be provided which should be attractive to all Scotsmen and their descendants.

—Early in the coming months C. B. S. Phelan, late sub-editor of the Cape Times, South Africa, will be the managing editor of a new addition to British Columbia journalism. The magazine will be called the "Agricultural Journal of British Columbia." C. Devonshire, late manager of the Farmer's Advocate," will be the sub-editor of the new undertaking, and experts in the department of agriculture are to contribute to the columns of the new magazine. The first number will contain an illustrated article on Lieutenant-Governor Paterson's farm, another on the government's Colony Farm at Coquitlam, another on Mr. Wilson's poultry ranch and others on various subjects pertaining to the care and feeding of stock and poultry.

DOES NOT REPRESENT THE TRUE STRENGTH

Rugby Team, Leaving To-day Weakened Because Vancouver Men Are Scarce

Owing to the fact that it is proving a hard task to get the stipulated number of players together in Vancouver there is every likelihood of the B. C. Rugby team not making as good a showing against the Berkeley and Stanford teams as was expected. According to the first arrangement Vancouver was to supply 13 men and Victoria 10, but now this has been changed to 11 from Victoria and 12 from the Terminal City, and even then latest reports showed the latter to be shy two men. The natural consequence is that players of an inferior quality will be taken along.

The weakness will be in the three-quarter line. Victoria only guaranteed to supply one man for that division, but as the mainlanders have been found wanting, has now added another. Thomas, a Welshman, who played with Newport, Wales, before coming to Victoria, is the latest addition to the squad, and will go with the team in the capacity of spare three-quarter. He stands 6 feet 2 inches and looks more like a forward than a three-quarter.

Up to last evening only nine Vancouver men had consented to make the trip. They are McGuigan, Deane, Jewitt, three-quarters; Luke and Watkins, halves; McLean, Smith, Durrant, and Holroyd, forwards. Manager Mackay is trying to secure McMillan and Gibbons, the Argo three-quarters, and Fox, the Crusader forward.

The Victoria players follow: Johnson, full-back; Vincent and Thomas, three-quarters; Newcombe (capt.) half-back; Jeffs, Miller, Brown, Straker, Simpson, Ackland and Sweeney.

According to information from California neither Stanford nor Berkeley is playing up to last year's form and a real strong team from here would be able to make a clean up in the south this fall.

The Victoria men leave on the 4.10 boat this afternoon and meet the Vancouver players, who go down to-night, at the Hotel Butler, Seattle, to-morrow. The team plays at Berkeley October 25 and 28 and at Stanford November 1 and 4. They will be entertained at the fraternity houses of the universities during their stay in the south.

CRICKETERS WILL SECURE A NEW SITE

Definite Announcement Made Concerning Purchase of Cricket Club's Grounds

An announcement has been made by Crawford Coates, secretary of the Victoria Cricket Club, to the effect that definite arrangements have finally been made for the purchase of a new site for the Victoria Cricket Club and the establishment of a club embracing all the conveniences and facilities for entertainment to be found in a modern country club.

A site, comprising about nine acres, and with every topographical advantage, has been picked out, but its location will not be given out, for obvious reasons, until the club has taken steps to render its purchase by any other party or parties impossible. It is thought, however, that it is in the Oak Bay municipality, close to the Bowker residence.

A meeting of the cricketers has been called for next Tuesday evening at the Balmoral hotel, when plans for securing the new site will be fully discussed.

If the project is carried out, and there is no reason to believe that it will not be, Victoria will before next season be able to boast the best equipped and most complete cricket club on the coast. The club house will contain billiard rooms and bowling alleys; on the grounds lawns will be provided for croquet and tennis, and, in fact, the members will not only enjoy the use of the finest cricket ground in the city, but will have facilities for almost any sport they care to indulge in placed at their disposal.

The ladies, the associate members of the Victoria Cricket club, are taking a great interest in the project, and are doing everything in their power to see that it is carried out.

SWIMMING GALA IS OF GREAT INTEREST

Will Do Much to Advance the Sport in Victoria—The Officials

Final arrangements have been made for the swimming gala to be held in the local Y. M. C. A. tank on Monday evening, and, if nothing unforeseen arises, the affair will undoubtedly be run off without a hitch. The 100 yards, ladies, and the 880 yards, open, for the championships of Canada are the main events, but besides these there is a 60 yards backstroke, open, and a 100-yards race for the championship of Victoria.

Two exhibition events are scheduled—a match race between F. V. Henderson, of Vancouver, present holder of the B. C. title in the 100 yards, and J. Cameron, of this city, holder of the 50 and 220 yards provincial championship, over a distance of 100 yards, and an attempt by George Simpson, B. C., mile champion and record holder, to lower the Canadian record in his distance. For the former event a valuable prize is being given by a Vancouver sportsman, and as both men will travel over an unfamiliar distance the race should be hotly contested and productive of plenty of excitement.

The gala will undoubtedly do much towards boosting swimming in Victoria. Heretofore no reliable course has been available for the swimmers, and, in consequence, only the heartiest and most enthusiastic have given much attention to the sport. Not only does the Y. M. C. A. tank afford the aquatic athletes a chance to keep in practice the year around, but it provides a course—albeit a little small for long distance events—on which competitions with outside clubs can be held without fear of interference by the weather, and with an affair like Monday's to give it a start aquatics will certainly jump to a far higher plane in the city.

Around the tank there is accommodation for 250 spectators, and, as that is not many, considering the importance of the events, it will be necessary for those not holding seats to get there early. The events will commence promptly at 8 o'clock.

Besides those mentioned yesterday, an entry for the half-mile championship has been received from Frank Crompton. Mrs. James Hay has undertaken to chaperone the ladies taking part in the championship event.

The officials have been decided upon as follows: Judges, A. B. Patterson, secretary-treasurer, B. C. A. A. U., and Dr. H. J. Wasson, hon. president of the Y. M. C. A. swiming club; starter, A. B. Cotter, secretary-treasurer C. A. S. A. (B. C. branch); timekeepers, J. Stacey, Vancouver rowing club, and W. H. Wilkerson, Victoria; referee, W. A. Long, president C. A. S. A. (B. C. branch); scorer, C. E. Hopper, secretary-treasurer Y. M. C. A. club. The referee's decision will be absolutely final.

—Weiler Bros. have received some very fine shipments of rugs, carpets and squares in the past few days. The display on their second floor is unequalled, and every home lover will appreciate their present display.

The Chicago National League club management has already started in to rehabilitate its pitching staff for 1912. It is understood that left-handed twirlers will be in greater favor next season with the Cubs and following up this idea, Manager Chance yesterday purchased Walter Nagle, a big left-hander from the Newark Eastern League club. In addition to Nagle, who is the first "southpaw" signed since the banishment of Jack Pfeister, the Cubs have added Jake Northrup, of the Reading Tri-state club, a big right-hander, said to be one of the real finds of the lot. The pitching staff as now assembled, consists of fifteen men and others may be signed before the team will be started next spring on its training trip.

The stories that Tecumsehs, Nationals, Montreal and a new Toronto club are to form another professional league at Rosedale, and that the Torontos, Cornwall, Shamrocks or Ottawa are to be ousted from the N. L. U., are denied so far as the Tecumsehs are concerned by Loi Solman. He said the Indians were satisfied with the N. L. U. and would have nothing to do in any rival body and would not be a party to any disruption movement. Fred W. Thompson, former treasurer for Torontos, who is credited with promoting the proposed new league, declined to talk for publication.

Young Kleber, the bantamweight champion of France, is now in England seeking a match with "Digger" Stanley, the English title-holder. Kleber is a shifty youngster, with a kick in his right hand like that of a middleweight. If successful in a match with Stanley the Frenchman will invade America next spring seeking bouts with Johnny Coulon, Tommy O'Toole, Bob Mandot and George Pierce. Although but 18 years old, Kleber has won 33 battles, 23 of them by the knock-out route.

With Jack Johnson in retirement there still seems to be little likelihood of any white fighter re-establishing the supremacy of the race by wresting the crown from the ebony-hued pugs who stand between Johnson and the throng of "hopes." Sam Langford and Sam McVey are capable of beating any white pugilist in the world. Jim Flynn, by virtue of his victories over Al Kaufman and Carl Morris, is perhaps the best white heavyweight, and Langford has knocked him out twice. Jack Lester was easily beaten by Sam McVey. The white hopes are a poor lot. Maybe the fight-following public will yet be forced to depend upon the "come back" possibilities of Kid McCoy.

Notice has been received in the city of the Gold Seal road race for the championship of British Columbia, to be held in Vancouver Thanksgiving Day, under the auspices of the B. C. A. A. U. The distance is not stated in the preliminary announcement, but an endeavor will be made to have the city represented when the event takes place.

It was announced at Montreal Thursday that President Jimmy Murphy of the National Lacrosse Union had suspended Secours and Decarie of the National lacrosse team, until July 1, 1912, one month after the opening of next year's lacrosse season, for their rough playing during the last match between Montreal and Nationals.

Despite the fact that he is 47 years of age, George Nunn, a popular member of the Sixth Regiment, Vancouver, will not only be a contestant in the Gold Seal annual road race on Thanksgiving Day, for the championship of British Columbia, but he will also have the privilege of being officially designated in that long distance hike as Number 1.

Tommy Ryan, the famous middleweight, who, in his day, was one of the cleverest men who ever pulled on a glove, has arrived in Protland to begin his duties as boxing instructor of the Multnomah Athletic Club. This will be Ryan's first experience as a boxing instructor, and he may be like many another famous fighter—absolutely no good as an instructor—but he is far above the average boxer in intelligence, so he is expected to turn out some good boys. In an interesting interview Ryan says that Wolgast is the best of all lightweights.

See that Flexible, Adjustable GILLETTE Blade?

Note the curve that gives the automatic adjustment.

As you slip the razor together and tighten up the handle, the guard curves the flat blade. The tighter you screw the handle, the closer the blade edge fits against the guard, and the lighter the shave. Loosen it a quarter turn and the edge springs away from the guard, giving a closer shave.

That's one reason why, among the millions of GILLETTE users, with every conceivable variety of beard and skin, each one finds the GILLETTE suits his face exactly. That's one reason why

WORLD'S SERIES STARS.

Players Who Shone in Games For Championship in Former Years.

1903—Pitcher Bill Dineen, Boston.
1905—Pitcher Mathewson, New York.
1906—Infielders Donohue and Rohe, Chicago.
1907—Catcher Kling, Cubs; Rossland, Tigers.
1908—Catcher Kling, Cubs.
1909—Babe Adams, Pittsburg.
1910—Pitcher Coombs, Second Baseman Collins, Athletics.

Above is a list of heroes brought into the limelight by the world's series of a past decade. Just now the public is speculating as to which players will draw niches in the hall of fame in the present series. Baker, third baseman of the Athletics, has already made his place secure, and so also has Pitcher Coombs, of the Athletics. If Philadelphia wins it is not unlikely that the names of these two will go ringing down through the annals of baseball as the men who won the world's championship for the Mackmen in 1911. However, the series is not yet over, and it is just possible that some other player might outdo the feats of Baker and Coombs.

SWEDISH SPORTS BOOM.

Approach of Olympiad Gives Great Impetus to Amateur Athletics.

The approach of the Olympic games has given a great fillip to athletic enthusiasm in Sweden: "Both sexes are affected, and more competitors than ever before are striving to secure the national sporting badge, which is conferred in varying degrees on those qualifying in different branches of athletics. The Crown Prince has won his badge among the men, after severe training. Now it has been proposed to issue a special badge for women. It usually takes eight years for a man to win through to the crowning triumphs of a gold badge, but under the proposed conditions for women a silver badge could be won in two or three years and a gold badge after five years.

To win these triumphs they have to pass through four tests successfully. First they must swim 300 metres. Then there is a speed test—either running sixty metres in twelve seconds or 1,500 metres in ten minutes. Or if they are jumpers, they must do at least 80 centimetres in the high jump, or three metres in the long jump. The third section is endurance. They must walk ten kilometres in one and three-quarter hours, run ten kilometres in one hour and fifteen minutes, or cycle fifteen kilometres in one hour. Finally, there is the test of skill, in which they must excel in two items out of auto-driving, archery, golf, hockey, fencing, figure skating, diving, rowing, yachting or lawn tennis.

CONSPIRACY TO BLACKMAIL MEN

BONNYCASTLE DALE IS VICTIM OF A PLOT

Boy Confesses Criminal Plans to Get Money From Victoria Business Man

Bonnycastle Dale, of Sooke, was this morning found not guilty on a charge laid against him by a boy named Arthur F. Dunn, and was shown to have been the victim of a conspiracy on the part of boys to blackmail him. This is the third case on which he has been tried, and Judge Lampman has found him not guilty on each. The second case was concluded yesterday afternoon.

When Dunn was being cross-examined this morning by H. Dallas Helmcken, K. C., he admitted to proposing a conspiracy to blackmail a well known business man of Victoria, regarding whom the boy told the court: "Well, he looked a little bit on the suspicious side and we thought he might be good for $200 if we could find out enough about him." The boy also said if there was any trouble they were prepared to knock the man out. Dunn was 14 years of age on May 21st last.

Having heard the evidence to that extent Judge Lampman said to H. B. Robertson, appearing for the crown: "It is no good going on, Mr. Robertson, I refuse to believe any boy who is as crooked as this one is. A blackmailer is the worst kind of man, and I refuse to believe him."

The accused was then discharged.

Dunn said he wrote a letter to a friend in Victoria alleging that Dale had committed an offence and suggesting that the friend should go to Sooke and take a revolver with him and see if they could not hold Dale up for $200. A postcript to the letter read: "Two hundred bucks, and then Seattle or St. Louis for mine." The letter was placed with the mail to post, but Dale secured it and opened it, and became aware of the contents.

"He called me a scoundrel and an ex-criminal, and said he had opened it accidentally," said Dunn. When Dale got the letter he told the boy he would tell his father, and the boy in the box this morning said he replied: "Within two minutes of my father putting his foot in this shack you will go out on your neck."

Dale had threatened the boy with the reformatory, and the boy replied that if he was sent there he would be a man when he came out and then he "would do for Dale."

He was asked by Mr. Helmcken why he wrote to his friend to take a revolver to Sooke, and replied, "Oh, that was just a side line. The two hundred bucks would have been an end of it and he would have got off easy, too. I won't take $200 from him now, but I would have then."

Replying to Judge Lampman, the boy said it would have done him more good to get the $200 than to start the prosecution, and replying to a question from Mr. Helmcken, if he was prepared to knock out the man whom it was proposed to blackmail, he replied, "That's what."

A Pinkerton detective named Roberts was drawn into the matter and interviews between him and the boy Dunn were had at the Westholme hotel. The boy Stevens and the boy Goodall are believed to have worked together with Roberts, and Dale claims that Roberts offered to stay his investigations if Dale would give him $100. In the first case Dale gave evidence that Stevens was willing to stop for $25, although Dale at that time did not know what the boy meant when he asked for the money.

The second case heard yesterday afternoon was soon disposed of by Judge Lampman who, after hearing the evidence, found the accused not guilty. The boy in this charge was John Goodall.

CHINESE SCHOOL IS BROKEN INTO

Scholars Behind Locked Door Arrested and Charged With Playing Game of Fan-Tan

Eleven Chinese were presented in the police court this morning to answer charges of gambling as the result of a raid made by the police in a big room over 1638 Government street last night. They were remanded until Tuesday on the application of R. C. Lowe, solicitor, who will maintain for the defence that the police broke up a night school, and that gambling was not in progress.

Entrance was gained to the locked room at 6.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when Constable Blackstock burst open the locked school room door and entered the room, followed by a party of police officers. They found eleven Chinese calmly sitting round two long tables undisturbed by the noise of bursting the door, and with slates and pencils in front of them carefully spelling out words of one syllable.

"What does k-i-t-t-y spell?" asked one of the almond-eyed scholars of the policemen after entry had been gained. Others were spelling out c-a-t and d-o-g.

The room was entered on a warrant secured following on reports that it was used for gambling. The occupants made the necessary enquiry as to why the police had burst open the school and then decided to leave. The officers, however, barred the door and made a search of the room. Beneath the floor they found a secret cupboard in which were discovered cloths for gambling tables and other articles used in the game of fan-tan.

The Chinese were taken to the police station and there searched. In all they had over $600 between them. One had $264 and another $259. Later in the evening an elderly Chinese called at the police station and in moderately good English asked why his night school had been arrested.

After having been friends for twenty-five years, James Cross and Robert Brown engaged in a fight on the public street yesterday. This morning, when paying $5 each into court for having disturbed the peace, they remarked they were not fighting, but were just making amusement for themselves.

Robert Scott, a vagrant, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment; and Sam, who was recently found guilty of keeping an opium joint, was found guilty of having opium in his possession and was sentenced to four months' imprisonment, to run concurrently with the six months he is now sentenced to for being a joint-keeper. He is entering an appeal through J. S. Brandon.

B. C. RUGBY TEAM.

Players Who Will Represent the Province Against Universities.

A complete list of the Rugby football players who will represent British Columbia against the Universities of California and Stanford has finally been given out. In the squad are eleven Victoria men and twelve Vancouverites. The latter supply the majority of the three-quarters, while the former are strongly represented on the forward line. The team is:

The matches to be played are against Berkeley, October 25 and October 28 and against Stanford November 1 and November 4. The thanks of the club are due E. E. Blackwood, the Northern Pacific agent, who has gone to great trouble to make the journey for the team as pleasant as possible. He secured them a private Pullman and is himself going to Seattle with the team to see them off and to make final arrangements for the journey.

—At the roller skating rink this evening there will be a mile race between Alexander and Sprinkling, as a final to a series of contests. The previous races were over a half-mile course, but this will be over double the distance, and the former competitors therefore threaten to protest. Either Miss Dunsmuir or Miss Combe will present the medal to the successful contestant.

REACHES VANCOUVER ALONGSIDE BEATRICE

Salvor Tows Injured Steamer Into Port—Crossing Gulf To-night for Esquimalt

Vancouver, Oct. 21.—The C. P. R. steamer Princess Beatrice, Captain Douglas Robertson, which went ashore in Christy Passage last Saturday night, arrived in port last night in tow of the steamer Salvor and today is discharging her cargo of salmon at the C. P. R. wharf.

The Beatrice shows signs of the stranding for there is a hole in the port bow. This has been temporarily repaired with wood, cement and canvas and a save-all net is slung around the patchwork. When pulling off the reef on Noble Island, the rudder and sternpost carried away and this wreckage is lashed to the port side of the Salvor. The Beatrice will proceed to-night to Victoria and go into drydock.

Mariners expressed the opinion today that lights were needed on Masterman Island and Noble Island, and steps will probably be taken by the various shipping associations urging the department of marine to instal beacons on these points.

In connection with the general question relating to the engineership a letter was on the table from J. W. Astley, of Winnipeg, the engineer of that city, who came here recently on the speculation of being drafted into the city engineership of this city. He complained against the language which had been used to describe him by City Engineer Smith and threatened that unless a full retraction was made to himself and to the council he would take legal action to obtain redress. The language referred to was Mr. Smith's statement that the city did not want a man of Mr. Astley's characteristics, and that he had been two years in getting rid of men of his stamp and character. That description was brought about by the suggestion of lack of force on the part of the city engineer in the execution of contracts and the hustling of labor.

Another noteworthy feature in connection with the engineering situation which, however, did not come up at the meeting, was the resolution of the Victoria Laborers' Protective Union passed unanimously last night. The resolution is as follows: "That we, the Victoria Laborers' Protective Union, express our sincere appreciation of Mr. Angus Smith, city engineer of Victoria, for his efforts on behalf of the city workers, and hope that he will long continue as city engineer of this city."

—The ladies of the Daughters of the Empire, the Canadian Club and the Red Cross Society spent a busy morning overseeing the decorations of the Victoria theatre, for the evening Trafalgar Day performance which they are to attend, having the various boxes reserved for them. British and Canadian flags are the predominating decoration and the boxes are draped in them. The shields of the various societies, those used in the coronation parade, are artistically placed about the front of the balconies. To the right of the stage is a large engraving of Queen Mary, and a shield of the King is near by. A number of red cross flags are appropriately placed around, and at the front of the stage is a huge duplicate of the royal crown. The whole theatre will present a pretty sight to those attending the evening performance. The decorations were in charge of Mrs. Pemberton and Mrs. Hasell.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday evening last at St. Paul's Lutheran church by Rev. Otto Gerbich, the contracting parties being Miss Anna Elizabeth Schmelz, oldest daughter of Mrs. Schmelz, of this city, and Mr. Normand Hess, of Philadelphia, Pa. The bride was gowned in a dress of white silk mull, trimmed with lace and insertion, and the veil trimmed with orange blossoms, and her going-away suit was a neat tailored costume of brown cloth. The bridesmaid wore a dress of pale blue pongee trimmed with lace. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 2024 Chambers street. The young couple were the recipients of many useful and handsome presents from their many friends. They left for Vancouver on their honeymoon, and on their return will take up their residents at 2211 Shakespeare street.

INSIDE INVESTMENTS

Victoria's Business District is undergoing such aggressive expansion that property now considered as semi-business must shortly be known as Inside Business Property. There are a few streets which spring directly from the heart of down town which will directly become the main arteries of the business section. Among these is View street. View street property has greatly enhanced in values in the last few months and the indications are that there will be even greater increase in the near future.

We have six lots on this street near Cook street which we can offer at a price considerably below that of surrounding properties. These lots have a frontage of 40 feet each on View street and a depth of 120 feet.

Price $5,000 Per Lot

TERMS—ONE-QUARTER CASH, BALANCE 6, 12, 18, 24, 30 MONTHS

OBITUARY RECORD

The death occurred yesterday of Thomas William Seward, aged 79, a well known resident of this city. Deceased was born in Weymouth, England. He is survived by his widow and two children. A private funeral has been arranged to take place on Monday afternoon at 2.30 from the B. C. Funeral Furnishing Parlors.

The funeral of the late Stephen Christian Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Johnson, formerly of this city but now resident in Vancouver, took place from the Hanna & Thomson chapel this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The cortege proceeded to St. John's church, where services were conducted by the Rev. A. J. Stanley Ard. There was a large number of floral offerings received. Many young friends of the deceased attended. The pallbearers were: B. Johnson, O. Crowther, H. Sivertz, P. Sprinkling, A. Pike, J. B. Johnson. Interment was made in Ross Bay cemetery.

The funeral of the late Ernest Bierman, who died in Los Angeles October 9, took place from the Hanna & Thomson chapel this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services were conducted by the Rev. F. H. Drahn. Interment was made in the Ross Bay cemetery.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Ann Finnerty will take place from the family residence, Finnerty road, Cadboro Bay district, at 8 o'clock on Monday morning, and at 9 from the Roman Catholic cathedral, where services will be conducted by the Rev. Father Leterme.

At the funeral of the late William A. Anderson, which took place from the family residence, 714 Queen's avenue, yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, services were conducted at the house and graveside by R. B. McMicking, of Vancouver and Quadra Lodge, No. 2, A. F. & A. M. The funeral was held under the personal direction of Worshipful Master J. C. McNeill, of the same lodge. The pallbearers were: V. W. Stewart, J. W. Robinson, J. G. Foster, A. Wright, George Perdue and one other. The members of the Victoria Aerie, No. 12, Fraternal Order of Eagles, were present in large numbers and under the direction of President T. F. Geld paid their last respects to the deceased brother. Besides those relatives mentioned yesterday deceased is survived by a father and six sisters in Aberdeen, Scotland.

BOY SCOUTS ANNUAL.

Owing to the large amount of business before the Victoria Boy Scouts' Association at its annual meeting on Tuesday it was decided to adjourn after transacting a certain quantity of business till Nov. 14.

The principal decision reached was to divide the office of secretary treasurer, which A. O. Hughes resigned on taking over the position of scoutmaster of the eighth troop, and to divide the duties between Beaumont Boggs as secretary, and Edwin Frampton as treasurer.

Rev. William Barton was elected chairman, and Messrs. Crompton and Young as auditors, and the following members were appointed to the executive committee: R. V. Harvey, H. H. Woollison, D. James, J. E. Andrews and H. R. Selfe.

A vote of thanks was tendered the sports committee, which was re-elected by acclamation, and the retiring secretary, A. O. Hughes, was also thanked for his valuable services. Lt.-Col. Hall presided.

COMING WEEK BUSY ONE WITH SHIPPING

Seven Steamships Due to Arrive and Depart From Outer Docks—Past Week Good

Victoria's waterfront during the coming week will present a very busy appearance as no fewer than seven big steamships are scheduled to arrive and depart. The shipping is well scattered for the week and the longshoremen will not be overworked as on some occasions. Only on Wednesday will there be two vessels in port, the remainder of the steamships arriving and sailing at the rate of one each day.

On Monday the docks will be clear, but on Tuesday the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Inaba Maru, Capt. Tomimage, will sail for Yokohama and Hongkong with every stateroom aboard her taken and a full cargo of wheat, flour, salmon and general merchandise. Some time on Wednesday the steamship Sado Maru, Capt. Richards, of the Nippon fleet, should dock from the Orient, and the R. M. S. Empress of Japan, Capt. Robinson, is scheduled to sail the same day for the Far East.

It is figured that the Blue Funnel liner Cyclops will reach port late Thursday night from Liverpool via Yokohama. This is the first voyage of the Holt steamship in the trans-Pacific trade for several years, she having been engaged for some time in the service between the Old Country and the Orient. As is usually the case with the Blue Funnellers the Cyclops is bringing a capacity cargo of freight for Victoria, Vancouver and Puget Sound ports.

Saturday will see the sailings of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Mexico Maru for Yokohama with a monster cargo of general freight, including much flour and wheat. The Henly is expected here the same day from Sailing Cruz and the Harrison liner Director is due at the end of the week. The closing week has been a good one, many deep sea vessels docking at the outer wharves.

ONLY ONE STEAMER NORTH NEXT MONTH

G. T. P. Withdrawing Prince George From Run—Rupert Continues Same Schedule

Only one more trip will be made to Prince Rupert this winter by the Grand Trunk Pacific steamer Prince George, Capt. Frank Saunders, as according to the new schedule, just drawn up by the officials of the company, the vessel is to be withdrawn on November 1, and only a weekly service maintained to the north. The Prince Rupert is to continue operating on the same time table during the winter months as she has been this summer.

For some time past the officials have been drafting a new schedule for their boats. On November 1 the Prince George will make fast to the company's docks here and lie up for several months. She will be equipped with oil burners and given her annual overhaul. The Prince Rupert, Capt. Barney Johnson, will be laid up when the work on the George is completed, and undergo a similar overhaul. When the semi-weekly schedule starts next spring the two vessels will both be oil burners, and it is expected that they will add a little to their speed.

The steamer Prince John, Capt. Weirmouth, which has been connecting with the big steamers at Prince Rupert for the past month and taking the passengers bound for Stewart on to their destination, will be operated on a new schedule. She is to meet the Prince Rupert on her arrival at the G. T. P. terminal and proceed to the Portland Canal town, but the rest of the week will be used in calling at coast towns and the Queen Charlotte islands. Among the ports of call will be Port Simpson, Kincolith, Refuge Bay, Skidegate, Queen Charlotte City, Pacofi, Lockeport, Jedway, Ikeda, Rose Harbor, Naden Harbor and Massett.

The Prince Albert, Capt. Duncan McKenzie, and the Henriette, Capt. Buckholtz, will continue on the run to northern British Columbia ports during the winter months. The Prince Rupert will arrive here on Sunday mornings at 6 o'clock, sail for Seattle at 10 and return here on Mondays at 6 a.m., sailing for the north at 10 a.m.

MARINE NOTES

The steam schooner Graywood is reported arriving Thursday at Los Angeles from Tacoma with a cargo of lumber.

* * *

* * *

The British steamer Ethelwolf arrived at Lorenco Marques, Delagoa Bay, October 12, 75 days out from the Columbia River, with 3,650,000 feet of lumber, valued at $42,319.

* * *

With a full cargo of general freight and many passengers, the C. P. R. steamer Queen City will arrive in port to-morrow afternoon from east coast points.

* * *

Bringing many passengers from the islands, the C. P. R. steamer Joan, Capt. Gilchrist, arrived in port this morning. She sails again to-morrow morning.

* * *

The Norwegian steamer Cuzco arrived on the Sound Thursday from Mexico and west coast ports. She will take 2,500 tons of bunker coal before going to Tacoma to discharge ore and nitrate. The Cuzco is owned by W. R. Grace & Co.

* * *

While the damage to the hull of the disabled schooner William Nottingham is slight and the repairs will not cost above $1,000, it is estimated that, including docking, the expense of repairing the vessel by putting in new masts, equipping her sails and gear and fixing her hull will amount to between $15,000 and $20,000.

* * *

The Russian barque Isabel Browne sailed yesterday for the United Kingdom with a cargo of grain. The barkentine Georginia sailed for Australia with a cargo of lumber from Knappton. The British steamer Suveric arrived Thursday evening from the Orient via Seattle. The British steamer Anerley left yesterday for Melbourne with a cargo of lumber.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, above the average level of the lowest low water in each month of the year. This level is half a foot lower than the datum to which the soundings on the Admiralty chart of Victoria harbor are reduced.

STORMBOUND FIFTEEN DAYS OFF TRIANGLE

Quadra in Port After Having Rough Time Off West Coast—Going to Langara Island

Stormbound for fifteen days off Triangle island and encountering heavy weather during the greater part of the time she was off the west coast, the steamer Quadra, Capt. Hackett, of the marine and fisheries department, arrived in port last night. She has been away from port for several weeks delivering stores and supplies at the lighthouses at both the east and west coasts. The steamer went north by the inside passage and came south outside.

For fifteen days the Quadra made attempts to land stores and supplies at Triangle, but the heavy weather frustrated each effort. The wind at times was blowing 70 miles an hour and the seas stirred up were tremendous. On some days the weather was so severe that the Quadra was unable to put out. Capt. Hackett states that the wind was from the southeast and that it blew with hurricane force. When the storm abated somewhat they were able to land the stores, but the work was accomplished under great difficulties, the boat being in danger of being swamped many times.

After the steamer passed out from Quatsino last Monday she experienced splendid weather until reaching port. Going north by the inside passage the steamer had good weather and among the places called at was Egg island, where a great deal of material was landed.

The Quadra is to be sent north in a few days to Langara island with material for the new lighthouse, now being constructed there. She will load a large shipment of lumber at one of the local mills.

Captain of New Zealand Steamship Has Distinguished Record—Forty-Five Years at Sea.

The New Zealand Shipping Company's steamer Remuera left Plymouth recently on her maiden voyage to New Zealand, under the command of Captain Herbert Edward Greenstreet, who is making his eightieth trip to the Antipodes. He has spent 45 years of his life at sea, the last 35 being in the service of the New Zealand Shipping Company. He has steamed or sailed over 2,050,000 miles, and while his first command, the Matura, had accommodation for 4,000 carcasses of frozen mutton, the Remuera can carry over 120,000.

He has commanded most of the company's steamers, and on various occasions has been sent to shipbuilding yards to superintend the construction of new liners. The Raubine, Ripanui, Rimutaka, Rotoroa and Remurea were among the number. Captain Greenstreet can speak authoritatively of the navigation of the Straits of Magellan as contrasted with the rounding of Cape Horn, as he has made the passage of the straits ten times, thus shortening the homeward voyage by 150 miles. He says that the straits are every bit as safe as the Cape Horn passage, the lights being continually added to, but the insurance people prefer to believe that the latter route is the safer.

SHORTAGE OF COAL DELAYS LONSDALE

Steamship Wasted Several Days at Union Bay—Cleared This Morning for Mexico

Owing to a shortage of coal at the Union Bay bunkers, the Canadian-Mexican liner, Capt. Bates, did not sail from this port for Salina Cruz until this afternoon, being about four days late. She reached the coaling port early this week to load a consignment of black diamonds for her Mexican ports of call but had to lie idle there for some time until the supply was replenished.

When the Lonsdale cleared from the outer docks she had a full cargo for the south. After discharging her northbound freight, at Vancouver the steamship shifted to the Fraser River mills and there took on upwards of a million feet of timber. Several thousand tons of coal where taken aboard at Union Bay and at Victoria and Vancouver the vessel loaded considerable general freight.

The next southbound sailing in the Mexican service will be made by the steamship Strathdene, which has been chartered to replace the Henley. This new vessel has just arrived at San Francisco with a cargo of coal for the U. S. government and will come north very shortly to commence loading for her trip. According to the present arrangements the Strathdene will make but one voyage and will then be replaced by the Beckenham. When the three new steamships owned by J. H. Welsford, who recently acquired the interests of the company, arrive here the service to Mexico will be faster and more efficient.

Agents of the company expect that the Henley will arrive in port towards the end of the month. She left Salina Cruz several days ago with about 2,000 tons of general freight.

Tees Sails for Holberg With Big Passenger List—May Leaves for Skagway

Every available berth aboard the C.P.R. steamer Tees, Capt. Gillam, which sailed from here last night for Holberg and way ports, was taken and cots had to be arranged about the ship for those unable to get staterooms. The West Coast steamer had an exceedingly large list of passengers, many of whom were bound for Alberni and Clayoquot. At the present time there is much travel between here and the West Coast towns, and the Tees on every trip has a good list of passengers.

Among those who sailed last night on the steamer were the following: A. E. Pilling, N. P. Whitehead, C. W. Scraff, Miss May Hawkins, Mrs. Anna Leeson, L. A. Thomas, D. Drain, Albert Nelson, O. A. Sherberg, W. J. Bowerman, John Whalen, Miss Apperson, Mrs. Murray and Messrs. Ely, Smith, Goodman and Gardiner. The Tees also had a full cargo of general freight, which consisted chiefly of stores and supplies.

Another C.P.R. steamer cleared from this port last night, the Princess May, Capt. McLeod. She sailed for Prince Rupert and Skagway, and carried a good crowd of passengers as well as a fair cargo of freight. J. H. Bryan, for Skagway, and A. H. Ridsdale, Prince Rupert, were among the local passengers booked for the trip. The May returned to the inner docks yesterday afternoon after having her hull cleaned and painted at the B. C. Marine Railway.

According to wireless messages received here the G.T.P. steamer Prince Rupert, Capt. Barney Johnson, will arrive in port to-morrow morning on time. Many passengers are coming south on the vessel from Prince Rupert. She will make her regular trip to Seattle in the morning and will clear from here for the north on Monday at 10 a.m. The local agents state that they have booked a number of passengers for the next trip of the Rupert.

Steamship Victoria Clears For Alaskan Ports—Remodelled on Return.

The last vessel for Nome this year and her last service as a coal-burning vessel, the steamship Victoria, of the Alaska Steamship Company, sailed from Seattle yesterday for Behring Sea ports. On her return from the Far North the Victoria will be taken to the Moran shipbuilding yards, where she will be converted into an oil burner, new boilers installed and extensive interior alterations made.

The work will cost approximately $100,000, and the vessel will look like a new steamship when she returns to service. The Victoria will have a very light passengers list, as practically all of the travel is southbound from Behring Sea ports at this time of year.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS AT VICTORIA WEST

Western Star Amateur Dramatic Society Presents "A Country Minister"

The second performance of "A Country Minister" by the Western Star Amateur Dramatic Society of Victoria West, given last evening to a crowded house, proved one of the best examples of amateur theatricals seen in Victoria for some time. The Semple hall, which had been engaged for the occasion, proved utterly inadequate to accommodate the audience which desired to see the performance, and on that account it will be put on again next Thursday evening.

Another difficulty which confronted the management was the death of Robert Semple, which prevented the appearance of A. W. Semple, and at the last moment an understudy had to be found in G. Murdock. After the play had been completed, the hall was cleared for dancing, which was kept up to an early hour this morning.

Considering the stage limitations the play could not have been better put on the boards, and every role was carried out with enthusiasm and real desire to realize the characters assumed. The greatest success was achieved undoubtedly by Miss Nellie Oliver as the postmistress, whose amusing dialogues with her rival lovers, from whom to the end she cannot make a choice, kept the house in excellent spirits. The principal of these rustic wooers, Timothy Hood, played by A. J. Clunk, was capitally sustained, while J. F. D. Cochenour, in the minor part of the Deacon, served as a counterfoil to him.

Next to Miss Oliver, M. L. Harby as the Country Minister must be given pride of place. He made an attractive hero, and as dashing as a man of the cloth could well be, while the thoroughgoing villain of drama, Gregory Heath, fell into the capable hands of J. H. Hasenfratz. Miss Ivy Lawrie, as the girl Roxy, was lively and vivacious enough, and a striking contrast to the stately heiress, portrayed by Miss Frieda Hasenfratz.

The minor parts taken by G. Murdock, A. L. Caye, J. Oliver, Miss Ruth Fisher, and Miss Ethel Kennedy, were all in good hands.

As entracts comic selections were rendered by T. Dooley and J. Oliver.

BRITISH NEUTRALITY.

One of the last acts of Hon. Charles Murphy as secretary of state was to publish the following notice in the Canada Gazette:

His Excellency the Governor-General has received a telegram from the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies drawing attention to His Majesty's Proclamation of neutrality on the occasion of the war between Italy and Turkey. The text of the proclamation has not yet come to hand. In the meantime His Excellency the Governor-General hereby charges and commands all subjects of His Majesty within the Dominion of Canada to observe strict neutrality in and during the aforesaid war, and to abstain from violating or contravening either the laws and statutes of the Realm in that behalf, or the law of nations in relation thereto. Attention is also directed to the requirements of the Foreign Enlistment Act and the rules based thereon. All British subjects are warned against any transgression of the same.

The following rules are hereby declared to be in force forthwith:

Rule A—No ships of war of either belligerent may use British waters as places of resort for warlike purposes or equipment, or may leave British waters until twenty-four (24) hours after a ship of either belligerent whether a ship of war or a merchant ship.

Rule B—Every such ship of war shall be required to put to sea within twenty-four (24) hours after entrance unless in the event of stress of weather or necessity for repairs or provisions, in which case it must leave as soon as possible, and certainly within twenty-four (24) hours of completion of repairs.

Rule B is subject to Rule A and time may be extended accordingly. No supplies to be allowed beyond provisions and substance for crew necessary for immediate use, nor coal, beyond what can take the ship to the nearest port of its own country. No ship can coal in any British port twice within three months. No prizes can be brought into British waters.

EXTRA HOTEL SPACE FOR TOURIST SEASON

Brisk Development in Accommodation—"Prince George" Will Be Opened Next Month

The hotel accommodation of the city is to see a considerable extension before the next tourist season commences, the plans of work to be done providing for many new rooms in existing buildings and for at least two new hotels of high class, with a good chance of a third building, entirely leaving out of consideration the proposed G.T.P. hotel on the Belleville street site.

The new Prince George hotel of five storeys at the corner of Douglas and Pandora, will be finished in a week or two, and the architect, L. W. Hargreaves, said yesterday it can be opened for business by the stipulated time, November 15, for the proprietor, Jason Graham. This will provide 111 rooms, a large addition to the hotel accommodation of the city. Work has already been started on the hotel for Challoner & Mitchell, on the north side of Yates street, opposite the recently opened premises of Gordon, Ltd. This hotel, which will be five storeys in height, will possess 80 rooms, and is a luxurious house from the designs of Thomas Hooper. Luney Brothers are the contractors.

These two new hotels, to say nothing of the 90 rooms in the new south wing of the Empress hotel, are assured by the beginning of the tourist season, and represent in themselves at least 280 rooms, or accommodation for probably 400 persons, no insignificant factor in a growing city like Victoria.

Plans were got out two months ago by Hutchinson & Ford for a new hotel at the foot of Yates street for J. Morgan, to be constructed of the favorite pressed brick and terra cotta, and to be known as the Northern, which would contain over 30 bedrooms, but so far the scheme has not advanced owing to various causes. It, however, would be a great improvement to that portion of Yates street, just as the hotel for Challoner & Mitchell will hurry up the rebuilding of the north side of the same street between Douglas and Blanchard.

In addition to the hotels the apartment houses are also being taxed to provide for roomers, and permits have recently been granted to several proprietors, proving that investments of that character are regarded as sound. Another sign of the times, which may be detected here as in other cities, is the gradual abolition of the dining room, or else the practice of sub-letting it, and the establishment of the grill system. Another local hotel this week abandoned the American plan for the European, finding it better in many respects, and others are expected to follow suit.

TWO HINDUS CONVICTED.

New Westminster, Oct. 21.—Guilty in the first degree was the verdict returned by the jury in the case in which Makun Singh and Ishar Singh were charged with wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm. The case occupied two days and was rather complicated, the evidence being hard to extract from the witnesses, who were nearly all British Indians. Following the announcement of the verdict, two of the witnesses, Ishar Singh (brother of the Hindu who was found guilty) and Borg Singh, were arrested and will be committed for perjury.

The occurrence took place last August in the Hindu colony in the lower part of the city, when Dharm Singh was assaulted by the two prisoners. He was passing their house, he claims, on the way to the Hindu temple when the two men came out. One of them grabbed him while the other beat him on the head and back with a hammer.

Another feature of the case was an anonymous letter sent to the chief justice during the hearing of the case asking him "to be sure and convict the accused." The writer, who had apparently endeavored to disguise his handwriting, signed himself "A lover of truth and justice." Chief Justice Hunter read the letter in open court and expressed his intention of handing it over to the chief of police, styling the offence a gross contempt of court.

BODY OF MISSING TEACHER FOUND

Inquiry Opens Into Mysterious Death of Young Woman at Dillonport

Toronto, Oct. 21.—With doctors, attorneys and a hundred sad-eyed settlers gathered about the dripping canvas that contained the body of Violet Smith, the inquiry into the strange tragedy opened yesterday.

Yesterday with the landing of the crown officers at Dillonport the population of the coast area twenty miles around dropped their usual tasks and gathered at the Ramsay homestead. The news that the body of the young school mistress had been discovered in the murkish stream that flows a quarter of a mile past the Ramsay homestead had spread quickly Thursday afternoon. Brock Batten of Port Arthur, and William Beatty of Parry Sound, who discovered the remains gave their version of the matter.

"I had come to the conclusion," said Mr. Batten, "that whatever the theory of the girl's disappearance, the river between the bridges had not been thoroughly dragged. Mr. Wm Beatty and I set out Thursday morning in a rowboat with grappling irons and a pike pole, covering every foot of the bottom. At last about 11:30 o'clock our irons struck an object and by using the pole we lifted to the surface what proved to be the body of Miss Violet Smith. It was almost unrecognizable and had probably been in the water the ten days since her disappearance. We moved the body towards shore and there fastened it to the boat, until the coroner could be summoned from Parry Sound.

"There was apparently no sign of violence, although we did not look at the face at the time. It was lying downward in the water when we left it. No weights were attached to the corpse nor had it been held down to the bottom by any means whatsoever. Dr. Davis, the coroner at Parry Sound, was called as soon as a telephone could be reached, miles away, and arrived yesterday at 8.30 o'clock in a fast power boat.

"With him were Crown Attorney Haight, two physicians to perform a post-mortem, Detective Markle of the provincial police, and Constable William Maligan. Two miles' walk through the wildest forest and swamp brought the party to the humble home of Peter Ramsay, with whose family Violet Smith boarded during the six weeks she was school teacher at Dillonport. The proceedings of an inquest were immediately begun.

"The body with difficulty was brought ashore in a huge canvas and placed at a point near the doctors. The formality of selecting the jury from among the settlers gave some trouble for a time, but the number in attendance made the matter simpler. Then commenced the taking of evidence."

DOCTORS COULD NOT HELP HIM

BUT GIN PILLS DID

"During August last, I went to Montreal to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with Stone in the Bladder. He decided to operate but said the stone was too large to remove and too hard to crush. I returned home and was recommended by a friend to try Gin Pills.

"They relieved the pain. I took two boxes and went back to the specialist. He said the stone was smaller, but he could not remove it, although he tried for two hours and a half. I returned home and continued to take Gin Pills—and, to my surprise and joy, I passed the stone. Gin Pills are the best medicine in the world, and, because they did me so much good, I will recommend them all the rest of my life.

PLAN TO CHECK EVIL OF DIVORCE

Seattle Judge Favors Separate Court to Consider All Domestic Cases

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 21. Judge King Dykeman, of the superior court, believes that a court of domestic relations, to give its entire attention to divorce cases, would cut down the number of divorce decrees granted in King county at least one-third. Judge Dykeman announced his intention of presenting the matter to his brother judges, with the hope of having a judge detailed to the work under rules to be adopted by the bench.

It is believed by Judge Dykeman that the rule could be made without additional legislation, requiring the investigation of all divorce cases before trial. This would give the new court an opportunity to do its work and to heal domestic differences where the causes for divorce were trivial, as many of them are, and to stop in the incipiency the many cases where collusions of husband and wife is made plain.

The court, as operated elsewhere, notably in Chicago, is assisted by an investigating officer, who consults with intending divorcees, advises and assists them in straightening quarrels out and generally works to reunite the belligerent couples. In this he has the advice of the judge of the court.

"I have considered this matter for years," said Judge Dykeman, "and more seriously of late. Chicago is now experimenting with the question, and, I believe, getting good results. In all discussions of the divorce evil no solution has yet been offered. The hands of the judges are practically tied through the limitations of the law. I believe that the parties in 70 per cent. of the cases agree to get a divorce, which is contrary to law, and these people come into court and tell a story that entitles them to a divorce. There is, of course, no opportunity and no machinery with which to investigate these cases.

"I think a court of domestic relations should be established, here on some general lines as the juvenile court. While it would involve the investigation of cases that have no real merit, it would also enable unbiased and disinterested officials to conduct such investigation under the authority of the court, and to endeavor to keep the home intact, rather than to allow it to be broken up for selfish interests. I know of many cases where decrees have not been granted, and yet the parties were prevented from reuniting by the feeling engendered over the testimony given in court. If these cases do not come to trial they will more surely result in reconciliation through the good offices of the court.

"One of the experienced and elder judges of the superior court, whose wisdom of the years would be of great assistance in solving the domestic difficulties, should be detailed to the work, and I have no doubt that fully one-third of the divorce cases could be eliminated. Another thing, if it were generally known that such a court existed, ready for closed investigations, many of the cases would never be filed."

BLAZE AT GOLDEN.

Golden, Oct. 21.—Originating from an overheated stove, fire destroyed the building in which were located the offices of H. N. Merriam, C. P. R. assistant engineer, and C. D. A. Lang. The damage is not very extensive, but many valuable documents were consumed by the flames.

"GOOD CHEER" FURNACE With its Big Circle Water Pan"

For Your Health's Sake

Install a Good Cheer Furnace with its good big Circle Waterpan and its assurance of a warmth that is cosy and healthful.

Don't kiln-dry yourself breathing the parching moistureless heat of the average furnace where the waterpan is a joke.

The "Good Cheer" Circle Waterpan Furnace is the only furnace in which really satisfactory provision is made for supplying enough moisture to make the air as humid as it is on a perfect summer day.

The big waterpan encircles the fire-pot, where evaporation is rapid, and distributes the moisture evenly through the whole volume of heated air.

The perfecting of the healthy heat feature may be taken as an indication that the "Good Cheer" Furnace leads in excellence of other features.

Investigate this new "Circle Waterpan" feature of the "Good Cheer" Furnace—it is of first importance. We'll gladly send you Booklet giving the facts. 11

In connection with the Dallas road sea wall, I will attach Mr. Foreman's letter, which fully explains the matter.

October 18, 1911.

Angus Smith, Esq., City Engineer, City:

Dear Sir,—Your favor of the 17th instant with enclosures received. So far as I am aware, the incident re change of plans and specifications was closed some time before the investigation at which the Stedham letter was discussed. Among other things, Mr. Stedham wished to dynamite out the old wall, after the concrete foundation for the new wall had been placed under it. This you decided not to allow. The day you left for Portland he presented a letter over your signature in which this was granted. As it was contrary to the decision made a few days before, and you were away, I refused to let him do so without the government engineer's permission also. I 'phoned you immediately on your return and you repudiated it and confirmed in writing on April 21st the agreement you had made with him, adding that he had deliberately and without authority inserted the clause granting this permission, and which he knew would not be allowed. Yours truly,

A. E. FOREMAN,
Supervising Engineer.

In regard to the appointment of Mr. Case as engineer of construction on the Ross Bay sea wall, I cannot see how his relations, which he has not kept secret, with the Pacific Coast Construction Company can unfit him for proving most useful to the city. The plans and specifications are specific, and will not allow of any variation therefrom.

Attached herewith is a copy of a letter to Challoner & Mitchell, dated October 4th, 1911.

Messrs. Challoner & Mitchell, Victoria, B. C.:

Re Permit on Lot 23, Block 3, Yates Street.

Gentlemen,—You are herewith notified that you must, within ten days from the date of this notice, build a passageway across the excavation made in the sidewalk on the above street. This passageway is to be in accordance with the blue print enclosed herewith. Yours truly,

ANGUS SMITH,
City Engineer.

A permit was given to Challoner & Mitchell on the 13th of April, 1911, for the above lot, granting them the power to place a basement under the sidewalk opposite their lot. The applicants submitted plans, showing a plan of the proposed area, to Mr. Orton. Before digging out the basement for the building, they should submit a sketch of the ground plan to the building inspector. I understand from the building inspector that this has not been complied with.

Sewer Extension Plans.

As to the large sewer extension plans, these were prepared by Mr. Holdcroft; after making extensive surveys and measurements, and checked over by Mr. O'Meara, and these were again roughly checked over by myself, and the sizes and grades accordingly determined upon. Mr. Holdcroft, by a personal measurement, found a greater area to be drained than Mr. Mohun calculated from the plans. I have a report covering these points which can be produced if necessary. (See letter Oct. 16th, 1911, from J. P. Holdcroft to myself.)

In reference to the outfall plans, Mr. Mohun makes certain suggestions; to institute one large submerged pipe for the two which show in our plans. That would be somewhat cheaper in first cost, but might mean considerable expense later and also a periodical cleaning. Mr. Mohun also recommended that the overflow be discharged at the beach, which would not be satisfactory to the residents at Oak Bay. However, Mr. Mohun states in his report as follows: "Generally speaking, the scheme is properly designed and the alterations suggested are matters of detail." A letter from Dr. Fagan of Oct. 10th, states that the plans meet with the approval of the provincial board of health.

There is a macadam pavement on Cook street, between Pandora and Southgate streets. The city solicitor advises us that one local improvement could not be covered by another, hence the break in the Yates street pavement at Cook street. I took this matter up with the city solicitor, the mayor, and the chairman of the streets committee, who advised me to proceed with the work and charge it up to the general funds, as it could not be legally charged up to local improvements. See letter below:

August 21st, 1911.

The Canadian Mineral Rubber Company, Lumber Exchange Building, Victoria, B. C.:

Dear Sir,—It will be in order for you to construct a pavement on Yates street where it crosses Cook street. The city will pay you at the same rate for this portion of Yates as for that portion between Blanchard and Cook streets. The pavement will, of course, be a heavy asphalt. I have consulted with the mayor and the city solicitor, who agree with me that this work should be constructed. Yours truly,

ANGUS SMITH,
City Engineer.

August 21st, 1911.

F. A. McDiarmid, Esq., City Solicitor:

Re Intersection of Cook and Yates Streets.

Dear Sir,—I enclose herewith a copy of a letter I propose sending to the Canadian Mineral Rubber Company, re the above matter. This is the matter that we discussed a short time ago.

Answer: This will have to be kept track of separately and paid for out of general revenue, but I thoroughly agree with you that the same is an absolute necessity, and think your letter is the proper one under the circumstances. McD.

Relations With Press.

Re Charles Gregg: This hardly calls for comment. During my career I have always considered that the press representatives were entitled to any information which could properly be given. I deny absolutely that my time was wasted or that the department suffered by reason of the calls of the representatives on their daily rounds. I have found that any information that the press men have gained has not been used to the disadvantage of the department or the city's work.

Mr. Gregg was one of the number of applicants for the position on work in connection with the city. He was not put on as inspector of pavement, but was put in to measure and grade the different sizes of sand used in the asphalt surface, which under the asphalt specifications is regid. This work any man of ordinary intelligence can carry out. Of all the other applicants none were more suitable than Mr. Gregg. Mr. Gregg put in three consecutive days, and was on hand for an additional ten days. He turned in his time at thirteen days. I discovered this when the pay sheet was submitted to me. I immediately inquired of Mr. Rodney what time he had put in, and on being informed three days I changed the pay sheet accordingly.

Fire Department Satisfied.

As to the placing of material on the different streets, this work was given considerable consideration, but on account of the vast amount of work being carried on in such a short period, it was imperative that some of the streets would be more or less blocked, but in few cases were the streets closd to traffic. The fire chief was notified of every street taken up or blocked.

Fire Department Office,
Victoria, Oct. 19th, 1911.

Mr. Angus Smith, City Engineer, City Hall:

Dear Sir,—In reply to your letter of the 17th instant, beg to say that at the commencement of the paving contract my department experienced some difficulty in getting over the streets, due to paving operations, but after the matmater had been gone into thoroughly with you, and with your assistance matters were so arranged so as to give us as little inconvenience as possible, under the circumstances. As head of this department, I fully realize the importance of having good roads, and there must necessarily be some little inconvenience in getting them. Yours truly,

THOMAS DAVIS,
Chief of the Fire Department.

Asphalt Paving.

In many cases the city was not ready to give instructions to the paving contractors to lay pavements, but in nearly every case the city was in a position to give orders for curb and gutter. This was accordingly done, and consequently the work of this nature was carried out extensively before the wet season set in, as well as the work of sub-grading being also rushed during the dry season, permitting all the concrete and wearing surface being laid more rapidly than would have been the case if fewer streets had been opened out.

The contract for Quadra street provided for a heavy asphalt; the report to the ratepayers provided for a heavy or light asphalt. The contractor proceeded to lay the base for a light asphalt and succeeded in laying three blocks before the matter was called to my attention, whereupon I stopped the work and notified the city solicitor of the facts and took the solicitor and the contractors over the street and opened up the pavement, measuring the thickness in the presence of these gentlemen. I gave instructions to the contractors to lay no more four-inch concrete on this street, but to lay the balance five inches, and also gave instructions that the surface was not to be put on until they had received instructions. The matter was left in the city solicitor's hands to arrange and settle the case. This was accordingly done. On August 20th, the mayor, the chairman of the streets committee, city solicitor, Mr. Worswick, and the representatives of the Canadian Mineral Rubber Company went over the street, and it was agreed to pay the company for the work at the rate of the light and heavy asphalt, as the street was done.

I examined Yates street during its construction near its westerly end and discovered that the contractors were not laying the proper thickness. I immediately stopped the work and procured another inspector, and from observation, I believe that from that time on the city has been getting full measure in regard to concrete base.

Harry Worswick's Appointment.

Mr. Harry Worswick's name was suggested by his worship the mayor to Alderman Gleason and myself as being a suitable person for the paving and construction work and would, in all probability, serve as well for this work as a construction engineer. Accordingly I submitted Mr. Worswick's name to the City Council, recommending his appointment as foreman of paving construction. This recommendation was approved by the City Council. Mr. Worswick's duties were to be that of forwarding the paving progress, paying special attention to the underground and concrete work, an expert on the wearing surface having been procured in the person of Mr. Rodney.

Mr. Worswick, to the best of my knowledge, was carrying out his instructions faithfully, when objection was taken by the Canadian Mineral Rubber Company to certain statements made by Mr. McEachern, the inspector under Mr. Worswick, purporting to be orders from Mr. Worswick. Mr. McEachern, when confronted with the representatives of the company, denied the statements alleged to have been made by him to two of the representatives. Mr. McEachern is not now an employee of the city.

On account of the objection by the company to Mr. Worswick, I had him transferred to the underground work solely, and am having the inspectors look after the concrete work. This inspection is checked by further inspection by myself and by Mr. Jones, an ex-city engineer, of character and ability.

The method of measuring the material is precisely the same as regards the two companies, and the proportioning of the different materials is in accordance with the specifications. If there is not enough sand to fill up the proportion more must be added, and the same with the gravel and broken stone.

Mr. McEachern was removed from the inspection of the concrete partly because the mayor, in the presence of two representatives of the paving company, stated that he did not consider him qualified to inspect that class of work. While I believe Mr. McEachern would carry out instructions I have felt he was apt to create trouble unnecessarily.

Settlement of Back Fills.

All inspectors and foremen have specific instructions to tamp and, where possible, water the back fill so as to get as much earth as possible back of the trench. This is afterwards thoroughly rolled before being covered with concrete. The two places spoken of where the trench settled are not extensive. The one at Blanchard and View streets, having a lateral connection only a few feet in length, I understand was partly filled in by the contractors and finally filled and rolled by them in carrying out their work. Special care is being taken throughout the city as regards back fills, and when it is considered that there is five or six miles of trench for every mile of pavement it is not surprising to find spots not thoroughly tamped or back filled. The strong feature of the concrete pavement is that except in unusual cases the concrete will bridge the minor settlements. These settlements are not apt to occur after the work is completed as we are having it done in the city.

The Johnson street conduit is put in by the Telephone Company and an inspector was appointed by the city to see that the earth was properly tamped between Douglas and Government streets, and I have no reason to believe that this was not done. That portion between Douglas and Blanchard was thoroughly rolled before being paved.

As to the rougher surface on the Yates street grade, there is no provision in the specifications for such, nor have I ever seen specifications that provided for this. However, I expressed the opinion that it might be well to have this done. Mr. Gleason will agree that on the heavy grades in Seattle and Los Angeles, where asphalt is used on the sides and granite sets or rougher material in the centre, the line of traffic follows the asphalt.

As to the employment of unpractical inspectors the gentleman referred to was the only available man to put on in place of the inspector sent to assist the inspector at Ross Bay sea wall, who made application for an assistant on account of the extra long hours and night work and the use of two mixing machines. As soon as the work at Ross Bay did not require the two inspectors the extra man was laid off.

Cost of Inspection.

In the mayor's statement regarding the cost of inspection he very subtly conveyed the idea that the sum of $1,-578.56 is being expended every month. This is not the case. Those are the actual figures paid for inspection for the last seven months, hence the money spent for inspection is approximately $1,000 per month. This includes Mr. Best, the chemist; Mr. Rodney, the asphalt expert; Mr. Worswick, and all other inspectors engaged, as well as the driver of the automobile, whose services are more in demand on other work than on the paving.

The by-law for paving Vancouver street provided for boulevards and was passed before my tenure of office. I started to work in June, 1910, at the same time started to pave Yates street between Quadra and Harrison streets, providing for boulevards also. After the work was started on Yates street a petition was presented to the council asking to have the boulevards cut out and agreeing to pay the expense incurred, but no petition was presented against the Vancouver street boulevards.

As to the 20-foot sidewalks on Douglas street, the chief objection to the wider sidewalk was the fact that when teams with large drays stood immediately across or at right angles to the street, it would interfere with street car traffic. I still think it would have been better to have had the wide sidewalks, but this is a question that the citizens must be educated to slowly. The present sidewalks are 16 feet wide. I understand that there is a strong tendency to wider sidewalks and narrower roadways in most American cities.

As to the Esquimalt road, it was originally planned 41 feet, including curbs. No boulevards were provided for. This would leave a sidewalk 11½ feet wide. Upon further consideration it was decided to lessen the width of the walks and widen the roadway to 44 feet. These are matters for which there is no hard and fast rule, each street having peculiar conditions of its own.

As to the drain on Quadra street, the only renewal or duplication of the drain that I know of was a short piece between View and Fort streets, upon which the poles were required to be removed back to the curb, and at the same time to deepen the outlet to provide for a new drain on Fort street. Therefore the short piece of drain was taken up and relaid further in the street at a cost of, I am informed, in the neighborhood of $65.

Regarding the King's road, on this there is an old surface drain, but unfortunately the city plans did not show this drain. The surface drain engineer, accordingly, put down test holes to locate the drain, but I am informed that the old drain crossed from one side of the street, which necessitated putting down a number of holes which to the on-looker would appear like the commencement of the drain. I am further informed by Mr. Oelsner that this work cost about $15.

Location of Gas Mains.

I have had a number of communications from the Gas Company in connection with the location of the gas mains, and of late have been able to get the gas company to submit a plan showing the positions where they wished to locate their pipes. These plans, if satisfactory, are accordingly approved of by me. The following is a copy of my letters to the Gas Company and the city soliciter respectively:

"May 31st, 1910.

"A. T. Goward, Esq., Local Manager, Victoria Gas Company, Victoria, B. C.

"Dear Sir:—I have your letter of May 15th re excavation on Oliphant and Vancouver streets. I would ask you before going on with this work or with any further work in connection with laying gas mains on streets to forward me a plan showing the exact position of the proposed location of the gas mains. At the present time the city engineer's office does not know where to put pipes that may be required by the city. On a number of streets we do not know the location of the gas mains. I understand that this week three different excavations were made on Douglas street and each time gas or other mains were encountered. You will thus see the reasonableness and necessity of the city engineer keeping a map showing the location of all mains. I would ask you at your earliest opportunity to make me a map showing the location and depth of all mains, with the width of the street. Yours truly,

"ANGUS SMITH,

"November 24th, 1910.

"F. A. McDiarmid, Esq., City Solicitor.

"Dear Sir:—I wish you would advise me as to my powers in dealing with the Victoria Gas Company in connection with laying gas mains and services on the city streets. It has been the practice of this company to proceed with any street whether macadamized, block paved or otherwise, and tear it up as they wish. I wrote the company several months ago asking them to submit a plan showing what they proposed to do upon each street, and to get the plan approved of by me before commencing work on any street. The Company have entirely ignored these instructions. On one or two occasions they have written me giving me notice that they intended laying gas mains upon certain streets, but have not defined the particular portion of the streets, nor the particular place they propose tearing up the street to lay the mains.

"Some time ago they took up the wood block and broke the concrete on Government street opposite the Royal Bank, and this street has been more or less demoralized ever since, together with other streets in the city.

"Just recently they tore up the tar macadam on Clarence street and put the earth back in the most ridiculous manner. They also tore up the macadam on Cook street between Fairfield road and Richardson street, and left the street in an abominable condition. They have also torn up Rockland avenue in the vicinity of St. Charles street and have left the street in a most deplorable condition.

"They have lately started cutting into the boulevard on the west side of Vancouver street between Yates and Johnson streets. This boulevard has just recently been constructed, clay being brought to the street and spread for a depth of six inches, and then a mould spread over it to a depth of four inches. The trench is now open and in all probability the street will be left when the work is done in a condition indescribable.

Accompanying is a copy of a letter written about this matter on May 30th, 1910, and no notice has been taken of the requests contained thereon. Also accompanying is a copy of a letter written to this company to-day.

"I enclose herewith, also, a letter received from the Victoria Gas Company, which I would be pleased if you would peruse and return to me. I would like to know from you just what I can do in connection with the placing of gas mains on the city streets. Yours truly,

"ANGUS SMITH,

Any delay in the construction of the public comfort was due to the city solicitor questioning the legality of the proceedings leading up to the submission of the by-law. This by-law the solicitor considered necessary to have confirmed by the legislature.

The following is an extract from the report of S. P. Colt, engineer from my department, of July 28, re painting of Point Ellice bridge:

"All bolt heads, nuts, washers and rivets were found to have a uniform

CIVIC FATHERS ON FORGERY CHARGE

CLERK AND ENGINEER ARE COMPLETELY EXONERATED

Solicitor's Charge Is Repudiated by the Council—Stormy Discussion Engaged in

The city hall of Victoria was never more densely packed than it was last night, when things were expected to reach a crisis in connection with the engineering department. That crisis did not come last night owing to Mayor Morley suspending his suspension of Mr. Smith for another week, but despite that off-set those who had gathered themselves within the four walls of the council chamber were far from disappointed, for other dogs-of-war than the engineer and the mayor proved to be in the manger together.

These were the city solicitor and the city clerk, and their differences of opinion in regard to that alleged forgery, committed on one of the official reports of a local improvement work, proved sufficient, not merely to arouse the greatest excitement and apparent antagonism between the respective officials, but also to enthuse the body of the aldermen either one way or the other and make a general "pot-pourri" of the proceedings.

Eventually a resolution was adopted completely exonerating the city clerk and the city engineer, together with their respective staffs, of the charge of forgery, preferred indiscriminately against them in the letter of the city solicitor to the city engineer, which letter was incorporated in the mayor's indictment of the last-named official. The city solicitor adhered to the adage that a man convinced against his will is of the same opinion still and intimated that the council could have another legal advisor, if it desired. One of the aldermen remarked that his resigning proclivities were assuming a rivalry to the mayor's vetoing tendencies, but he did not appear to mind the association.

Immediately the crowded house had been brought to order Mr. Dowler requested the privilege of the council in order to ask that the investigation which had been promised in regard to the forgery charge be proceeded with at once. As there was not a full board at the outset it was decided to wait until there was. A few minutes' delay sufficed to fill the vacancies and then Mr. Dowler voiced his complaint. He declared that the statement made by the city solicitor to the effect that forgery had been committed in his office and also in the office of the city engineer did not merely reflect upon the occupants of the city clerk's office, but charged deliberate forgery. Inferentially, he said, it referred to the engineer as being the agent of the forgery, but that was not sufficiently explicit to absolve the city clerk and his subordinates.

He went on to quote the Criminal Code as to the meaning of forgery, and stated that it meant altering a document for the purpose of deceiving the public, knowing it to be false, and that it rendered the culprit liable to a term of imprisonment not less than seven years and not exceeding fourteen. If there was any one in the city employ who was deserving of that punishment then an information should be taken out against him and a case taken to the courts in the proper manner.

The city solicitor attempted to interrupt but Mr. Dowler glared at him and asserted his right to the floor.

Ald. Langley, however, wanted to cut the matter short and therefore he asked the city clerk to say what he knew about the matter and have done.

Mr. Dowler—Time may be very precious, sir, but I do not think it is quite so precious as the character and reputation of one of your officials, and that is what is at stake here. (Hear, hear).

Having administered this rebuke Mr. Dowler resumed his argument, but was again interrupted by the city solicitor, who was sitting not a yard away from him.

City Solicitor—Will you answer me one question?

City Clerk—I am not here to answer questions.

Ald. Moresby—Let the charge be preferred. We are investigating something we don't know anything about.

City Clerk (warmly)—I challenge the accuser to prefer that charge in the police court.

Ald. Moresby—You are entitled to an investigation. The charge impeaches your honor and the integrity of your staff.

City Clerk—Then I will ask the accuser to formulate his charge.

In response to a general chorus the city solicitor rose to explain the situation. As was to be expected, his explanation implicated the city engineer and another personal dispute was aired before the four or five hundred spectators. The solicitor asserted that the figures "46," which figured on the blue print of the Courtenay street local improvement work had been blotted out after it had passed the council and was an official document.

The blue print was handed round and while the blot was certainly there the aldermen could not agree as to whether it covered any figures or not.

Ald. Okell suggested that it was a photographic effect taken from the tracing by the sensitive paper.

In any event it was proved that whether the figures "46" had been obliterated or not it made no material difference to the print as it was drawn to scale and the width was self-explanatory, the total width of the street being 66 feet with ten feet on either side cut off for sidewalks and boulevards.

Mr. Bradley, the assistant city clerk, explained that the blot was not there when it came to his office or when he last saw it prior to taking it to the office of the city solicitor where, of course, he pointed the matter out. He stated that two men had come to his office and had taken a tracing of the print but he did not observe any blot as a result of their handiwork. When asked to swear to that testimony, however, Mr. Bradley could not go beyond his knowledge and belief.

Ald. Humber—Well, what difference does it make, anyway?

City Solicitor—Not a bit.

Ald. W. F. Fullerton—Then what's the trouble?

Ald. Humber—I don't know.

City Solicitor—The trouble is that the city engineer tried to make the street 36 feet.

City Clerk—It is really no alteration in effect, he says, and yet he has stated that there has been deliberate forgery committed.

City Solicitor — Any alteration is a forgery.

City Clerk—Excuse me. You are a legal man, and you should know that a forgery is an alteration with intent to defraud. I think it is your logical duty under the circumstances to make a complete withdrawal of the charge.

Ald. Langley then moved that the city clerk and the city engineer, together with their respective staffs, be exonerated from the charge of forgery. Ald. W. F. Fullerton seconded this.

The city solicitor protested against this action as it appeared to reflect upon him and he called for the original tracing. He declared that it had "46" feet in it. As to his letter to the engineer in which the charge of forgery was made, he stated that it was a private letter and he thought he was entitled to use the language he did in order to prevent similar occurrences in the future.

Ald. W. F. Fullerton—Oh, it was a private letter, was it? Then how did his worship get hold of it?

City solicitor—That is another matter. (Laughter.) Slightly disconcerted Mr. McDiarmid resumed that "even if he did get hold of it from me, he is the chief executive and was entitled to it."

Ald. Humber thereupon challenged the city solicitor to prove that the blue print had been altered, and offered to donate $100 to the Jubilee Hospital if the proof was forthcoming.

For a moment he and the city solicitor devoured one another with their eyes, and then the latter conceded that if he erred in calling the blot a forgery the letter in which the statement was made was never intended to see the light of day.

Ald. Humber—Yes, something like Wilson's. (Laughter.)

The committee rose to report progress when Ald. Gleason, who had sat silently throughout, claimed that the change had been made. He was immediately pounced upon by Ald. Moresby and Ald. Humber for not saying what he had to say when the matter was under discussion. Ald. Humber declared that it was part of the game to attack the city engineer. Ald. Gleason did not want the city engineer to be exonerated he declared.

Ald. Gleason went on to say that the change was hurtful to the city, but again he was called to boot by the statement that the work, whatever it cost, and whether carried out according to the plan or not, was to be paid for by the street owners.

City Engineer Smith then entered the debate and at once got to close quarters with the city solicitor. The latter demanded that the original tracing be produced.

City Engineer—Why, of course, I will produce it.

City Solicitor—I dare you to produce it and place it beside the tracing.

City Engineer—I will produce it now. (Hear, hear.) Suiting the action to the word he left the chamber and returned in a minute with the tracing in his hand. The aldermen surged round the table closely examining the prints, and the officials, with hot faces and bated breaths, explained to them the manner of their making. Having looked long and earnestly at the prints the aldermen resumed their seats and the city engineer explained that the change on the tracing was made prior to its becoming an official document.

The whole matter seemed then about to be amicably settled when the mayor requested Ald. Bishop to take the chair while he spoke to the question. He regarded it as a serious matter and did not think the council justified in making the clean breast of it they appeared inclined to make. He justified the city solicitor's language on the ground that similar things had occurred in the past.

Ald. W. F. Fullerton—(Interrogatively)—Through the negligence of Mr. Smith?

Mayor Morley—You are saying so, not I.

Ald. Moresby called the mayor to order. He was speaking to a motion and must confine himself to it.

Mayor Morley—It has not been proved to my satisfaction that the change referred to was not made. I think in fact that it has been proved it was made.

When the motion was finally put exonerating completely the city clerk and the city engineer and their staffs it carried by nine votes to two against it.

With the taking of the vote concluded one of the warmest debates the council has engaged in for a long time.

TROUBLE LIKELY TO SPREAD TO PEKIN

Hankow. Sah is said to have retired to Kiu Kiang with his disabled vessels, excepting the one that was sunk, the sailors surrendering to the rebels.

General Chang Piao, the military governor, was executed and Suit Ching, viceroy, was degraded by the Imperial government for allowing the provinces of Hu Peh and Hunan to pass into the hands of the rebels.

Over a million inhabitants of the cities of Wu Chang and Hankow are said to have already cut their queues in accordance with the rebel leaders' orders.

Martial law exists in all places occupied by the rebels.

The dispatch to the Ching Sai Yat Po puts the Imperial loss in the Hankow battle at 3,000 killed, besides a large number wounded, now cared for by the Red Cross Society of the revolutionists, but a cable to the Tai Ting Yat Po, a rival paper, says the government lost only two thousand killed.

PREPARING FOR BATTLE.

Mexico City, Oct. 21.—A special to the El Heraldo from Cuatla, Morelos, to-day says that Emiliano Zapata has appeared before Cuatla, and in a peremptory message to the chief of the federal garrison demanded its surrender. The federals were preparing to fight.

At Mango the rebels fired upon a passenger train from the south killing Postal Agent Amates, and a few miles further, nearer Cascadea, the locomotive plunged through a burned bridge, killing the engineer.

Herewith will be found the picture of an old man. Around his head and shoulders are concealed the faces of his seven daughters. Can you find these seven faces? If so, mark the faces with an X. Cut out the picture and send it to us, together with a slip of paper on which you have written the words "I have found the seven faces and marked them."

Write the above words plainly and neatly, as in case of ties, both writing and neatness will be considered in this contest.

Should you not happen to be a neat writer, show this advertisement to some friend of yours who can write plainly and neatly, and have him or her enter this contest in his or her name for you. First, agree with the person who is to do the writing, that you are to receive any prize money or prize that may be awarded.

This may take up a little of your time but as there is TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS in cash and One Thousand premiums given away, it is worth your time to take a little trouble over this matter.

Remember, all you have to do is to mark the faces, cut out the picture and write on a separate piece of paper the words, "I have found the seven faces and marked them."

We do not ask You to Spend One Cent of Your Money in order to enter this Contest

Send your answer at once; we will reply by Return Mail telling you whether your answer is correct or not, and we will send you a complete Prize List, together with the names and addresses of persons who have recently received over One Thousand Dollars in Cash Prizes from us, and full particulars of a simple condition that must be fulfilled. (This condition does not involve the spending of any of your money.)

Winners of Cash Prizes in our late competitions will not be allowed to enter this Contest.

Below will be found a partial list of the names and addresses of a few persons who have won cash of our larger prizes in recent contests. Although these persons entirely unknown to us, they are all references. An enquiry from any one of them will bring the information that our contests are carried out with the utmost fairness and integrity. Your opportunity to win a good round sum is equally as good as that of anyone else, so all previous winners of cash prizes are debarred from entering this contest.

Alexander Faulds, the Well-known Coal Mining Engineer, makes report on the property of The American-Canadian Coal Company, Limited

At the request of The American-Canadian Coal Company, Limited, Alexander Faulds, M.E. M. Inst. M.E., an eminent coal mining engineer of Vancouver, B. C., has just completed a report upon the property of The American-Canadian Coal Company, Limited.

This property is located at the north end of Graham Island, near Masset Inlet, and as stated by Alexander Faulds, is about 80 statute miles from Prince Rupert.

Mr. Faulds has personally inspected the property of the Company and following are extracts from his report just received:

Extracts from Mr. Fauld's Report

"The property is excellently situated on the north shore of Graham Island, east of Masset Inlet, about 80 statute miles west of Prince Rupert and 600 miles northeast of Vancouver, B. C., by steamer.

"Have traversed 40 statute miles of the shore sedimentary exposures on East and West coasts of Masset Inlet, as well as the stratigraphy of River Kawun, Watun, Neda and Ain, and from the two boreholes drilled by the British Columbia Amalgamated Coal Company of 200 ft. and 600 ft., respectively, these having passed through several seams, some of which are probably the same as in your property.

"The dips in these boreholes and coast line of Masset Inlet are inland, and the six coal seams and sedimentary coal measures at Skon-Un Point on lot 6 on the North shore and boundary of your property, dip also inland, showing a syncline or basin in your property; in other words, the apex or denuded apex of the anticline being near where the grey grit with bands of shale and conglomerate occur, and which are seen in two ledges about one-fourth of a mile apart at half tide, and appear to be in the northern flank of the anticline, on the southern flank of which occurs the six coal seams already referred to, and as follows:

"No. 1 seam, 4 ft. of coal.
"No. 2 seam, 3 ft. of coal.
"No. 3 seam, 12 ft. of coal.
"No. 4 seam, 6 ft. of coal.
"No. 5 seam, 3 ft. of coal.
"No. 6 seam, 1 ft. of coal.

"Total coal in Nos. 1, 3 and 4 coal seams, 22 ft.

"To be conservative and for computing production, will take a thickness of 20 ft., neglecting the dips, and an area of 1,500 acres, although the whole area of the property may be coal bearing.

"Taking the computed figures of 20 ft. for thickness of coal, and 1,500 acres for area, and you should make easily a production of 30,000,000 tons, at one-quarter million tons per annum output, which would last for 120 years.

"Markets are assured for all the coal production of the property at Prince Rupert and the interior for many miles along the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, among the settlers, which markets are bound to largely increase with the completion of the railway within two years.

Appraisal, Title and Royalty

"In valuating coal lands, it is customary to include only those coal seams that presently or shortly will be workable, such as Nos. 1, 3 and 4 in their descending order, and to ignore the thinner or impure coal seams of no commercial value such as Nos. 2, 5 and 6.

"These are most important facts absolutely essential to the appraisal of the property for the coal therein, together with the valuable land and timber thereon, towards an investment or industrial enterprise.

"The property is very valuable, being of adequate commercial assemblage, commercially located, near tide-water, ensuring excellent and economical transportation, being 80 miles from Prince Rupert and 600 miles from Vancouver; therefore the potentialities of values from the approximate and estimated quantities of coal the property is likely to contain, are very vast indeed, and should be practically unlimited consistent with depth.

"The area reported on is Crown Granted from the British Columbia government, embracing titles to coal therein, and the land and timber thereon.

"Being Crown Granted, the royalty on coal is 5c per ton of 2,240 lbs. under the old British Columbia law.

"Under the new British Columbia law the taxation is 10c per ton.

"From the land and timber thereon, and from the coal therein, these being on a Crown Granted property under the old laws of British Columbia, carrying royalty of only 5c per ton of 2,240 lbs., the property shows the necessary warrantable permanency as an excellent investment of capital; promising, with judicious administration, very profitable and valuable returns.

"In my judgment your property, if not the best, is one of the best on Graham Island, because of its being granted under the old British Columbia laws, and of its being of adequate commercial magnitude, excellently located, to a unique and proximitous harbor, in Masset Inlet, and I have no hesitancy in saying that its value can be proved by judicious boring near the summits of the northern and southern flanks of the syncline, which forms the coal basin."

They emphasize and prove the statements heretofore made as to the nature of the proposition advanced by Capt. Wilbur Johnston in the sale of stock in The American-Canadian Coal Co., Ltd., and taken in conjunction with the report of Engineer P. Davidson Aheir, who originally made a report upon this property along the same lines and to the same effect, makes it certain that the property owned by The American-Canadian Coal Co., Ltd., will in the very near future take its place among the active shipping coal mines of the province.

It represents one of the most economical coal propositions to-day on the Pacific Coast, with an enormous tonnage of coal assured; 30,000,000 tons of coal surely represents solidity, a splendid guarantee to the investor who purchases this stock that he has every guarantee for exceptionally large profits; in fact, every element of gamble or chance is eliminated.

You take no chance whatsoever.

Capt. Wilbur Johnston, the Trustee, has announced that the first block of stock which he placed upon the market a few weeks ago, will be subscribed for by 10 o'clock p.m. on the 23rd October, 1911, and that, beginning with the morning of October 24th, 1911, he will place a second block of stock upon the market to be sold at 25c per share.

Trustee Johnston further assures the public that in the very near future a third block of stock will be placed upon the market to be sold for 35c to 40c per share.

One thing is absolutely certain, that those who purchase this stock to-day and before the closing day of this sale, at 20c per share, will make 50 per cent profit upon their investment.

Remember that $10 is all that is required to control 100 shares, the balance to be paid in two equal monthly instalments.

No application for less than 100 shares.

Out-of-town residents should immediately wire making reservations of the block of stock they desire to subscribe for.

Ample time will then be given to follow the telegraphic order by mail with the formal application.

If you will call at the office of the Trustee, we will be pleased to show you the report of Engineer Faulds.

This is very voluminous and deals with the proposition in detail.

Don't delay. You have but two days more to avail yourself of the ground floor price in the best coal proposition to-day on the Pacific Coast.

EARL GREY ON FUTURE OF CANADA

Impossible to Be Too Sanguine —Former Governor-General Welcomed Home

Liverpool, Oct. 21.—Earl Grey, accompanied by Ladies Sybil and Evelyn Grey, was given a royal welcome on their arrival here yesterday. The party were received by the Lord Mayor of Liverpool. His excellency, on being invited to give a public message, said:

"It is impossible to be too sanguine as to the future development of Canada. It is a splendid country, and it is going ahead as fast as anyone could wish. The more it increases its strength, the greater will be the accession of strength to the empire. I am glad to be back in England after seven eventful years. They have been seven happy years in a land of open sunshine and although I am glad to be back among those who are carrying practically single-handed the whole burden of the British Empire, I confess I was sorry to leave the Dominion of Canada.

"As to the Canadian climate, I can only say I thoroughly enjoyed it, whether in summer or winter, and I am sure that before the present winter is over I shall wish to be in Canada again."

Continuing, Earl Grey said he ventured to disagree with the regret that the Canadian census returns did not show as well as had been too hastily assumed in some quarters. Canada had had her setbacks, but the increase in population was a substantial one, and it was only as compared with estimates that a falling off would be shown. He would not agree that those who had framed these estimates had been too sanguine.

Lord Grey and family later journeyed to London by a special train in which was reserved a royal saloon decorated with choice flowers, the gift of the Canadian club, the Allan line and the C. P. R.

WOMEN MUST TELL REAL AGE.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 21.—In a letter to Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, head of one of the suffrage clubs that conducted the recent campaign, Attorney-General Webb declares that women must tell their real ages when they register to vote. Merely saying they are more than 21 will not do as heretofore, and according to Mrs. Foltz a woman that does not tell her real age when she registers her vote can be challenged and the voter subjected to criminal proceedings.

True happiness is merely a case of not wanting the things you can't get.

GROUNDS AT VANCOUVER.

Strathardle Loading at Hastings Mill Rests Upon Boulders—Takes in Water.

Vancouver, Oct. 21.—At low tide Thursday the chartered Waterhouse steamer Strathardle, loading lumber for Australia at the Hastings mill, grounded on a boulder and it was feared she was damaged. A diver examined the hull and it was found that no signs of damage were apparent.

She made four inches of water in the bilges during the night, but this small leakage stopped when she was floated. Mr. Mitchell, Lloyd's surveyor, and H. Darling, surveyor for the British corporation, inspected the ship yesterday morning. The Strathardle will shift to pier A to load salmon to-day.

AUSTRIAN ARCHDUKE WEDS.

Vienna, Oct. 21.—The Archduke Franz Joseph and Princess Zita of Parma, were married to-day in the castle at Schwarzau, Lower Austria, in the presence of the Emperor and the King of Saxony.

The bridegroom is next in line to become Emperor-King of Austria-Hungary. He is the elder son of the late Archduke Otto and a great-nephew of the Emperor Franz Joseph. He also is a nephew of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir-presumptive to the throne. The latter engaged in a morganic marriage with the Princess Hohenberg and renounced all rights of succession on her behalf and of their children.

Princess Zita is the thirteenth child of the late Duke Robert of Parma, and his second wife, Maria Antoinio, princess of Portugal. She was born on May 9, 1892, and has living three brothers and sisters. She is a remarkably handsome brunette. The marriage is said to be a genuine love match. The archduke is 25 years older than his bride.

LABORER KILLED.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 21.—Bruno Costanzi, an Italian laborer, 30 years old, was fatally injured and four other men hurt at 3.15 this morning, when hurled from a speeding dirt train rounding a curve at Holland street and Garland avenue, on the Spokane traction car line. The car did not leave the track, but the men who were sitting on the floor were hurled to the street, falling on a pile of rocks. Costanzi's skull was fractured and his chest crushed. He died a few hours later.

David Zee's left arm was broken and three other men were bruised.

KILLED BY BANDITS.

Carmi, Ill., Oct. 21.—Three masked men entered the saloon of John A. Schafer at Graysville, eight miles from here, shot and killed Schafer, wounded his brother Andrew, and robbed the cash register early to-day. The robbers escaped.

In the Green Room

There are rumors about this week-end in regard to the possibility of a new theatre which have a better foundation than any yet in circulation. The present rumors are connected with the sale a few days ago of the Aberdeen property, on Blanchard street. This would be an ideal theatre site, and it is devoutly to be hoped that the plans which are understood to be in contemplation materialize.

There seems to be a deal of uncertainty as to what Klaw and Erlanger and Charles Frohman are going to do about their lease of the Victoria theatre—whether they will give it up at the close of the present year or make use of their option to keep it a year longer. But in any case it is absolutely certain that the doors will close at the very latest fourteen months hence. It is of the greatest importance, then, that steps towards the erection of a new playhouse which would be a credit to Victoria be undertaken at once.

* * *

We are in receipt of two or three letters from patrons of the Victoria theatre who appear to be greatly annoyed because they were not allowed to go to their seats when they came late to the theatre on some recent occasion. We do not sympathize with them, and we heartily approve of the rule which Manager Denham put in force towards the close of last season, even when it unfortunately operates against ourselves.

The rule is one which is in force in all first-class theatres to-day and one which has the endorsation of theatre-goers as a whole. There are, no doubt, occasions when one's late-coming is caused by something over which they have no control—street car delays, for instance—but while this is exasperating they have to suffer. If the same thing occurs when they are going to boat or train they do not blame the transportation company for having kept to its schedule time.

With the curtain rising at half-past eight, as it does in Victoria, there is really no excuse for any one being late. Where the car service is erratic the only remedy is to start a little earlier.

We trust Manager Denham will not be moved by any of the complaints from the few late-comers—one or two of them habitual—who would like the prompt public to be disturbed in their enjoyment of play or opera so that they may reach their seats. As a matter of fact, except in the case of a very crowded house late-comers are always accommodated with a seat at the back until the first opportunity to usher them to their own. When the house has been crowded Mr. Denham, with that unfailing courtesy which has marked his management of the Victoria, has allowed those who cannot be seated to stand in the aisles at the rear. The fire chief, however, now insists on the strict letter of the law being observed and the aisles being kept entirely clear at all times.

* * *

It will be a matter of the utmost satisfaction to all to learn that the Victoria Ladies' Musical Society has come out on the right side financially over its first venture into the field of the impressario. The Eames-Gogorza concert was a decided success in every way, and the members of the society have reason to feel proud of themselves. They have certainly proved that women can manage some business matters, at least, and do it well.

The society's next concert will be given on December 1, when Jan Kubelik, the violinist, will be heard here.

The Advance Man

Empress Theatre.

Edward Clark, the actor-author, who recently starred in "The Winning Widows," has followed the path trodden down by his predecessors and has left the legitimate stage for vaudeville and will be seen at the Empress theatre on Monday in entertaining character impersonations. He appears as an old man, as a decrepit and lonely unmarried man, then as a street urchin, and next as a chorus girl waiting for a taxicab. Each character is filled with talk fitting the character. As a character delineator he was always a success on the dramatic stage, and has been making a hit in his present set of roles.

Ambition stirs the heart of everyone sooner or later, and while all do not realize their ambitions they will nevertheless take pleasure with those who have realized them in watching Carlyle Moore and Ethyln Palmer, the former in a dual role, act in the new sketch, "Ambition." They open Monday and "Ambition" has an ingenious interwoven plot.

The medley man in brown, otherwise Richard Hamlin, is on the circuit again, being billed here next week. He is a very clever dancer in addition to his success as a melody man, and patrons of the Empress are promised an enjoyable act by him. He has written over sixty songs. Quite the most dainty musical offering in a long time is that which two young women travelling as the Two Roses, will produce here. They play most acceptably on the violin, the piano, 'cello and cornet, and on each of these instruments will offer something to please and gratify.

Charles Montrell is an English juggler who has left the London fog for a space and has been engaged for the S. and C. circuit. He was brought to America because of his great versatility and because he has something new, which is becoming more and more necessary in vaudeville. The Empress will unwind more moving pictures.

Jeanne Towler in "The White Sister."

Plays that have a religious or church title usually frighten and drive away the ordinary playgoer from the theatre, leaving the patronage to the church element of society who only patronize such plays. It is not so with the great success, "The White Sister," which the charming actress Jeanne Towler and her splendid company will present at the Victoria theatre on Wednesday, October 25. Although "The White Sister" is the story of a nun, it breathes of all the passionate romantic love of the Italian race in an intensely human manner. It has all the beauty and fragrance of the peaceful convent life and again it pulsates with the fiery spirit of the impetuous soldier-lover.

The great conflict between a woman's earthly and spiritual love is fought through four inspiring scenes that hold the auditors spellbound in their seats and never for one second loses its gripping interest until the final curtain fall and the audience leaves the theatre happy in the thought that "the right has been done." "The White Sister" affords opportunity of acting of superior quality and gives Miss Towler a chance to demonstrate her right to her position as a leading American emotional actress. The production is strikingly picturesque and presented with the same minute attention to detail that characterized the original Liebler & Co. production in New York.

Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir.

The fame of Welsh choral singing became world wide, when in 1872 a mixed choir consisting mainly of Welsh village folk, under the leadership of Caradog (Griffith Rhys Jones), won the Crystal Palace Company's $5,500 challenge trophy, and a cash prize of $500. This fame was enhanced in the following year, when the same choir under the same leader again won the trophy, beating the London choir, known then as the Paris Prize Choir, under the leadership of Mr. Proudman. The sons and daughters, especially the daughters, of the principality have ever since maintained the frame and ever enhanced the standard established and set by the Crystal Palace victories.

Of all the Welsh musical organizations, the Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir has been first and foremost, not only to maintain the fame, but to set a standard to Welsh or any other choral singing that has never yet been excelled.

The visits of the Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir to America is by no means a new venture. Indeed, it is now a matter of history. Americans were first thrilled by these human nightingales from the land of song as early as 1893, when the musical daughters of Wales won a first prize at the World's Fair, Chicago. The choir was then under the direction of its founder and first leader, Madame Clara Novello Davies. In February of the following year, the late Queen Victoria commanded the choir to appear and sing before her at Osborne. The concert took place in the Indian Durbar room, in the presence of several of the crowned heads of Europe. As a proof that the Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir has, under the leadership of Madame Hughes Thomas, sustained the high standard and renown established by the first choir, the choir as at present directed and constituted has won laurels in all lands and was also commanded to sing before the late King Edward VII. in the presence also of royalty.

The Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir stands—and sings—before the world to-day as the unsurpassed organization of its kind, and, incidentally, as the standard bearer through all lands of the superiority of the Welsh nation as a nation of singers. It would be a difficult task, indeed, to analyze this fact, but it can be realized in a most easy way—that is by going to listen to the choir when they visit this city, singing in the Victoria theatre on Thursday, October 26.

The Third Degree."

The plot of "The Third Degree" is built around a youth, the son of man who is a great social and financial power. The father, a prominent man in the smart set, disowns his son on discovering he has married a girl whose father has gained much unpleasant notoriety in police annals of New York. The girl, realizing her position, has made a gallant struggle to win the respect of the world through her fine character and natural ability. The young husband, disowned by his father, scorned and rebuffed on every hand by his friends, who assert that he has made a mistake and that his marriage is a mesalliance, resorts to drink and dissipation.

The story deals with a crime which, by reason of the quick, impulsive judgment of the police heads, results in fastening the guilt on an innocent man. Finding they must make good their first suspicions, they bend every effort to the one end, that of fastening the chain of guilt on their victim. The method of the police department, together with the powerful influence of the press, are vividly shown. For the first time on any stage, the audience is treated to a visual demonstration of the workings of the detective department of a large American city. As clearly and distinctly as were the workings of the powerful financial and political bodies in "The Lion and the Mouse," so are the nefarious practices of the police discussed in "The Third Degree," even in a more vivid and interesting manner.

The cast of this remarkable play is typical of the United Play Company (Inc.), including, as it does, Franklyn Gale, Minnie Radcliffe, Chas. Burnham, Neil Barrett, Harry Forsman, Kenneth Stuart, Wesley Todd and others.

ALBANI'S FAREWELL

Madame Albani's farewell to the concert platform was made on Saturday last (Oct. 14) in the Royal Albert Hall, London, when she was the centre of attraction at a complimentary concert.

To this concert, which witnessed the final bow in public of one of the most distinguished singers of this generation, their majesties the King and Queen Alexandra, and several other members of the royal family had given their patronage. Apart from its sentimental interest the occasion was noteworthy, for a brilliant array of musical talent is revealed in the list of artists who gave their support to the Canadian prima donna. As a gracious act to a sister star, Madame Adelina Patti lent lustre to the programme; while Sir Charles Santley, who only the other day entered himself into well-earned retirement, emerged from it temporarily in order to assist a singer with whom his long artistic association, more especially in festival work, recalls grateful memories. Miss Muriel Foster (Mrs. Ludovici Goetz), Madame Ada Crossley, Ben Davies, Plunket Greene, Miss Adela Verne, Haydn Wood, and the New Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Landon Ronald, also gave their welcome services on this occasion, which, but for their absence in South Africa, would also have boasted the presence of Madame Clara Butt and Kennerley Rumford.

Madame Albani (Marie Louise Cecilia Emma Lajeunesse) was born in Chambly, near Montreal, November 1, 1874, was educated at the Sacred Heart convent in the metropolis and studied music in Paris and Milan. Her debut in London dates from May, 1872, when she was seen on the Covent Garden stage in "La Somnambula," in which opera a couple of years previously, she had made her first professional appearance in Messina. The year that witnessed her introduction to the London public also saw her winning the applause of Parisian opera-goers. But after that the young singer, not satisfied with the success she had already achieved, and bent on further artistic development, resumed her studies with Lamberti in Milan. Subsequent years found her fulfilling engagements in various European cities, as well as in America. In 1878 she married Mr. Ernest Gye who, on the death of his father in that year, became lessee of Covent Garden. Madame Albani was the first artist in England who sang the role of Elizabeth, Elsa and Eva, in the Italian versions of "Tannhauser," "Lohengrin" and "Meistersinger," while a triumph in her later operatic career was her appearance as Isolde, which she sang to the Tristan of Jean de Reszke at the performances in German of Wagner's music drama in London, in June, 1896.

SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

This Woman Had to Insist Strongly, but it Paid

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me.

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JANETZKI, 2903 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

EXTRACT FROM "BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL" March 23, 1907.

"A Most Valuable Food"

At a time when the preparation of artificial foodstuffs is receiving more attention than ever before, and when new forms of easily assimilable fat to take the place of codliver oil are being frequently brought to the notice of the medical profession, it is desirable that some of the older forms of administering natural fats should not be lost sight of. Among natural fats, butter easily takes first place for nutritive value, and when combined with a suitable soluble carbohydrate, a most valuable food is produced.

The BUTTER SCOTCH which Messrs. Callard & Bowser (Duke's Road, Euston Road, W. C.) have prepared for fifty years, is such an article, which has the great advantage of being palatable, so palatable, in fact, that children are more likely to need restraining from excess than any persuading to take it. This BUTTER SCOTCH is stated to contain 11.7 per cent. of fat and 79.3 per cent. of sugar, and the results of an analysis which we have made recently of a specimen substantially confirm these figures; further chemical examination of the fat extracted showed it to be genuine butter fat. This confection can therefore be recommended, not only as a harmless sweetmeat, but also as a very useful addition to the diet in suitable cases.

bearing, and to be tight throughout the metal portion of the structure, including foundation connections. Floor beams, stringers, lower cord members and beams supporting roadway and track are in good condition in the centre spans; but show considerable rust at both approach spans of the bridge."

It will be seen by this report that any rust or absence of painting would only occur in the super-structure, and there was no "marked deterioration from rust," as stated by the mayor.

In regard to the High School site, the grade for the building has been given, and there is nothing to hinder the contractors beginning the work. That the grounds have not been graded is because I deemed it wiser to use all available teams to rush the pavement work, and hence I will be able to offer them employment on the school grounds later.

Estimating Cost of Works.

I present the above, gentlemen, to your careful consideration, as my answer to the mayor's charges, and beg your interest in the following:

Mr. Morley called special attention to the fact that the work on View street cost more than my estimate. He has not called the public's attention to what he must know, that during my tenure of office over $1,000,000 has been expended on local improvement works and over 75 per cent of the works represented cost less than estimated.

However, I do not put special importance on the estimating of the works, as the actual cost of the work only is finally assessed against the property, the estimate being only for the purpose of giving the owners an idea of what the work will cost.

However, when it comes to estimating for special purposes, and bidding against contractors in open competition for different city works, I have made special efforts and am not ashamed of the results. My bid in every instance has been the closest to the reasonable figures that were given for any of the works. I refer you especially to both the Dallas Road and Ross Bay sea walls, the incinerator, the public comfort station, the rock blasting and grading on Asquith, Cecil, Forbes and Victor streets, bids for cement sidewalks, and more especially to the bids for the asphalt pavement, curb and gutter. My figures in this last case were very close to the figures accepted.

I take considerable credit for the manner in which the local improvements have been initiated and put through, and thrown open to paving contractors throughout the country. When I reached Victoria the council were wrestling with pavement promoters who in Victoria, as in other cities, sought to impress the council with the sacredness of petitions and endeavored to secure from the ratepayers petitions specifying their particular class of pavement and the price to be paid. To change all this required a great deal of time.

Cost of Pavements is Less.

I would like to call your attention, in this connection, to the fact that since my arrival here the price of pavements has decreased from $2 per square to $1.35 per square yard. Victoria is now paying less than any other city on the continent that I know of for a pavement equal in quality. I refer you to the telegrams procured for the purpose of the last investigation, as attached. I figure that the city is paying $300,000 less this year for its pavements than the average paid by the cities below cited:

Edmonton, Alta., Oct. 2, 1911.

Bitulithic, 1909, $2.88 per square yard; 1910, $2.90. Thickness of concrete base six inches; surface two inches. No asphalt here.

A. J. LATORNEL.

Vancouver, Oct. 2, 1911.

Average cost per square yard, asphalt on six inches concrete, one inch binder, two inches wearing surface, $2.40. Bitulithic on six inches concrete, two inches wearing surface, $2.70. Both inclusive of excavation.

Sewer Pipe Contract.

Early in June this year it was reported that there was a joint stock company being formed to manufacture cement pipe required for city sewerage purposes. About the 1st of June the mayor 'phoned me asking for the sewer pipe contract. I immediately procured the tender of the B. C. Pottery Company, who had the contract for vitrified clay pipe, and took it to the city solicitor's office to see if a contract had been drawn. While I was in the solicitor's office the mayor came in with another gentlemen, who was the promotor of the new company. I quoted the city's prices for vitrified clay pipe, and he gave approximate figures for cement pipe, which were nearly half those of the B. C. Pottery Co.

On Wednesday, June 7, 1911, the council met, and Mr. Morley handed me a sheet of paper, herewith attached, on which were type-written quotations. This paper had nothing to show where it came from, nor any signature or writing to identify it. The mayor asked me to compare the prices on the paper with what we were paying for pipe, and if these were the lower to recommend their acceptance at the next council meeting on Friday, June 9.

On Friday, June 9, Mr. Morley came into my office and asked if I were going to submit a report on the cement pipe referred to in the schedule which he had given me. I told him that it would not be advisabe to give out the prices before bids were called for, and that I would recommend that the matter be thrown upon to competition, and that all classes of pipe would be considered.

The gentleman previously referred to, visited the engineer of the sewer department and got the quantities of the different sizes of pipe which would be required, the quoted price amounting to $40,000.

Had I reported as suggested by Mr. Morley the city would have been committed to a contract without competition, with a contractor of whom they knew nothing, and without a specification for pipe and material, and could be compelled to accept pipe not worth $10,000. The city could not have in any way helped itself, because there was no proportion given for the concrete or thickness of the walls of the pipe. The city would have been compelled to accept whatever pipe the contractors saw fit to provide, at the prices quoted in the schedule, which was as follows:

Cost of Laying, delivering and joining of granitic concrete sewer pipes for the city of Victoria, not including excavating, manholes, flush tanks, screen chambers, and lampholes.

Size of Pipes.	No. of Lin. Feet.	Cost per Lin. Ft. Delivered.	Cost of Delivering Laying and Joints.

18 feet..	2 ft. 6 in.	$1.60
19 feet..	2 ft. 6 in.	$1.75
20 feet..	2 ft. 6 in.	$1.90

Prices for pipe, quoted above, does not include junctions, bends and special pipes. Rock, $2.40 per cubic yard.

Willing to Let Work Speak.

In closing, I apologize for the length of this paper, but I have felt that it was due, not only to myself, but to you, gentlemen of the council, and to the citizens of Victoria, to make a complete and satisfactory answer to the mayor.

He has accused me of failure to grasp the magnitude of the work, of my own limitations. I ask you, is it not rather Mr. Morley who has failed in this respect, that during the last year and a half of Victoria's magnificent achievement, instead of seeking to guide the affairs of the city with dignity and wisdom, he has been here and there, hunting diligently for the petty mistakes that are bound to occur when an army of 2,500 men is at work? Is it not rather his limitations that are apparent when the officials feel that from the mayor they can hope for nothing but mis-representation and hostile criticism?

Gladly I leave my department, and all civic works completed under my supervision, to answer for me should his worship bring the matter up in the coming civic elections.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

ANGUS SMITH,
City Engineer.

STAGE ASPIRANTS.

Restless Spirit of the Leisured Classes —Interesting Sidelights.

"It is a great tragedy. In all grades of society there is a revolutionary movement taking place. Young women will no longer consent to be inactive, and, so far as the stage is concerned, there really is not room enough for them all, however capable they may be." This was a prominent stage manager's comment yesterday upon the disposition of many aristocratic young ladies to seek theatrical engagements.

The secretary of the Ladies' Employment Guild, of London, questioned on this topic of unrest amongst the leisured classes, threw some interesting sidelights upon the question. "There certainly is a growing unrest," she said, "and the stage offers the excitement for which many girls clamor. This unrest is due to our methods of education and the less insular conditions of English home life. Girls are no longer willing to accept the conditions of fifty years ago. Greater variety is creeping into life.

"There is plenty of work for noble-women and women of all classes, but the great trouble is that so few are trained. From various causes girls have been greatly handicapped until now in their desire to fit themselves for some real work. The girl has not the same facilities as the boy for entering commercial life, and here lies the tragedy.

"Women want more courage in taking up a useful occupation, but, generally speaking, the 'revolutionary' young lady is not prepared to undergo serious, and for a while unremunerative, training. Her idea is to get, and not to give.

"The craze for the stage is rivalled to a degree by a desire for travel. Large numbers of young ladies of social position apply to us for posts as travelling companions. But there is nothing intellectual in travel for its own sake. It leads nowhere. On the other hand, there is a large field for lady private secretaries, but so few are qualified to enter.

"Excitement? Well, yes. I know of a secretarial post now open that is abounding in excitement, if we can only get a girl sufficiently qualified to fill it. So far, we have not found one."

DOCTORS GAVE ME UP

But "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Me

"Moorfield, Ont., March 25th, 1910.

"I suffered from severe indigestion and dyspepsia for nearly two years. I could not take food without fearful distress.

"I could not do any work and became so run down and weak that I could hardly walk. I was attended by two experienced doctors and they both pronounced my case incurable, that they could do nothing more for me as they thought my disease was HEART FAILURE AND INCURABLE. The doctors gave me up and I looked forward for death in a short time.

"At this time my son asked me to try 'FRUIT-A-TIVES,' and from the outset of taking these wonderful tablets I was better, and gradually this medicine completely cured me. I took a large number of boxes, perhaps a dozen, and now I am entirely cured and I have gained over thirty pounds in weight.

OUTLINES PLAN FOR MISSION WORK

Campaign Arranged by Committee of Laymen's Missionary Convention

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 21.—"The task and its challenge." This was the title of the address delivered at the closing session of the men's missionary convention held in the First Baptist church last night by Dr. John R. Mott, of New York, who exhorted his hearers not only to promote the gospel in foreign fields, but to tap the regions nearer home, which required much attention. In the course of his speech he said that a practical plan of unity entered into by the different religious dominations would be better than doubling the missionary forces of the world. It was idle nonsense to speak of the unity of spirit and stop at that. There should be inter-denominationalism, which would mean that the various characteristics should not be lost by the individual churches, but at the same time they should all pull in the same channel to reach the goal of Christianizing the world.

The task was a collossal one. He hoped the magnitude of it would irresistibly draw them together to work for the common cause. They should become inventive and keen and see the things which they could do together which could not be done apart.

"May God raise men of vision, heroism and constructive ability," he earnestly pleaded. They were challenged to a larger reality. The question was whether the west would awaken to its responsibilities and duties. If Canada, the United States and Britain did not pass Christ on to the east they would lose Him.

Sir Andrew Fraser took as his subject "The Sufficiency of God."

Under the head of "The Adoption of the Convention Policy" the Rev. C. G. Pidgeon, D. D., of Westminster hall, outlined the plan which had been decided upon by the committee which was appointed to draft a programme having as its object the promotion of the work for increased advantages in general mission schemes. He said that a lot depended upon the respective denominations to bring about a successful issue.

Regarding the financial aspect he said that for 1912 the movement in British Columbia would aim to obtain an increase of thirty-three per cent. Approximately $810,000 was the target to reach in this province next year. This amount did not include $175,000 for church extensions and $130,000 for the endowment of a theological college. The different denominations would make arrangements for the raising of the money.

Dr. Pidgeon said that the committee urged that there should be a missionary committee in every church; that each member should canvass for the cause; that there should be a weekly collection for missions; that young men and women should be induced to take up the work of propagating the gospel and that there should be an increase in the number engaged in home and foreign mission work; that there should be a continuation committee who should carry out the work of the convention from year to year.

BOGUS STREET CAR TICKETS.

Winnipeg, Oct. 21.—With the arrival from England yesterday of evidence collected by Scotland Yard, it is clear to the police here that gigantic swindles in street car tickets have been unearthed. Charles Warren, a former street railway conductor, will stand trial for it next week.

It is proved to the satisfaction of the police that this colossal swindle was not to be confined to Winnipeg but was to embrace Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver. Yesterday revelations are that Warren is identified as the man who called at a printer's shop in London, England, to have tens of thousands of car tickets printed. A cast of tickets which was made in London is now in Winnipeg and will be used in the case. Warren had in his house a receipt for money paid to that firm.

Sworn statements from persons implicated in London will be presented at the trial in Winnipeg.

VETO EPIDEMIC IS AGAIN MANIFESTED

Mayor Kills Proposal for New Police Headquarters in Market Block

As was anticipated in the Times of yesterday, Mayor Morley exercised his veto in regard to the expenditure of $50,000 recently voted by the people for the new police headquarters in the market building. He did so with regret, but his regret did not appear to convince the aldermen, who contested that point hotly and argued, not only that coercive methods were being employed by his worship upon the city officials, but that as a matter of fact a by-law, having been authorized by the ratepayers, was more than he could veto.

Only one alderman spoke in favor of the mayor, Ald. Ross moving the adoption of the report, which was accompanied by supplementary reports from the city comptroller and Chief Langley, both of which commended the idea of the mayor for the immediate improvement of the present police quarters as against the spending of the money for the purpose for which it was obtained.

In declaring the resolution of the council vetoed, Mayor Morley explained his scheme of improvement and alteration to the present headquarters, which he stated would not cost more than $650. He claimed the benefit of precedent for his action and pointed to the several instances in the past where the money voted by by-law had not been spent upon the object for which it was raised. The usual course in such matters, he said, would be for him to return the resolution for reconsideration, but on account of the "atmosphere" of combatativeness," which the council had recently been exhibiting toward the mayor's propositions, he contended that it was useless to follow that course. He concluded his argument by quoting the chief of police as in favor of his scheme. The chief had said that with the improvements suggested the present quarters would suffice for the next 12 months.

Immediately the document had been read Ald. Langley moved, and Ald. Humber seconded, that they be received and filed. Ald. H. M. Fullerton suggested the alternative course, that they be laid on the table for a week so that the aldermen could obtain copies of them for a closer perusal.

Ald. Peden asked a question, and the mayor was about to reply, when Ald. H. M. Fullerton called him to order, but the council decided amid laughter that the mayor had a perfect right to reply to a direct question to the chair.

Ald. Bishop contended that Chief Langley had contradicted himself blankly. He had been complaining for years against the present police quarters, and even since the by-law was passed he had been agitating for its speedy operation, and yet in his report he apparently had turned his back on himself in order to please the mayor and subscribe to his idea of having the police quarters in the civic centre area.

Ald. Okell did not think the mayor could veto a by-law, and his action in vetoing the council's resolution, which merely authorized the implementation of the by-law, amounted to no less than that. The money had been voted for that specific purpose by the ratepayers, and he could not for the life of him see where the mayor got his right to veto it.

Ald. W. F. Fullerton—Will your worship tell us what part of the act gives you the right to veto this by-law.

Mayor Morley—I have not vetoed the by-law. I have only vetoed the resolution.

Ald. W. F. Fullerton—But in this case it is the same thing, your worship. Now as regards your claim that the people were not aware of the civic centre scheme when this by-law was passed, I say that it is perfect nonsense. It is futile and misleading to say that they were not aware of it. I object, sir, under section 12 of the Municipal Clauses Act, to your vetoing a by-law passed by the people. There is nothing in that section to warrant your action. A money by-law cannot be put into force without a resolution of the council, and it is that resolution which you have vetoed. I claim that the veto in this case is contrary to the statutes. Of course you over-ride us all and I have no doubt that you will over-ride my protest.

The applause which broke out at the close of the alderman's brief address had to be checked by the mayor. As the house was crowded, however, by interested spectators, it was impossible at all times to keep a check on the outbreaks.

Continuing the debate, Ald. Langley said it appears to him to be nothing short of a subterfuge on the mayor's part to veto the wishes of the people. "It is possible, however, to obtain legal opinion as to the validity of the mayor's action, and therefore I think that the best course to pursue at this time is to receive and file the reports," he added.

Ald. H. M Fullerton then accused the mayor of coercing city officials into making reports in which they did not believe in order to obtain his favor. He said it appeared to him that the mayor liked the idea of holding the council up as adverse to him; that his worship wanted it to be understood that the mayor was the only gentleman in the hall who was at all interested in the city's welfare; that he wanted it to be understood that if this money was spent on the police headquarters in the market building, for which specific purpose it was raised and authorized, it was being done merely to spite him.

Ald. Fullerton referred to the former attitude of Chief Langley in regard to the need of new quarters, and placed that beside his present report upon the subject, and stated that no city official was going to write a communication like that blankly contradicting himself unless he was coerced into it. He thought that the chief should be brought into the hall to admit the fact of coercion.

"Because he is an official of the city he is placed in that horrible position; and I think that it is absolutely unfair for a man to use his position to make others write reports which they did not believe in," the alderman continued, and he went on to describe the present headquarters of the police as a disgrace to the city.

"The mayor," he said, "has carefully thought out the situation and he has written a very clever letter, as he is well capable of doing. The mayor has claimed that the council is not willing to do business with him, but I contend that as long as he was willing to do business with the council the council was willing to meet him. This, however, is but another play to the gallery, as the election is near at hand. I regret having to say these things, but somebody has to say them, and I have the courage to do it."

Mayor Morley would have replied to the statements of Ald. Fullerton, but the council would not hear him again on the subject. The motion to receive and file was then put and carried.

BATTLE NEAR HANKOW LASTED TWO DAYS

Hankow, Oct. 21.—(Delayed by transmission)—A two day's battle between the government forces from the north and the rebels ended in a victory for the latter.

The loyalists dropped several miles down the coast.

When the fighting ceased Wednesday evening the revolutionists took up a strong position. Reinforcements of rebels arrived during the night and early on Thursday morning a force fully 5,000 strong, began to advance on the Imperial encampment.

The advance was conducted cautiously. On the march the rebels burned hundreds of huts, fearing ambush.

The loyalists' infantry made a faint show of resistance.

When the rebel scouts reached the imperial camp they found it deserted and the main body entered waving banners and shouting.

The Loyalist evacuation was so hurried that they left many tents and six carloads of baggage and ammunition.

The Loyalists have stopped seven miles further north, where they are awaiting reinforcements.

Crew Sink Gunboat.

Shanghai, Oct. 21. — Yesterday's advices from Hankow state that the defeated Imperial troops are now entrenched on Seven-Mile Creek.

One Chinese gunboat was sunk in the river by its crew, who deserted to the rebels. Admiral Sah Chen Ping took the other warships of the fleet down the river as he could not trust their crews.

BIPLANE ENDURANCE RECORD.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 21.—Howard W. Gill, in a biplane, broke the American endurance record at Kinloch aviation field here, by remaining in the air 4 hours 16 minutes and 35 seconds. The former record, made by the late St. Croix Johnstone, was four hours and one minute. Gill ascended at 12:49-55 o'clock and descended at 5:06-30." His flight was principally over the field, but at times he flew over a triangular course of more than 30 miles. P. C. Parmalee attempted to make a new altitude record, but returned to the ground because of the atmospheric conditions after having ascended 4,000 feet.

PLENTY EMPLOYMENT FOR GENERAL LABORERS

The labor situation in this city, to judge by inquiries made this morning, will be easy this winter for the casual and street laborer, owing to the large amount of local improvement work, but clerks and men of superior education, who have never followed any particular trade, but have been attracted to this country by glowing accounts, are not finding it easy to obtain employment. There is quite a demand for rough white labor, for work which must be done before the stormy weather sets in, but men whose previous training has unfitted them for heavy work cannot get suitable employment.

The manager of the B. C. Employment and Statistical Bureau, the new organization which is under the control of the Trades and Labor Council, says that the larger employers of labor are not yet sufficiently willing to assist in the work of an employment agency by registering vacancies, a means by which many more men might be placed in employment. He is aware of a large number of men in offices and stores in the Old Country and elsewhere who have written to the various publicity organizations for information about the Island, and who want engagements on landing. While the Alien Labor law prevents the engagement of those from a foreign country, he thinks that if the larger employers of men in the dry goods and wholesale houses would keep in touch with the bureau both masters and men might be brought in contact with one another better.

The proposed intelligence by-law of the City Council, with a license fee and regulation of the agencies, it is thought will check the bogus agencies which always spring up like mushrooms with railway construction work, and fatten on the wages of the laborers. The better class of agencies all welcome this new move of the city authorities.

WHISKEY HOLDS ITS VICTIMS

Until Released by Wonderful Samaria Prescription.

Liquor sets up inflammation and irritation of the stomach and weakens the nerves. The steady or periodical (spree) drinker is often forced to drink even against his will by his unnatural physical condition.

Samaria Prescription stops the craving, steadies the nerves, builds up the general health and makes drink actually distasteful and nauseous. It is tasteless and odorless, and can be given with or without the knowledge of the patient.

Thousands of Canadian homes have been saved from misery and disgrace by some devoted wife, mother or daughter through this wonderful Canadian remedy. The money formerly wasted in drink has restored happiness, home comforts, education and respect to the families formerly in want and despair.

Read the following, one of the numerous unsolicited testimonials received:

"I can never repay you for your remedy. It is worth more than life to me. My husband has been offered liquor several times, but would not touch it. He said it had no charm for him now. May God's choice blessings ever rest on you, and yours, are my prayers ever. No one knows it but those who have tried it. As soon as I can I will see others that I know would give anything to stop their husbands from drink. I will give them your address.

"Mrs. K——, Dewinton, Alta."

Now, if you know of any family needing this remedy, tell them about it. If you have any friend or relative who has formed or is forming the drink habit, help him to release himself from its awful clutches. Samaria Prescription is used by Physicians and hospitals.

A FREE TRIAL PACKAGE of Samaria Prescription, with booklet, giving full particulars, testimonials, price etc., will be sent absolutely free and postpaid in plain sealed package to anyone asking for it and mentioning this paper. REFUSING TO BUY A PIG IN A POKE.

Most makers of packaged medicines keep their formulae secret. They don't even tell the druggists what the ingredients are.

People used to be satisfied with the secret method, and were willing to take it for granted that all these preparations were able to do what was claimed for them.

Now-a-days it's different. People are refusing to buy a pig in a poke. Everyone thinks that they have a right to know what is in the medicine they take and for which they pay good money. Refusing to divulge the formulae and mysterious and miraculous claims do not convince the public of an article's merit—rather the reverse.

And to fill this demand of the public the up-to-date druggist of to-day is recommending and selling packaged medicines, "made in the open," as it were. He knows the formulae and the relative merits of different preparations offered, and it is your privilege to ask him about the value of any packaged medicine for any purpose.

Nyal's FAMILY REMEDIES

You may not know whether certain ingredients in a medicine will benefit you, but the fact that your druggist knows every ingredient in each Nyal Remedy is your protection. It is his business to know and your right to get his opinion before buying any medicine.

NEW WESTMINSTER Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

New Institution Will Be Formally Opened on Monday—Programme Arranged

New Westminster, Oct. 20.—Monday, October 23, is the date fixed for the official opening of the New Westminster Y. M. C. A. building, to the finishing touches on which the contractors are now giving their best efforts. Recently the structure, which is located on Royal avenue, was formally inspected and declared to be satisfactory in every respect, and but little remains to be done to make it complete to the last detail, when it will be one of the most up-to-date homes of the Association in Canada.

To celebrate the opening of this institution an ambitious programme is being prepared by Will Anderson, the enthusiastic secretary, in which he is ably seconded by G. I. Sovereign, the physical director who has just recently arrived to take up his duties.

In all, the programme will occupy three days, beginning with a mass meeting on Sunday afternoon at 4.15, which will be addressed by C. R. Sayers, travelling secretary for western Canada, who has been an energetic member of the canvassing committee which finally made the erection of the building a possibility.

On Monday evening the formal opening will be made by Mr. Sayer, assisted by Dr. Henderson, Professor Hetherington and E. W. Keenleyside, president of the association. His Grace Bishop de Pencier will pronounce the prayer of dedication. In the afternoon of the same day a reception will be given to the ladies of the city, when the wives of the directors will act as hostesses.

The concluding act in the ceremonies as at present outlined will be the Young People's night on Tuesday, when a programme will be pulled off in the gymnasium under the direction of Mr. Sovereign, physical director. Local boys will provide the gymnastic section of the evening's entertainment, there will be a basketball match between the Vancouver and New Westminster teams, and the Vancouver branch will furnish a team to give an exhibition of swimming and life saving.

MANUAL TRAINING SCHOOL.

Cranbrook, Oct. 20.—Cranbrook school trustees are striving earnestly to cope with the growing needs of the city in the direction of increased educational facilities.

Since the settlement of the litigation with the Fernie Construction Company, the trustees are left free to devote attention to matters that have been pressing upon them for some time past, particularly in regard to increased accommodation for pupils, due to the steady growth of the city and its rapid expansion in certain quarters.

At their last meeting, the school trustees discussed details of work requisite to place the present public school buildings and grounds in first-class shape.

The grounds will be levelled and fenced; this work has already been started. Certain improvements and alterations to the main building are also being undertaking. The board has decided to purchase block 142, between the rink and the public school, upon which will be erected a residence for the janitor and a building to be utilized as a manual training school, a much needed addition to the educational facilities of the city.

Certain sections of the city are growing very rapidly, and it is recognized that steps must be taken to meet the school requirements of these sections. With that object in view the trustees are now looking out for suitable sites for two additional school buildings.

NANAIMO TRAMWAY PROJECT.

Nanaimo, Oct. 20.—At the weekly meeting of the city council the following letter was received from H. J. Haffner, of the B. C. Hydraulic Company:

"We are just now in receipt of advice from Mr. C. B. Smith that he is willing to consider the basis agreement suggested at last Monday's committee meeting, viz: that if the city will guarantee the interest on bonds estimated to cover the cost of construction inside the city and will vote the power company a franchise it will at once incorporate the railway company and proceed to construction within a reasonable time. It will also allow the city the percentage of gross revenue which was outlined in our proposal to the city in December, 1910. We will be glad if the committee will discuss this matter and advise us as to whether they will put it to a vote of the people. We will at once have the necessary agreement and by-law drawn up for submission to the people at as early a date as possible."

Ald. Busby moved, seconded by Ald. McKinnell, the communication be referred to the tramway committee for investigation and report.

Mayor Planta suggested the council consider the question at once and have a by-law prepared to be submitted to the ratepayers as soon as possible.

Ald. Wilson agreed with Mayor Planta's suggestion and moved in amendment the communication be received and the council agree to submit a by-law to the ratepayers upon the lines suggested in the communication.

Ald. Shaw seconded the amendment.

Ald. Busby withdrew his motion with the consent of his seconder, and Ald. Wilson's amendment was adopted.

C. P. R. TO BUILD NEW STEAMER FOR LAKES

Will Reduce Time Between Nelson and Kootenay Landing—To Cost $175,000

Nelson, Oct. 20.—Built on the same lines as the steamer Bonnington, but with even more luxurious accommodations for passengers and with a speed sufficient for the trip of 52 miles between Nelson and Kootenay Landing to be made in two and a half hours or less, the new C. P. R. boat for the West Arm and Kootenay lake travel will be one of the finest sternwheelers in the Dominion. The cost will be $175,000.

Captain Gore was in conference the other days with J. J. Main, vice-president of the Polson Iron Works at Toronto, the company which built the Bonnington and the new steel barge recently launched at the Fairview shipyards.

Although the contract has not actually been let for the new Kootenay lake boat it is known that she will have a steel hull and that her machinery and engines will be of the same type as that which has proved such a success in the leviathan of the Arrow lakes.

It has been practically decided that the new boat will be some feet longer than the Bonnington and that her draught will be five feet instead of the three and a half feet required by the Arrow lake boat.

Already C. P. R. carpenters in the local shops are hard at work preparing some of the woodwork and it is the intention that the new boat shall be completed early next spring. The machinery and steel plates for her hull will be shipped from Toronto and placed in position at the Fairview yards. The work will be carried on this winter.

The necessity for another boat on Kootenay lake has arisen, it is said, through the volume of tourist traffic through the district which is increasing by leaps and bounds.

Although built to give a high speed it is intended that the accommodations for passengers shall be so luxurious that the new boat will be practically a floating hotel.

WATER SUPPLY AFFECTED.

New Westminster City Council Will Inform Minister of the Interior of State of Lake.

New Westminster, Oct. 20.—After careful consideration, at a special meeting of the city council in committee, it was decided to forward the report of the water committee as presented to the council Monday evening, to the minister of the interior at Ottawa. Owing to extensive operations by the Vancouver Power Company at Pitt river and Lake Coquitlam the city water supply has been slightly discolored, and the attention of the proper authorities has been drawn to this fact. At the meeting of the council it was decided to inform the minister of the interior of these conditions, and while no recommendation was made, it was pointed out that in the order-in-council passed by the Dominion government when the power company was given permission to construct the dam, a clause was included by which the company agreed to be responsible and remove all discolorations or vegetable growth which ensued as a result of the work.

DIED IN CAFE.

Vancouver, Oct. 20.—That he died at the King's hotel on October 13, 1911, from pneumonia, was the verdict returned by the jury inquiring into the death of James Campbell.

Campbell, it appeared, in company with two other men, entered the hotel cafe about 9 o'clock on the night of October 13. They all ordered dinner, but Campbell did not touch the food set before him and appeared to be acting strangely. A few moments later he got up from his seat to leave the cafe. He fell to the floor and was picked up by some of the other guests in the cafe, who, believing him to be under the influence of liquor, carried him into a hall between the hotel bar and the cafe and left him there. The two men who had been dining with Campbell left the cafe saying they would be back later. Some time afterwards some Italians, going up to their room, saw the body lying in the hall and on investigation discovered life to be extinct. They notified the hotel employees, who in turn notified the police. An officer was sent to the hotel and ordered the remains removed to the undertaking parlors. The doctor who examined the deceased testified that death was due to pneumonia, induced by chronic alcoholism.

FORMER NANAIMO RESIDENT.

Ladysmith, Oct. 20.—The death occurred in the Ladysmith hospital of Mary Thompson, wife of John Thompson, of Extension, former well known residents of Nanaimo.

The deceased had been ailing for some time and two weeks ago was taken to the Ladysmith hospital for treatment but from the first her case was hopeless.

The deceased was a native of Ireland, aged 68 years and had been a resident of this district for upwards of 20 years. She is survived by her husband, three sons, George, Crawford and James, and one daughter who resides in Vancouver.

CHILLIWACK HOSPITAL.

Chilliwack, Oct. 20.—The second annual meeting of the Chilliwack hospital was held recently and a board of directors appointed for the ensuing year. The report of the board shows that the finances of the hospital warrant the immediate purchase of furniture. The building will be ready to receive patients in the near future.

WILL NOT RUN AGAIN.

Prince Rupert, Oct. 20.—Mayor Manson says that his plans for next year will prevent him from continuing in office after the close of the present civic year and it is not his intention to be a candidate for the office of mayor next January.

Among the Churches

THE OUTLOOK.

The Ecumenical Conference.—Undoubtedly the greatest thing of its kind ever conducted in any city in Canada, the Methodist Ecumenical Conference, which has just concluded in the city of Toronto, will unquestionably have done much in the way of solution of many ecclesiastical and national problems which confront the citizens of this great Dominion. The union of nations to the securing of world-wide peace, as well as church union for greater and wider usefulness and efficiency, has received the same serious and devout consideration at the instance of renowned and skilful thinkers and organizers. What the result will be we cannot yet say, but this much is clear that while all belong to one denomination or branches of the same, yet the delegates to this conference hail from almost every country and island of the sea, and going back to the same with a common thought and a common purpose, it cannot fail to encircle the world with such an influence as will powerfully affect the policies of the various nations represented. Every other topic, with few exceptions, which seriously affect the world's weal received alike the balanced judgments and wise deliberations of this mighty conference.

Laymen's Missionary Movement.—The missionary convention in Vancouver had quite an auspicious opening on Wednesday last in the fine new edifice in which the West End Baptists meet weekly for worship. C. C. Michener of Victoria is chairman of the meetings, and so far has handled them with consummate tact and grace. The convention was fittingly commenced by an intercession service led by Rev. J. S. Henderson, of New Westminster, and proved very impressive and stimulating. The convention, delegates were welcomed, in the absence of Premier Meltride, by Rev. Principal McKay of Westminster Hall. Without doubt the address of the day was that of Sir Andrew Fraser. No flights of oratory nor cold subtle logical premises marked his speech. It was the warm pulsating of a heart throbbing with affection to the Lord Jesus Christ solicitous for the accomplishment of the great task which the Master had upon his heart, viz., the inheritance of the world in goodness and love. With a beautiful reference or an apt quotation Sir Andrew just seemed to work or to weave with the deftness of a master hand a beautiful garland of scripture quotations which made a speech, otherwise simple and commonplace, a thing of beauty and fragrance and a fitting crown for such a noble life as his own.

Big Uplift From Odd Source.—There is coming into Canada at the rate of about 2,000 a year a stream of young people. Most of them are trained Christian workers and are pledged to service in homes in which they are placed, and in churches which they are to help organize, or work in if churches already exist. These young people are from the Bernardo homes. Dr. Bernardo, and since his death, Mr. William Baker, backed by English people from the King down, search out waifs from the roofs and slums of London, educate them, make Christian evangelists of such as can be, and secure good homes for them in Canada, chiefly in the western provinces. A third party for this year, 300 in number, has just reached Montreal on their way to Manitoba. This party raises the number to go out thus far this year to 1,000, and the total going into Canada since the plan was started to 23,600. Landed in Canada and in proper homes, the London Christian agency does not stop its oversight. As long as they live these Bernardo boys and girls, men and women, are a part of a vast missionary and educational force. The record of Christian achievement by these former waifs in Canada is simply marvellous. They are ministers, teachers, social service leaders, and prosperous farmers and business men, intensely loyal to the British crown in politics, and intensely missionary to Canada in a religious one. The proportion of Bernardo boys to go wrong, to fail, is so extraordinarily small as to be negligible. In London at this moment, and in homes near by are 9,400 waifs being supported and trained. Queen Victoria personally knew of the work and financially aided it, and King George V. has enlarged the royal support.

Y.M.C.A. Plans for Enlisted Men.—The army and navy department of the Young Men's Christian Association are opening their new building in Newport. The building, unlike some others of the department, in that it is for both army and navy, cost $250,000, with $40,000 more for furnishings. The building was given by Mrs. Mary Emery of Cincinnati, and the furnishings by individuals and organizations. Many women resident in different cities have furnished rooms as memorials. The department expects to erect at Panama an association building that will equal, perhaps surpass, the Newport one. No money is yet in sight for it, but the need will soon be, it learns, since the canal fortifications are to surpass in extent almost any other American naval station. The department plans to send with the Asiatic fleet Mr. Benton S. Swartz, who has seen much experience with enlisted men at the New York navy yard. Mr. Swartz is to work on the volunteer plan, so successfully tried last year.

Union That Actually Unites.—Baptists rejoice just now over an actual union which they say really unites. They refer to the coming together of Baptists North and Baptists Free, the last named a body of 80,000 members, transferring nearly $200,000 of invested funds, and contributing hereafter to the combined missionary work of all. The separation of Free Baptists has existed since 1780, and grew out of doctrinal differences that have now disappeared. Neither body asks the other to conform precisely to its standards. The names, Baptist, Free Baptist and United Baptist, are regarded as equivalent. State organizations are free to unite or remain apart. Local churches can do the same. It is believed that in many villages, two Baptist churches, rivals in the past, and sometimes bitter ones, may now come together, but that is left to them to determine. The newspaper organ of Free Baptists is to be merged with a Boston Baptist paper. This union affects three great societies.

Methodist College for Italian Young Men.—Methodists in Rome announce that they will, as soon as possible, establish a college for Italian men. From all over Italy, and from foremost families, applications reach Methodists to found such college of high grade. As soon as a college building can be provided it will be filled, say Methodists, with sons of Italy who are to be leaders in the social, religious and business affairs of the kingdom. "The serious lack in Italy's present public educational system," says the Rev. Dr. E. M. Tipple, the Methodist pastor in Rome, who has just arrived in New York, "is a moral one. This lack is now demanding the attention of educators. The Italian draws a fine distinction between instruction and education: the one mental, the other ethical. Methodists have a reputation in Italy of having created in schools for girls a healthy moral atmosphere. At the middle of September Methodists dedicated two new buildings devoted to higher education of Italian young women. The fourth European Central Conference of Methodists met in Rome last month, and had part in the dedications named. Delegates were present from Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria, Denmark, France, Finland, Italy, North Germany, Norway, Russia, South Germany, Sweden and Switzerland. They represented 562 ministers, 70,101 members, 95,619 Sunday school pupils, and church property valued at $5,189,985." Dr. Tipple has been a delegate to the Ecumenical Conference which has just closed in Toronto, and before returning home has quite an itinerary to complete, including Montreal, New York, Rochester, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

PRESBYTERIAN.

St. Paul's, Victoria West.

Anniversary.—St. Paul's church will mark the twentieth anniversary of the church opening and also the formal opening of the new lecture hall and adult Bible class rooms by special services to-morrow. Under the direction of the Ladies' Aid Society a congregational social with a good programme and light refreshments will be held on Monday evening following, to which friends of the congregation are cordially invited.

CONGREGATIONAL.

First Church.

Mr. Gunn's Visit.—Rev. W. T. Gunn, M.A., general secretary of the Congregational Union of Canada, has been visiting this church, and it is safe to say that he never visited the church under such satisfactory circumstances. It has been pleasing to the church to have a longer visit than usual, and it was pleasing to the secretary to be here when there was such a manifestation of life and activity in the work. In his address on Sunday night Mr. Gunn presented the greetings of the sister churches, and gazing on the large audience present, spoke enthusiastically of the possibilities of development, individually and collectively, in the service of God and humanity.

Anniversary Social.—Tuesday's address was given on the occasion of a very successful anniversary social under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. Mr. Gunn's remarks were prefaced with a number of very witty references which drew forth peals of laughter. "The Church of the Future" was his theme. He held that it would aim at developing the whole man, and "presenting every man perfect," thereby fulfilling the apostolic hope.

Y.P.S.—On Monday night last, under the auspices of the literary committee of the Y.P.S. of W.W., a very creditable presentation of the trial scene from the "Merchant of Venice" took place. The lecture hall was filled to the doors and all went away declaring that the young people had accomplished a difficult bit of work with efficiency, and while it would be invidious to make comparisons it is only fair to say that G. B. Sinclair as Shylock, Chris Howarth as Antonio and Mrs. Castleton as Portia are deserving of special praise.

METHODIST.

Victoria West.

Pastor's Return.—After spending a delightful vacation, lasting over a month, in the Salmon Arm country, the pastor has returned much the better for his rest and diversion, and will occupy his own pulpit to-morrow.

Metropolitan.

Missionary Visitor.—Rev. Newton E. Bowles, former missionary to China, now on furlough, had a very busy time last week-end at the Metropolitan church. No less than four or five speeches were delivered by him, culminating in a speech upon "The Present Revolution in China." At this last effort such a congregation gathered that the league room had to be abandoned for larger quarters which were found in the Sunday school room. Even this was full, and a very warm enthusiasm was the result of the address, and when the offering was taken a very liberal response was made.

W.M.S. Rally.—There has been nothing in the history of the local auxiliary that can compare with the rally that was held last Monday afternoon. Over 100 ladies were present and listened to a glowing missionary speech given by Rev. Newton Bowles. Miss Mabel Miller sang a beautiful solo in a entrancing manner. Refreshments were served at the close of the agenda, and all left the building rejoicing in a record which is now the standard by which future efforts will have to be judged.

Evangelistic Services. — Mr W. Simpson, the Cornish Evangelist, has conducted successful revival services in the Belmont avenue Sunday school during the last week, but will be terminated on Sunday next, when large congregations are expected.

Thanksgiving Services.—Special arrangements are being made for the harvest thanksgiving song service which will be held on Sunday week. The newly appointed choir leader is already busy preparing an elaborate programme of music for that evening, and great anticipations are held of a very successful festival.

BAPTIST.

First Church.

To-morrow's Evening Subject.—The special subject for the sermon to-morrow evening will be "The Church of To-morrow, or the Ministry of the Church to Modern Society." This is a present-day topic and will prove interesting, and it is hoped helpful to all who attend this service.

Mission Circle.—The regular prayer service on Thursday evening last was conducted by the members of the Women's Mission Circle. The topic for the evening was "Mission Work at Grand Ligne, Quebec," an excellent paper having been prepared and read by Miss M. Few.

Birthday Social.—Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church the second annual birthday social was successfully carried through last evening. An excellent programme was furnished and light refreshments dispensed. A goodly sum was realized from the return of the birthday "sacks."

Sunday School.—The regular meeting of the teachers and workers of the Sunday school was held last Tuesday evening, when a large amount of business concerning the welfare of the work was put through. Committees were appointed to prepare for the Christmas entertainment which will be held this year on December 27. The report of the treasurer proved decidedly encouraging and all departments of the school are advancing.

Pastor Warnicker.—During the week Pastor Warnicker attended the Laymen's Missionary Convention at Vancouver and returned greatly enthused and helped with the sessions. On Friday he took part in the Baptist conference in connection with the convention.

Young People's Society.—On Monday evening the young people's meeting will take the form of a "Baraca evening," the men's Bible class being in charge.

PASTOR RUSSELL CRITICIZED BY BISHOP CRIDGE

To the Editor:—In taking exception to certain doctrines contained in a sermon by Pastor Russel in a recent issue of the Times, I approach the subject in no spirit of quarrelling or diplomacy. I should wish to regard the writer as a brother student in Bible truth, at the same time claiming the right of stating with scriptural proof how his doctrines appear to me. I confine myself to two points as declared by him to be necessary to the cure of the evils which beset the church at the present time; the first being the abolition of what he terms the idol creeds, and the second the consequent advent of a new Gospel, or a new interpretation of Bible truth.

A strong suspicion arises that his antipathy to the creed comes from antipathy to the doctrines which they contain, for I maintain that the doctrine of the Apostles' Creed is the pure and simple gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ. I refer to the gospel as propounded by St. Paul in his Epistle to the Romans (ch. 10, 9) "If thou shalt confess with they mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." Thus is the gospel contained in the Creed, for when with his mouth the confessing member says, "I believe in God the Father Almighty," he adds, "and in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord," and I believe "that he rose from the dead and ascended into Heaven." Thus the Creed is in full accord with the gospel as taught in the Bible. On the other hand, the abolition of the creed would in no manner affect vital truth, for there are a large number of persons who do not use the creed as a confession of faith who believe all the same.

Now for examination of the Pastor's second position, namely, that the abolition of the creeds is preparatory to and will be followed by a new Gospel, or an entirely new and better way of dealing with Biblical truths. On this the Pastor has nothing specific to say, though from certain words casually spoken by him in another sermon we may form some idea of his thoughts thereupon, namely, that it is his belief that there will be no resurrection of the body as taught in the Scriptures. Now this heresy begins not to-day, but was current in the days of the Apostle Paul, who passes judgment upon it in these words to the Church of God at Corinth (1st Cor. 15, 12): "Now if Christ be preached that he rose from the dead, how say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead? But there is no resurrection of the dead, then is Christ not risen: and if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching in vain, and your faith is also in vain. Yea, and we are found false witnesses of God; because we have testified of God that he raised up Christ: whom he raised not up, if so be that the dead rise not. For if the dead rise not, then is Christ not raised: and if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins." Thus does the Apostle pass judgment on this heresy as destructive of the Gospel: it makes Christ to be no Christ, and leaves Christians without hope. Now as the ways of error are always crooked, it may be said that the Apostle makes no mention of the body of Christ, but only that he was raised from the dead. But there is no escape thus, for with equal particularity in the preceding verses he shows that it was only by the sight of His risen body, that they were absolutely assured that he was risen from the dead. He lays such stress on this truth, that I will quote his words concerning those who saw his body when risen and so became witnesses of his resurrection. "He was seen of Cephas, then of the twelve; after that, he was seen of above five hundred brethren at once; of whom the greater part remain unto this present, but some are fallen asleep. After that, he was seen of James; then of all the Apostles. And last of all he was seen of men also, as one born out of due season." But heresy has still another turning, saying that this does not prove that the bodies of the dead will rise. A sufficient answer to this will be that it was not for himself that Christ died and rose again, but for those who should believe in him. He died for our sins, and rose again for our justification. And it is beyond all question the constant teaching of the Scripture that Christ by his resurrection from the dead assures the resurrection of all who believe on him. And so the Apostle in the fulness of his assurance of the truth of the Gospel begins again to preach saying, "Now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept." And in another place, "He was first to rise from the dead." There were others to follow, and who are they but those who believe in him. Thus the contention of the Pastor in the judgment of the Apostle is entirely subversive of Gospel truth, and fails in any point of support from the Scriptures.

The Bible makes it plain that teachers and pastors have their choice and appointment as such from God alone and not from any human authority, which indeed is added afterwards according to the needs of the church or congregation of believers, and so I would adjure Pastor Russel that if he would be approved of God and man in that which he preached he should assure himself that he speaks by the Spirit of God and to be especially mindful of the Apostle's solemn charge, (Gal. 1, 8.) "But though we, or an angel from Heaven, preach any other Gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed." For the Gospel which they had received and by which they were converted was not from the Apostles, but straight from Heaven from the ascended Lord himself and by the descent of the Holy Ghost. As this is a matter not of sect or party, but that which concerns all sorts and conditions of men, I would exhort those who can read, whether they believe or not, to judge for themselves whether the doctrine submitted is in the Bible or not, which they are as capable of doing as the most learned reader. To those who believe I would say think it not necessary to examine every error that is promulgated for this would occupy a lifetime and be not half done; but when the Crown of Christ the King of Glory is assailed it becometh every child of God to contend earnestly for the faith once for all delivered to the Saints. To do otherwise were treason against the Most High.

Gentlemen,—Last year I got from you some clothing, and afterwards wrote for spring and summer samples. I might now say that after fifteen months' experience with your clothing I am better satisfied with it than I was at the beginning, if possible. The tweed suitings have worn wonderfully well, retained their colours and shape, and after fifteen months of "strenuous life," they look almost as good as new.
I would now like samples of some steel grey worsteds and light-weight summer and spring cloths, and also some for raincoats —I remain, yours truly,
(Signed) M. E. ARMSTRONG.

PASTOR RUSSELL'S SERMONS

Mid-Ocean, Oct. 16.—Pastor Russell is en route for his fall visit to his London charge, full of vigor. Crossing the ocean loses no time for him. He is accompanied by his stenographer, Mr. Rutherford, and through the newspapers preaches weekly to about twelve millions in the United States, Canada, Great Britain and Australia. His text for his sermon was, "For the life of the flesh is in the blood; and I have given it to you upon the altar as an atonement for your souls" — Lev. xvii., 11.

The trend of all scholars within the past forty years in particular has been away from the Bible. Even those few who still contend for the Bible concede much to the Higher Critics and merely strive to retain a hold upon certain shreds of truth. The Bible is suffering at the hands of Christendom. Or perhaps we would better say, Christendom is suffering from letting loose its hold upon the Bible. The Bible theory, that all the sin and death manifest in the world resulted from Adam's disobedience, is now generally denied. Consequently those who still preach a forgiveness of sins and an escape from the penalty of sin are in the minority. And those who admit that the death of Jesus was necessary as a sin-offering, the Just for the unjust, are extremely few. Our text is looked upon as foolish by the worldly-wise.

Darwin's evolution theory, that man sprang from a monkey parentage and has been evoluting higher and higher for six thousand years finds apparent support in the rapid growth of intelligence during the past fifty years. But those who heed the Bible find a more satisfactory explanation in its teachings, that we are in the dawning of a new dispensation—the Messianic period so long promised of God as the time in which all the families of the earth will be blessed.

The Bible theory of man's sin and condemnation to death and of a redemption of Adam's race from the power of death by the blood of Jesus is one consistent narrative. Because one man alone was the original sinner and the sentence came by one, therefore it was possible for Divine mercy to arrange that by the sacrifice of the Righteous One, the Just for the unjust, the entire race of Adam might be judicially freed from the death sentence and be permitted to have a resurrection of the dead and the opportunity of restitution and to approve themselves to God for everlasting life. This, the Bible theory, lays the whole stress of salvation upon the work of our Redeemer. Without it Adam's race would have been as dead as the brute creation. By it a way of life through resurrection and restitution has been opened up. This is the meaning of our text and is fully concurred in by the Apostle, who says, "Almost all things are by the law purged with blood; and without shedding of blood is no remission" of sins. So unless our Redeemer had purchased Adam and his race by His own precious blood there would be no hope of future life, either for the church during this age or for the world of mankind in general during the kingdom age, which will follow this.

Scientists now learn not only that different species will not amalgamate, but that different breeds of the same species crossed cannot be maintained, but will revert again to their originals in the third or fourth generation. Undoubtedly this was what troubled Mr. Darwin in his rearing of fancy breeds of pigeons and his inability to maintain the fancy varieties. The same principle is found everywhere at work. Different varieties of peas crossed have produced new varieties only to retirth in the third or fourth season to their originals.

Moreover Dr. Thompson proclaims that he finds, in full harmony with our text, that the life is in the blood and that by blood reaction it can readily be determined which animals belong to a certain species and which do not. The custom heretofore has been to classify animals by their bones and nature, which has always been more or less unsatisfactory. The blood is now found to be the sure test and the speedy one.

Notice, said Pastor Russell, a text which always seemed to us hard and cruel, but which we find, on the contrary, to be merciful and gracious. It reads, "I am a jealous God, visiting the iniquities of the parents upon the children unto the third and four generation of them that hate Me."

The merciful sentiment of this text is now seen: The life is in the blood. The law of heredity carries impurity and disease through the blood in micro-organisms. Were it not for the Divine provision that these small organisms of disease or blood impurity will die out in the third or fourth generation, our race long since would have been wiped off the face of the earth. The Divine arrangement that infectious germ diseases such as syphilis will die out in the third or fourth generation is a most merciful one.

Thus God shows mercy unto thousands of them that love Him and seek to keep the Divine commands. Thus the thorns of man crumble, one after another as the decades slip by, and as they have been doing for centuries. Thus the Bible is seen to stand pre-eminent above all other teachings, demonstrating itself to be the Word of God.

To realize the existence of this mighty God is but to dread His omnipotent strength, unless we can see Him possessed of benevolence and goodness corresponding to His power. Of this fact we are also fully assured by the same evidence which proves His existence, power and wisdom. Not only are we forced to the conclusion that there is a God, and that His power and wisdom are immeasurably beyond our own, but we are forced by reason to the conclusion that the grandest thing created is not superior to its Creator; hence we must conclude that the greatest manifestation of benevolence and justice among men is inferior in scope to that of the Creator, even as man's wisdom and power are inferior to His.

And thus we have before our mental vision the character and attributes of the Great Creator. He is wise, just, loving and powerful; and the scope of His attributes is, of necessity, immeasurably wider than that of His grandest creation.

Separate Tunics Favored by Fashion

A Coral Apron

White Chiffon and Net
Side and Back View.

Orange with Silver Bands.

Black Net in Iris Design

TODAY it is the tunic that makes the gown for afternoon and evening wear. So important a position do these transparent garments occupy in the scale of fashion, that designers have supplied the demand by models of exquisite color, line and decoration. Separate tunics are now in order. And what does that mean? It means that a last year's silk or satin dress can be used for a foundation over which a net, chiffon or mousseline tunic can be placed. The result is a gown of modish charm, of simplicity of construction and of comparatively little cost.

The bright-blue tunic is placed over a dull-gray silk dress. The bodice is cut with a round low top, the front curving down in a bolero line over a beaded chemisette. The little pointed caps form the sleeves. Over the chiffon are ribbon roses in blue and green. Ball fringe finishes the sleeves and gives the touch of the season.

White chiffon is given a prominent place in the story of the separate tunics. It is combined with black net inset in little squares, and here and there are patches of black silk embroidery. White hand embroidery completes the design on the tunic. The bodice, you will notice, drops down below the waist line at the front and curves up in back. There are a front and a back panel, and the side lines between are pointed down. There are half-sleeves that fall over the sleeves of the bodice. White over black satin will be a favorite color alliance this year.

Brilliant orange chiffon combined with silver fringe and bead embroidery forms the exquisite tunic with the crossed lines on bodice and skirt. A wall-of-troy pattern of beads outlines the edge. Pointed caps drop over the sleeves and fringe edges the skirt. The lines of the tunic in front diverge and show much of the underskirt. This is an excellent design for an underdress with a trimmed skirt.

There is a decided preference for coral in the season's colors. It is shown in the "apron" tunic. This is made with straps over the shoulders, a pointed bib effect on the bodice and a long straight skirt. The decoration depends upon exquisite bead embroidery in coral and silver. This entirely covers the bodice and forms a deep hem on the skirt. Over gray or pink satin the tunic is compellingly lovely.

Last is the black net tunic with an iris design in silver and iridescent lavender. It is slashed at one side and has half-length sleeves. There are fine lines of silk embroidery radiating from the shoulders and from the edge of the skirt. At the front a large motif of iris flowers forms the main decoration. Over pale-lavender satin this tunic is to be worn.

Some tunics are of Grecian simplicity. Others show the decoration that hints of oriental colors and gorgeous designs. But all are unquestionably beautiful. They will solve the problem of how to make an old dress appear in a new guise. Allied with harmonious colors, they give emphatic proof that fashions are just as lovely as last year—only more so!

Bright Blue with Ribbon Embroidery.

The Evening Chit-Chat
By Ruth Cameron

"The captain had settled down to live in old Chester; his son, Cyrus, lived with him and his languid daughter-in-law—a young lady of dominant feebleness, who ruled the two men with that most powerful domestic rod — foolish weakness. This combination in a woman will cause a mountain (a masculine mountain) to fly from its base; while kindness, justice and good sense leave it upon unshaken foundations of selfishness. Only when the secrets of all hearts shall be revealed, will it be understood why a man loves a fool, but why he obeys her is obvious enough."—Margaret Deland.

There is a certain kind of selfishness, which, although it is one of the commonest and most troublesome in the world, seems to me is seldom recognized as such,—and that is the selfishness of fear.

People who hamper and hinder and fret and tie down those whom they pretend most to love by fear, usually think they are showing love and tenderness and beautiful solicitude.

As a matter of fact, they are usually giving an evidence of simon pure selfishness.

When the fear tyrant objects to his loved ones doing this or that, because there might be some vague possibility of risk connected with the pleasure, he thinks he objects because he loves them so very much. But, nine times out of ten, the real rock-bottom foundation for the objections is the fact that he knows he will worry and be unhappy.

I know a man who was badly thrown from a horse in his youth, by the breaking of a saddle girth, and had a deepseated fear of horses. And yet this man bought his little boy a pony.

"That gift," he told me, "cost me more self-sacrifice than anything I ever gave him. I made myself buy the pony, because I believed that the exercise would do him good physically and give him pleasure and develop courage and self-reliance in him. But it was weeks before I could go out to ride without suffering agonies of anxiety. Again and again I longed to take it from him, but I would not let myself, because I believed I ought not to allow my fear to deprive him of pleasure and benefit."

What an extremely rare scruple that is.

How many people, so far from being capable of such heights, shamelessly descend to the depths of hindering those they love of pleasure and profit, by saying frankly and openly, "If you do that I know I shall worry."

"Every night," chronicles Mrs. Deland, "the captain screwed down all the windows on the lower floor; in the morning Cyrus pulled the screws out. Cyrus had a pretty taste in horseflesh, but Gussie (the young lady of dominant foolishness) cried so when he once bought a trotter, that he had long ago resigned himself to a friendly beast of twenty-seven years, who could not go much out of a walk, because he had spring-halt in both hind legs."

What one of us does not know some "Gussie" in real life, whose fears bring similar discomfort and inconvenience and deprivation into his or her home circle?

And what one of us does not, to some extent, however small, have his share of the selfishness of fear?

The instinct to preserve our own peace of mind at the expense of other people's comfort and pleasure, seems to be a natural and almost universal one.

Unfortunately, it is usually regarded as a virtue, or at the worst, a weakness.

If we can only come to recognize it as an actual failing, a real vice and happiness destroyer, surely we shall have gone part ways toward curing ourselves of it.

Ruth Cameron

SUGGESTION FOR AFTERNOON GOWN.

Above model shows a new treatment of the fashionable little bolero. The bodice is made shortwaisted, with surplice front, finished at bottom with heavy cord and narrow ruffle of the material, which feature gives the bolero effect. Lace insertion and faggoting are profusely used for decorative purposes, and the opening between surplices pieces is filled in with a shield of the material trimmed with small buttons.

ARCHAEOLOGY OF THE DOMINION

Government Expert Lectures of Features Exhibited in British Columbia

There was a large attendance in the chemistry building at McGill, Montreal, recently, the occasion being an interesting lecture given by Mr. Harlan I. Smith, the government expert archaeologist, who has just completed a survey of Western Canada. The lecturer spoke on his recent discoveries in the northwest. He proceeded to show how he had made explorations in village sites and graves of the southern interior of British Columbia, and the interior of Washington. In his discoveries he found that the material culture of the prehistoric people was similar to that of the Indians now inhabiting the regions, and that the influence of one culture upon another was greater in earlier times. The culture of southern British Columbia he found to be a unit; that of the coast another unit, and in central Washington was a culture differing in some respcts from that of the interior of southern British Columbia and also unlike that of the coast. The remains of the Lillooet valley showed influences of the coast as well as of the interior.

"The southern interior of British Columbia," he said, "is arid and the winters cold. Vegetation is scanty, and, except on the highlands, there are few trees. The prehistoric inhabitants, like the Salish Indians to-day, relied upon many limited resources. They had the salmon from the rivers, besides the deer and the elk, which furnished food and clothing with bones and antlers for tools and implements. The bark of the sage-brush supplied a fibre for cloth, and many domestic articles were made of stone.

"The age of the specimens secured is uncertain, but the absence of European objects in many of the places explored establishes the fact that the remains there found antedate the coming of white traders. Bows and arrows were used; the arrow points usually chipped from stone, but also ground from slate, pieces of bone or antler. Digging stick handles like those used by the present Indians, were furnished out of antlers.

"In preparing food, pestles and mortars of stone were used, and fish knives made of slate. Mortars are scarce, but flat stones which probably served the same purpose are common. There is no pottery. Baskets or boxes, it is thought, were used for boiling food, the number of burnt and cracked stones found had probably served to heat water. Among the tools were wedges of elk antlers, stone hammers, adzes or chisels of nephrite, whetstones, carving-knives of beaver teeth, stone scrapers and drills. Coarse sandstone semi-cylinders, grooved in the flat side and similar to the modern arrow shaft smoother, were common. These are not found on the coast, and their presence strengthens the affiliation of the culture in this area with that of the plateaus and the east. There were awls made of bone, skin scrapers, some of stone like those used by the Shuswap and Thompson River Indians, others of bone; and flat needles of bone, such as are now made of iron and used for sewing cattail stalks into mats to cover the houses. War-like clubs were found, one made of copper, others of whale-ribs, and some of these were carved with human heads in a style resembling that of the coast. There were also daggers of bone and of antler. For dress the skins of deer and birds were used, as well as fabrics of sage-brush bark and other fibres. Head scratchers, hair ornaments, nose-bars and ear pendants, copper, bone and shell beads, perforated teeth and claws of animals, were worn; and the body was decorated with red and yellow ochre and blue paint.

"The people gambled in those days with dice made out of woodchuck teeth, similar to those of beaver teeth still used by the Indians. Tubes were found, like the gambling implements of to-day. The old pipes were made of steatite, shaped like a wineglass and with incised designs. These pipes and the mortars are like those found in South California. The modern Indians occasionally used the tubular pipe, until quite recently.

The art of the people is best shown by the work on the daggers and the digging sticks, dentalium shells and pipes. The circle-and-dot design is frequent here, as well as to the south and west. Graves were made in the sand along the streams, and on the tops of the lower hills and terraces. Graves under rock slides occur in Nicola valley. The body was laid on the ground, and the rocks above were loosened so as to cause them to slide down and cover the body. In all the graves the bodies were flexed on the side; some were wrapped in cloths and covered with mats and rushes. With the dead were buried the articles used in daily life—arrow points, celts, needles, beads, and other objects. There is evidence of only one type and culture in this region. The modern Indians make their graves like the ancient; they knew the use of the rock-slide burial, and they interpret the conventional marks found on the prehistoric remains; yet differences exist between the old and the new. The moderns make small arrow points and believe the large points made in the excavations were made in a mythical period, and the modern pipe is a bowl or an elbow-crook, like the type found on the plains.

"The absence of pottery is characteristic of the whole northwest. Ethnological investigations have shown a connection with the recent culture of this area with that of the Rocky Mountain region.

"On the whole the prehistoric culture of British Columbia bears a greater affinity to that of the western plateaus than to that of the north Pacific coast. Both the physical type and the culture suggest that the peoples of the coast and those of the interior developed on distinct lines and that points of resemblance are due to contact, greater in the past than at present. In recent years the regions seem to have taken elements from the east.

"The coast of British Columbia," proceeded the lecturer, "has a very moist climate. Very warm and very cold climate is unknown, and the vegetation is luxuriant. The tribes of the coast make ocean-going canoes of single cedar trees and build large houses of the same wood, which is also made into implements and utensils, and the bark supplies garments, bags, mats and the like. The shell heaps of refuse from the ancient houses mark the sites of the villages. More than a hundred and fifty of these were noted in a region of less than a thousand miles square on the north end of Vancouver Island, and the opposite mainland. They were generally at the mouths of fresh water streams, and several hundred yards long by five or six feet high, while a few miles in length, with a maximum height of over nine feet. These heaps are of great age. The stump of a Douglas fir tree, more than six feet in diameter, stood on one heap, with layers over eight feet in depth, in which were found artificiates and human remains. An ordinary stump on this heap showed four hundred annual rings within its burned periphery, and the circumference of another stump exceeded twenty-eight feet. This indicates an age for the top layers of more than five hundred years, and a greater age for the bottom layers.

"The shell heap at Port Hammond, in the upper Fraser delta, is twenty miles by water from the present sea shore, and by land the nearest point is over ten miles away. The modern Indians use the water route, and prefer to live near the shell beds. It is hard to believe that they would carry shellfish from the present seashore to the heaps at Port Hammond. The time required for building the delta into the sea may furnish a basis for estimating the age of the heaps at Port Hammond. If the early Indians, like the Indians of to-day, used tools and implements of cedar, this would explain the scarcity of archaeological specimens in the shell heaps of the sea beaches. Besides the points used for fish hooks and harpoons, net-sinkers of perforated pebbles were found, with fish knives of slate, pestles and mortars.

"The burial mounds of the region present similarities of structure with the cairns, and one may be derived from the other. Skeletons are rarely found in the shell heaps, except in the deltas of the Fraser, Stillaguamish and Skagit rivers. In the Fraser delta they were usually found in the rear portion of the heap, with numerous unbroken strata above them. Two distinct types are represented in the remains apparently co-existent, since they are found in the same layers. If tree burial prevailed in former times as at present, it would account for the scarcity of human remains in the shell heaps of the coast. The objects found in the heaps of the lower Fraser river are more numerous and of higher artistic value than in those of the coast or the other deltas. The difference in character between the shell heaps of the deltas and the coast seems to be due to conditions of soil and modes of life.

"The prehistoric people lived in many respects like the present natives on the Fraser delta. They depended largely upon shell fish, fished and used retrieving harpoons for large sea mammals, and they hunted the mountain goat, the deer and the elk. They made garments of skins, and they were workers in wood. The natives of British Columbia coast probably did not chip stones. The chipped points frequently found on the Fraser river and at Saanich resemble those of the Thompson river region. Those of the Puget Sound and the coast of Washington are more like the chipped points of Columbia river. Some objects frequently found in the interior are not met with in the shell mounds of Fraser river. Neither chipped stone drills or knives, nor dice or teeth were found; there were no objects buried with the dead. The similarity of culture of the prehistoric people in the Fraser river delta and in Saanich coincide with the distribution of languages at the present day. The Salish languages reach the Gulf of Georgia and southward to Shoal Water bay. In the same latitude the same dialect is spoken east and west of the Gulf of Georgia. Vancouver Island and the opposite mainland must, therefore, have a common history. It is probable that an early migration from the interior carried the art of stone chipping, the decorative art, and the pipes, to the coast. Here it should be noted that the highest type of art on the northwest coast never extended south of Comox, and never reached the west coast of Vancouver. A few specimens point to similarity between the prehistoric people of the Fraser delta and those of the north. The most striking is the labret, which in historic time was not found south of Milbank Sound.

"One result of the migration referred to may have been the modification of burial customs in the southeast of Vancouver Island. The earliest known form of burial, long antedating contact with the whites, was in stone cairns. Later the bodies were put in wooden chests, which were placed in the ground, or in trees, in caves, or on little islands. Sometimes a canoe was used for a chest. On the whole, it may be said that the culture of the ancient people of the shell heaps was in essential particulars similar to that of the tribes now inhabiting the same area, though it was more strongly influenced from the interior. To follow out the course of its development it will be necessary to search out older deposits.

"In general, the culture of the North Pacific coast does not extend far inland. Northward its limits are unknown, but southward it coalesces with that from the Columbia river in the region between Seattle and Shoalwater bay. In the interior we have a plateau culture differing somewhat at the north from that at the south. Several small culture areas lie adjacent to these. Each culture appears to have developed independently, but to have been influenced by one or more of the others."

In conclusion, the lecturer said the experience showed the advisability of conducting archaeological work in co-operation with students of living tribes. A study of the Indian living in the country under exploration usually throws light on archaeological finds made there, while an understanding of the antiquities of a region helped the study of the Indian living there. The continuity of the historical problem was met by a continuity of method.

In selecting fields of operation it seemed best always to continue explorations in an area so far distant from one examined that new conditions would be encountered. This would make it probable that new facts would be discovered, if not a new culture area. At the same time the field should be so near to the old that no culture may intervene. Thus the culture boundaries may be determined and new areas discovered. Exploration carried on by this continuous method made the experience already gained of service in a new and adjacent field, while discoveries in such a new field would lead to a better understanding of those previously examined. It remained to determine the northern, eastern, and southern limits of the general plateau culture, how far it may be divided into local areas, and the inter-relation of these with each other and with outside areas.

He said that specimens were few between the whole region lying between the mouth of the Columbia, the Santa Barbara Islands, the cliff and Pueblo region of Arizona and New Mexico, and the mound region of the Mississippi valley. Literature was also scanty, and the whole region north to the Arctic and all that of the plains towards the east and south throughout the plateaus and Nevada remained to be explored.

PROCESS OF FRENCH JUDICIAL SYSTEM

Suspected Persons Treated as Guilty Till Proving Their Innocence

In order to appreciate the conditions under which a French criminal case is tried, it is necessary to go back far beyond the opening of the trial itself. To begin with, there seems to be no restraint similar to that imposed in this country by the fear of contempt of court. The newspapers have, practically, as free a hand as the police themselves in investigating all the details and circumstances of the crime. Their representatives collect and arrange evidence, and often become important witnesses. And, as an inevitable consequences, every newspaper-reader — that is to say, every Frenchman — has prejudged every interesting case long before it comes for trial.

The "Acte d'Accusation" itself — the indictment, which is, in substance, the brief for the prosecution—is published in full several days before the trial is opened, so that every prospective juryman has ample opportunity for discussing with his friends all the points on which he is expected to keep an open mind. Even during the trial, too, day by day the evidence is weighed and sifted and new theories put forward in a way that in this country would be considered intolerable.

The cardinal point of difference between the two systems is that in France, contrary to our own sense of fairness, the onus of proof is placed on the defendant. Thus it is that a suspected person is treated as a guilty one, and every trick and trap is employed that may procure a confession or even make a breach in the defence.

At the preliminary inquiry, which may extend over many months, the investigating magistrate charges the accused with perjury, confronts him unexpectedly with witnesses, and even subjects him to what is nothing less than the mental torture (whether he be innocent or guilty) of the "reconstruction" of the crime.

When at last the trial commences the presiding judge undertakes a duty which to us seems extraordinary. He personally examines every witness, including the prisoner, his brief for the purpose being, of course, the "Acte d'Accusation." His duty is to test the evidence as severely as he can by cross-examination; but, unlike our own judges, he is forbidden to discuss the arguments by way of "summing-up." There is also, of course, a counsel for the prosecution, so that the prisoner has to make the best fight he can, both against counsel and against the court.

In theory this procedure is supposed to bring out all the strong points that there may be in the defence; but how it works out in practice may be gathered from this passage in which "La Liberte" commented on the demeanor of the judge in a certain case, with bewildering freedom, the other day. "The president is making a visible effort to preserve, as he is bound to do, an impartial attitude, and not to allow himself to be led away by professional instinct. His success has only been partial, certainly; but at least he has shown good intentions, for which he deserves credit. Good intentions, however, are not strong enough to overcome habits of long standing."

On the other hand, quite remarkable latitude is given to the prisoner in the conduct of his defence. He is represented by counsel, but is, nevertheless, allowed to question witnesses himself, and even to interpose frequently with short speeches and appeals to the jury.

The French law of evidence is a thing that no Englishman without a special training can understand; and, by one side or the other—usually by both—side issues are introduced, ancient history investigated, and a variety of matters discussed that seem to have no bearing whatever upon the case.

Finally, the case goes to the jury of twelve men — who, by the way, are selected from a small panel that is published some time before the trial, so that if the friends of the prisoner contemplate any attempt to "tamper" the path is made easy for them. A simple majority — a majority of one, that is—is sufficient to make the verdict a satisfactory one; and from this verdict the only appeal is to the Cour de Cassation, which can only distrub it on a point of law and order a new trial.

It would, of course, be absurd to describe absolutely a judicial system that has stood the test of many years; and it must be admitted that the system, while it makes it almost inconceivable that a guilty man should be acquitted, has disclosed the innocence of a number of prisoners whose guilt seemed certain. But if there is to be an error of justice under such a system it must almost invariably fell against an innocent but nervous or terrified prisoner; and it is essentially of a class of things that is best described as entirely "un-British."

erican machinery. Another thing that handicaps German progress is over-economy. They grudge spending money, and if a new machine comes out that's an improvement on the old, the German won't buy it until he has used up the old.

"Where the American's intelligence comes in is in his willingness to spend money when necessary—there is no short-sighted son-saving done among our business men. One hears great talk of the high standard of business integrity in Germany, yet at lunch the other day with German financiers it was admitted that there was no comparison between English standards and their own—the English is the highest standard of integrity in the world.

"I was told that their German aristocracy was entering largely into business now to get rich quick and they don't care how it's done. Their methods have generally affected business ideals. It is my own opinion that the English are the highest type physically, morally, and mentally over here.

"I don't believe in the talked-of industrial world-dominance of Germany. Just wait till our markets get filled up and we're forced to flood Europe with our 'drummers.' They'll show Germans what push is. Germany has interested me through the changes which have taken place since I was here before. But we have nothing to learn from her, while she's got much to learn from us.

"Europe sends me home more in love with my own land—our ways will never be Europe's ways or needs. They are two civilizations, too—radically different. One has to remember that in passing judgment. The trouble with stay-homes is that they criticise without a proper basis of knowledge. Every American business man ought to take the summer off and come over here—it will do him good—it's done me lots of good."

EDISON ON THE GERMANS.

Predicts Keen American Rivalry by American Competitors.

Mr. Thomas Edison before sailing home from Hamburg expressed some remarkable views about Germany and the Germans to the special correspondent of the New York World who accompanied him throughout his European tour.

He was much interested in industrial Hamburg, saying that there as elsewhere Germany's new buildings were distressingly uncouth. "There's something wrong with Germany's aesthetic lobe—they feed their brains with too much beer—result, beer architecture. The only dignified buildings I've seen are copies of Greek and Roman. In architecture as in all else Germans lack proper initiative—they are good adapters, that's all.

"I was surprised while going through miles of factories in Berlin to see how little there was new. Everywhere Ami-

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

The cleanest, the easiest to care for. Users of coal must remember that the ordinary heater is a big care to operate. That its smoke and ashes entail dusting, curtain washing and carpet sweeping. Think then of the easy operation and the cleanliness of Cole's Hot Blast. This heater has a guaranteed smoke-proof feed door through which a current of air draws the smoke directly across the top of the stove to the stove pipe,—away from the opening. Contrast this simple, cleanly feed with the side door in an ordinary heater. Side doors used on other stoves permit the escape of dirty smoke, unpleasant gases and accumulated soot drops from it. If you over-fill a side door stove, coal falls to the floor. The air-tight feature embodied in Cole's Hot Blast Heater is an everlasting advantage in its favor. Allow us to show you this perfect heater before you buy. (R-17)

TRAFALGAR DAY.

London, Oct. 21.—The annual celebration of Trafalgar Day took place to-day. Lady Fremantle laid a wreath on the tomb of the heroes at St. Paul's Cathedral, and Nelson's monument in Trafalgar Square was lavishly decorated, including several maple wreaths from Canada and various other wreaths from Australia, South Africa and New Zealand.

Winnipeg, Oct. 21.—Though the weather is forbidding, the torchlight procession and the illumination of the city hall in honor of Trafalgar Day will be carried through to-night without change.

KILLED BY DETECTIVE.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 21.—Police Detective Joseph Bianchi, in charge of the Italian squad, shot and killed Walter Stanbridge, alias Frank Harris, aged 28, who fled when the detective attempted to arrest him. Bianchi came upon Stanbridge when he was attempting to dispose of a curtain for the possession of which he could not give a satisfactory explanation. Bianchi attempted to arrest him, but Stanbridge fled down Washington street and started to dodge into the alley between Second and Third avenues. As the fleeing man turned Bianchi fired, the bullet striking the fugitive in the head. The detective was not arrested. Stanbridge's home was in Memphis. He was recently released from the city hospital, where he had been treated for the drug habit.

FUNDS FOR WOLFE MONUMENT.

Winnipeg, Oct. 21.—F. C. Wade, of Vancouver, reports excellent results of his personal canvass for funds for the Wolfe monument. The donation of the Canadian Club of $500 has been seconded by Lieut.-Governor D. C. Cameron, who donated $100. Premier Roblin handed his cheque for the same amount. A large number of prominent citizens have donated $100, and donations of $50 and smaller amounts are coming in very rapidly. A more energetic and determined solicitor for funds could not be found, and it is Wade's intention to stay with this matter until Winnipeg donates $5,000.

NEW GRAIN ROUTE FROM WEST TO EAST

Last Rail Laid on C. P. R. Line From Victoria Harbor to Bethany

Montreal, Nov. 21.—The last rail on the C. P. R. new grain route from Victoria Harbor to Bethany has been laid. Word to that effect was received at the local headquarters of the C. P. R. yesterday afternoon and as soon as the ballasting has been completed the line will be ready for regular traffic. This should not take more than a couple of months at the most, as the greater part of the ballasting is already finished. What ballasting that will have to be done before the line is ready for traffic is in the vicinity of Lindsay and Bethany. At Lindsay, where the biggest bridge of the line is being finished, the builders have a big staff of men at work and it is expected to be completed in very short time. There are several other bridges on the line, but the only one of importance is where the line crosses from Lake Simcoe to Lake Couchiching. Here there is a 160-foot span swing bridge.

The completion of this line by the Canadian Pacific is of singular importance. It will play an important part in the transportation of the grain crops of the west to Montreal and the east.

When this new line is in operation the grain can be forwarded from the head of the lakes by steamer to Victoria harbor, on Georgian Bay, the western terminus of the line, and from there by rail to Montreal. The advantages of the new route are manifold. First of all, it will cut down the time consumed in shipping the grain from the head of the lakes by many hours. Compared with the Owen Sound-Toronto route it means a saving in haul of nearly one hundred miles, and it is obviously much shorter than the all-water route. Another advantage is that it is a line with practically no grade, a feature that will tend to make the running of trains much easier.

Outside of its usefulness as a grain line the new branch will have considerable value as a passenger line. It will allow the C. P. R. to tap a country which they have not heretofore had and it will give good transportation facilities to a large farming populace.

The new line starts from the dock at Victoria harbor and crosses the Toronto-Sudbury line of the C. P. R., 13 miles out. At Bethany, 14 miles out of Peterboro, it forms a junction with the main Toronto-Montreal line of the C. P. R.

The Toronto Construction Company has had the work of building the road. It is 88 miles from Victoria harbor to Bethany and 85-pound rails have been laid. In connection with the new line the C. P. R. has spent huge sums of money in equipping Victoria harbor as the western terminus of the line. Two wharves 3,600 feet long and 60 feet wide have been built on either side of the harbor, and these are separated by a waterway 600 feet wide, giving ample room for the berthing of a dozen large lake boats at the same time. There has also been built a large storage elevator, a boiler house, two 1,000 feet freight and flour sheds, boarding houses, cottages, etc. The elevator is one of the largest in Canada. It has a storage capacity at present of 2,000,000 bushels of grain but it is so constructed that it can in future be enlarged to a capacity of 10,000,000 bushels.

SITUATION IN SPAIN.

Madrid, Oct. 21.—King Alfonso to-day signed a decree re-establishing the constitutional guarantees throughout Spain which were suspended September 19, at the height of the recent strike disorders.

LINEMAN ELECTROCUTED.

Vancouver, Oct. 21.—William Gooding, a lineman employed by the British Columbia Electric Railway Company, was electrocuted here yesterday while engaged in making repairs to some wiring on the company's car barns. It is not known how the accident happened. Doctors worked over the man for nearly an hour, but their efforts were without avail.

IMPROVING AEROPLANES.

New York, Oct. 21.—The Wright brothers, Orville and Wilbur, have perfected a discovery to add vastly to the safety of aviation. A special dispatch to the Herald to-day from the Wright camp, Kill Devil Hill, N. C., says: "Orville Wright, in making the announcement, stated that the device was for the automatic control of gliders and power-driven aeroplanes to keep such machines at a proper balance in the air.

"The device is expected to be put into practical use to-day for the first time. No description of its features was given by the inventors."

CANADIAN IMMIGRATION.

Over 241,000 New Arrivals in First Half of Fiscal Year.

Ottawa, Oct. 21. — Immigration arrivals for September total 29,076, as compared with 24,034 for September, 1910, an increase of 21 per cent. The American arrivals numbered 11,493 as compared with 10,256 for September last year, an increase of 12 per cent., while arrivals by ocean ports were 17,593, against 13,778 for the same month last year.

For the first half of the fiscal year the total immigration amounts to 241,930, as against 204,382 for the same period last year.

REVOLUTIONISTS ARE FORTIFYING POSITION

Two Thousand Chinese Troops Reported to Have Joined Ranks of Rebels

Shanghai, Oct. 21.—Refugees from Hankow arriving here to-day state that when the revolutionists fell back to Wu Chang it was only to obtain a new supply of ammunition, and that they at once returned to the fray and made a sensational landing on the Hankow side. The rebels are fortifying the hills at the rear of the Han Yang steel works.

Native newspapers state that after the retreat of the imperial forces at Hankow, 2,000 surrendered and subsequently joined the rebels. This has not been confirmed from foreign sources.

Looters Shot.

London, Oct. 21.—Special dispatches from Shanghai report rioting at Hankow, Han Yan and Wu. Martial law was declared in all three cities, but the rebels were only able to maintain partial order. At Hankow several looters were shot. At Han Yan both rioting and looting were indulged in.

A cablegram from Kiu Klang, sent by a correspondent who witnessed Thursday's fighting, says the casualties were slight, but that immense fires were started by bursting shells.

Messages from Tokio tell of feverish Japanese military and naval activities. This news, it is said, caused great anxiety to the Pekin government.

U. S. May Send Marines.

Manila, Oct. 21.—Local merchants received advices from the naval authorities to-day to deliver all food supplies which have been contracted for in behalf of the marines stationed here. It was announced that this assembling of supplies was a precaution in view of the possibility that the entire force would be dispatched for emergency duty in the foreign concession at Hankow.

That the naval authorities regard the present disturbance in China as likely to be of long duration is indicated by the fact that the collier Abarenda, which sails this week for Shanghai, took ammunition for a long campaign.

MANY KILLED BY EXPLOSION.

Caltanisse, Sicily, Oct. 21.—An explosion of gas in a sulphur mine at Trabonella to-day set the mine on fire and caused many deaths. The bodies of twenty men have been recovered and some other miners who were working in the galleries some distance from the mouth of the pit were still missing.

ALLEGED VIOLATION OF TRAMWAYS ACT

Vancouver, Oct. 21.—Charged with an infraction of the Tramways Regulations Act, in that he allowed people to stand on the steps of a street car, William Henderson, a conductor on an interurban car, was to have appeared in the police court this morning. The prosecutor in the case is the attorney-general and it is the first time that such a charge has ever come before the local courts. This morning an arrangement for an adjournment had been made before the court opened and Henderson did not appear. The case will be proceeded with next Thursday.

On September 11, Henderson was the conductor on a car running between here and New Westminster. As the car left the depot on Carrall street, it is alleged that a man named Williams was standing on the steps, and as the car swung out into Hastings street Williams was caught by a Harris street car proceeding west on Hastings street. He was rolled between the cars and is still in the hospital suffering from severe internal injuries he received in the accident.

TWO NEW SENATORS.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—A. C. Bell, ex-M.P. for Pictou, and A. A. C. Lariviere, ex-M. P. for Provencher, have been appointed to the senate. The latter succeeds Senator Chevrier, who died recently at St. Boniface, Man.

BANDITS ON WARPATH.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 21.—Casas Grandes is threatened by an attack from bandits, according to telegrams received by Major Francisco Miranda, commander of the military garrison at that place, now in Ciudad Juarez. A telegram to him to-day said bandits had robbed Colonia Juarez yesterday and were marching on Casas Grandes.

MINNESOTA ORE DEPOSITS.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 21.—J. J. Hill chairman of the Great Northern railroad, made it plain yesterday that if the United States Steel Corporation wants to cancel its lease of the Great Northern ore properties in Minnesota it is welcome to do so.

On his return from Washington he was asked: "Do you think that the United States Steel Corporation can afford to let up on the Great Northern properties after the big sums spent by it in developments?"

"If they can afford to do so, we certainly can," he replied. "If the steel corporation wants to cancel its lease, that is its privilege. The ore is there —the stuff to make steel of. Outside of our properties, the steel corporation has not enough ore to run it for twenty-five years."

MEXICAN OUTLOOK.

Montreal, Oct. 21.—Lord Cowdray, head of the English contracting firm of S. Pearson & Son, which has been building public works in Mexico for nearly a quarter of a century, is at the Windsor hotel. Lord Cowdray has just arrived from the City of Mexico, and says that the clouds which somewhat covered the horizon of the republic, and caused apprehension have been dissipated. Only eight weeks ago foreign capital looked with considerable alarm upon the future, but now confidence has been restored, and the credit of the republic in the foreign money markets is as good as ever.
